B.C. to Enforce Fuel Guidelines

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

Legislation allowing the B.C. Energy Commission to impose mandatory guidelines for increases in the price of petroleum products in B.C. was proclaimed by cabinet today.

Attorney-General Alex Macdonald said sections of Part Four of the Energy Act proclaimed to act as both "a stick and a carrot" to force oil companies to follow recent provincial guidelines allowing an eight-cent a gallon increase in the price of gasoline and home heating fuel.

The sections which would actually give the commission power to control all price increases was not proclaimed, however, said Macdonald, because the cabinet hopes the guidelines sections alone will persuade oil companies to comply with the commission's wishes.

If companies don't comply, Macdonald said, the government may proclaim the enforcing section.

The "carrot" part of the legislation, said Macdonald, is a system of consumer grants promised by the government to subsidize users of high-priced petroleum products in B.C.

Oil companies who do not comply with price guidelines would not be eligible for those grants.

Details of the consumer grant system have not been announced but Macdonald said they may be offered in the fall to help householders fight increasing home heating oil costs.

The attorney-general insisted the guidelines would be mandatory under the newly-proclaimed legislation but he would not say how they could be enforced other than through provision of the consumer grants.

The sections proclaimed by cabinet today would force companies to provide the commission with detailed information on the cost of operations and allow the commission to enter any oil refinery or other petroleum industry building to inspect the company.

Grain Docks Head for Halt

VANCOUVER (CP) - Grain workers here said today they plan to picket waterfront elevators Friday night if layoff notices to more than 100 employees are not rescinded.

A company spokesman said the firms will then retaliate by locking out employees at all five terminals here, bringing the export of grain from the city to a complete halt.

Union stewards were informed of the pending layoffs Wednesday afternoon, despite warnings by Grain Workers Union, Local 333, that it would consider such action a lockout.

The notices, to take effect Friday, were posted following an unsuccessful attempt the previous day by Federal Labor Minister John Munro and Wheat Board Minister Otto Lang to resolve the long labor dispute which has dragged on for nearly four months.

Since wage recommendations made by conciliation commissioner Dr. G. Neil Perry were rejected by the companies in May, a continuing slowdown by union members has reduced grain exports from Vancouver by as much as 50 per cent.

The federal government has pledged to legislate the terms of the Perry report as a binding settlement of the dispute if no agreement is reached before the regular recall of Parliament Sept. 30.

Union and company officials differed on how many employees were to be laid off.

Union Business Agent Henry Kancs said 90 workers are to be laid off at Pacific Elevators and "over half" of the 150 employees at Alberta Wheat Pool expect to be laid off.

"And there is a great possibility there will be more at the other terminals," he added.

William Mead, spokesman for the companies, said layoff notices have been posted for 50 employees at Pacific, 50 at Alberta, 30 at United Grain Growers, "and possibly others at Saskatchewan Wheat Pool."

Kancs said the union will only picket elevators where there are layoffs but added he expects all employees to be locked out, causing a total shutdown of grain handling operations.

He called the companies' move a "power play" to be used at a meeting scheduled Monday between grain company executives and Munro and Lang.

Mead said the layoffs are inevitable in the wake of an intensified union slowdown.

TOTS 'TOY' KILLS 4

MANILA (UPI)—A hand grenade exploded and killed four school children who mistook it for a toy and tossed it around like a ball, the official Philippine news agency reported today.

Three other children were seriously injured in the explosion Wednesday at a village in Zamboanga Del Sur, 500 miles south of Manila, the agency said.

The children were on their way home from school when they picked up the grenade on the road and started tossing it around like a ball, the report said.

PRICES TO RISE ON BREAD DOUGH

High packaging costs and the soaring price of ingredients means Victorians will soon face a rise in the amount of dough they'll have to pan out for bread, bakery group president John McDonald said today.

"We are presently determining our costs and will have an announcement Saturday," he said.

The head of McDonald Bakery Ltd. said 100-pound sacks of sugar used by bakers have jumped $24 in one year and now cost about $37 each.

Packaging costs have also risen sharply because of shortages of cartons, trays and plastic break wrapping.

In Toronto, bread price increases of up to 10 per cent at the wholesale level are forecast within the next few years. The percentage would be somewhat higher at the retail level.

Near-Collapse Feared In B.C. Forest Industry

The forest industry in B.C. faces a drastic increase in unemployment which could lead to a near-collapse this winter, both union and industry officials predicted today.

"The industry has practically collapsed in the province and we can't see any daylight," said Doug Evans, financial secretary of the International Woodworkers of America Vancouver local.

More than 2,000 of the local's 6,500 members have already been laid off and another 2,000 are out of work in the southern Interior. Between 1,200 and 1,500 are jobless in the New Westminster local and at least 1,165 are unemployed in the Cariboo, Duncan, Victoria and loggers' locals.

Another 2,000 men will be out of work soon in the interior unless some relief is provided, an industry spokesman said.

"The market is the worst we have ever seen it," said Peter Bentley, executive vice-president of Canadian Forest Products ltd.

"In the 1969-70 downturn it was easier to sell at sacrifice prices than it is now and in the meantime our cost structure has risen sharply. Mills are selling at below production costs."

Bentley said he didn't expect any improvement before the third quarter of 1975.

Evans agreed with Bentley's view of the situation, saying, "There are going to be masses out of work and we expect this picture to last right through the winter."

Al MacDonald, manager of the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association, blamed the situation on rising labor costs following the recent IWA contract settlement; the increasing cost of borrowing money; inflation and a general decline in housing starts especially in the U.S., the industry's major customer.

Evans put the blame on the federal government for allowing the prime interest rate to

Lumber stays in stacks as demand and prices drop

Lumber Down 5%

The retail price of lumber in Victoria has dropped five per cent in the past two weeks and could drop even further as the industry goes into its "worst slump ever."

Herb Doman of Doman's Industries Ltd. said his company is "following the market down, but we don't know just where the bottom is yet."

John Higgins, sales supervisor of Stewart and Hudson building supply branch on Gorge Road said the average retail price of lumber had gone down five per cent this month.

He said trying to predict another drop in the domestic market price was "comparable to playing the stock market. It's really hard to tell when or if another drop will come."

But, he said, the local market will always eventually follow the foreign market "and that's down drastically."

"There is no relief in sight until the foreign market picks up again."

Bob Gonnason, manager of Irly Bird Building Supplies in Victoria, said prices in his store had also dropped five per cent.

Egg Market In a Mess —Plumptre

Times News Services

TORONTO — The federal government was blamed twice-over for the high cost of eggs by Food Prices Review Board chairman Beryl Plumptre Wednesday.

Calling the egg market a "mess," she slammed Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan for new policies governing the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency, now staggering under a $10 million deficit.

"The consumer has suffered on two counts," she told a Canadian National Exhibition directors luncheon. "He has paid more than necessary for eggs at the store and now he must also pay in taxes to bail out the government."

The egg marketing agency, she said, encourages overproduction by high support prices and when demand for them drops off — because of high store prices — the eggs are sold at a loss to processors in the United States.

Stocks Slump With U.S. GNP

Times News Services

The U.S. Gross National Product dropped by .8 per cent during the second quarter of the year — the theoretical definition of a recession — and in response, Wall Street slumped to a new four-year low.

The Dow Jones average of 30 key industrial stocks fell to 699.2 after two hours of trading, the first time it has been below 700 since mid-1970 and off almost 12 points from market opening.

In later trading, the index squeaked back past the 700 mark to 704.79.

The second straight quarterly decline in the GNP was a slight improvement over preliminary figures for the period issued last month which showed a 1.2 per cent drop.

On the other hand, the commerce department said, inflation in the second quarter rose faster than reported last month — 9.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted rate instead of 8.8 per cent.

The small improvement in the GNP, which measures the growth rate of the U.S. economy, did not change the fact that the economy has failed to show "real" or non-inflated growth for two consecutive quarters. The first quarter decline was 7 per cent and was due chiefly to the energy crisis.

A two consecutive-quarter decline is the shorthand definition of "recession" but administration economists insist the situation is not bad enough to warrant that term.

Meanwhile, though it cost less to buy fresh fruits and vegetables in the U.S. in July, higher prices for mortgages, services, gasoline and other non-food items pushed the Consumer Price Index up a matching .8 per cent.

A cost-of-living report released Wednesday pushed the overall increase to almost 12 per cent in the past year.

ABDUCTED TOT STRANGLED

EINDHOVEN, Netherlands (Reuter) — Caroline Pessers, the five-year-old kidnapped daughter of a Dutch cigar magnate, is dead and a 20-year-old man has confessed to strangling her, police said today.

Caroline was dragged into a car Tuesday while playing outside her home in Aalst. Police said she was the first victim of a kidnapping for ransom in Dutch history.

A police spokesman said the young man, identified only by his initials, E. Van L. of Eindhoven, has confessed to strangling the girl.

The man was arrested at his home early today.

11 Must Disclose Holdings

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Victoria city council today named those senior officials — 11 in all — who will have to disclose their land holdings and financial interests to the mayor and aldermen no later than Sept. 15, under requirements of the Public Officials and Employees Disclosure Act.

The list, says city manager Jim Bramley, is "a sincere attempt by council to come up with the names of officials who could stand to do themselves some good through their positions."

But, asked by a reporter why certain senior officials had not been included, Bramley said council had not considered it necessary to do so because the officials in question were not in positions where a serious conflict of interest could arise.

The omissions include city comptroller Mason Sheldrick, the man in charge of the city coffers, Police Chief Jack Gregory and Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

Bramley admitted they were on the 10-name list he suggested to council, which arrived at its own designations after a recent in-camera discussion.

The official list, set out in a bylaw which was scheduled for introduction at today's council meeting, names in addition to Bramley:

Cyclist 'Disappeared Into Thin Air'

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Twenty-six days ago Lothar Doliwa of Duncan got on his 750 c.c. Norton motorcycle for a 12-mile ride to his parents' home in Crofton—and hasn't been heard from since.

"It's as if he disappeared into thin air," his distressed parents, Hans and Hilda Doliwa, said in an interview.

Lothar, 23, isn't the kind to take off without letting someone know, they said.

He and his yellow Norton have simply vanished.

"We've checked the route he probably would have taken to our place, but no one saw him and we found nothing," Mr. and Mrs. Doliwa said.

"We even went over some of the back roads and searched for him with five of his friends."

The last time they saw or heard from him was Friday, July 26. He said he would be coming home for a visit on Sunday.

They learned he went to a friend's place in Duncan on the Saturday and stayed up talking with her until 3 a.m. Sunday. There was no hint of any problem. He returned home, got up at 8 a.m., grabbed his crash helmet and a wallet containing about $125, and left.

Jackson heard the door shut, the engine start, then went back to sleep.

The Doliwas have checked with RCMP in Bralorne (where the family lived until 1960), in Houston (where a friend lives), and with Lothar's union hall in Vancouver. Each time they drew a blank.

GLASS GOES DOWN SMOOTH AS JELLO

The provincial government may have found a new way to recycle glass — feed it to the civil servants, in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Wednesday's menu in the lunchroom promised a tasty selection of pea soup, spare ribs on rice, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots — and broken glass dessert.

An alarmed cook at the cafeteria was quick to assure customers the cafeteria was not serving ground up debris from the government's refurbishing project.

Broken-glass dessert is a jello dish prepared with whipped cream and graham crackers that has a stained glass effect.

Turks, Greeks Set Cyprus Talks

Times News Services

Turkey today began freeing Greek Cypriot civilian prisoners on Cyprus and Cypriot President Glafkos Clerides said he will meet today or tomorrow with tukrish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash in a possible first step toward a peace settlement.

About 40 Greek Cypriot civilian prisoners to the United Nations peacekeeping force at the Ledra Palace hotel on the so-called green Line dividing the Greek and Turkish cypriot sectors of Nicosia.

Clerides told newsmen his first meeting with Denktash would be restricted to humanitarian problems but expressed hope that it would serve as the foundation for more extensive talks.

"It is the beginning of something which can develop into a big step," he said.

Denktash had threatened earlier to declare the northern third of Cyprus an independent Turkish Cypriot republic unless Greece agrees to resume talks with Turkey for setting up self-governing enclaves on the island.

Greek Cypriot guerrillas, meanwhile, opened a sabotage campaign behind the backs of the powerful Turkish invasion army on the island Wednesday, blowing up a strategic water tower in Famagusta.

The attack sent hundreds of thousands of gallons of fresh water cascading into the streets of the city, where drinking water has been scarce for nearly a month.

Troops searched for the guerrillas, but there were no arrests.

To smoothen the rehabilitation of the estimated 200,000 Cypriots of both races driven from their homes by the fighting that has ripped island, Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, UN high commissioner for refugees arrived at the British base of Akrotiri today.

On arrival there, he indicated that the UN may launch an international appeal for assistance to the refugees.

Officer's Sharp Eye Results in Capture

Constable Mike Pearce, a 7½-year member of the force, picked up Barney Farrell Thomas, in Centennial Square behind the police station shortly before 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Thomas escaped from the camp early Sunday with another prisoner, Dennis Matthew Wilson, 21.

Wilson, whose sentence for breaking and entering would have expired Oct. 12, turned himself in early Wednesday at the camp near Campbell River.

Thomas appeared in Victoria provincial court this morning.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said an RCP escort is expected to return the man to Snowdon this Friday, where he was serving two years for robbery with violence committed in Victoria earlier this year.

Pearce said he was walking through Centennial Square when he saw a young man get up from the grass where he had been sleeping and walk towards the public washrooms.

"I thought I recognized him so I went up and asked him his name."

"Ron White," the man replied.

"I knew that wasn't right so I asked him to come along with me," Pearce said.

Once at the station and confronted with an RCMP poster containing his picture and description, Thomas admitted who he was.

Pearce said Thomas was "very passive" and co-operative.

He told police he had hitchhiked from Campbell River and had been in Victoria "a couple of days," sleeping in the bush. He hadn't had anything to eat since he arrived.

"I think he was sort of glad to get back to regular meals again," Pearce said.

Under provisions of the act, they are required to list — strictly for council's internal consumption—their and holdings other than their home property within the Capital Regional District, and the names of companies in which they hold one or more shares.

Any official owning a 30 per cent or larger interest in any company must also show the company's assets.

Similar disclosure requirements affect Mayor Peter Pollen and the eight aldermen, but in their case the information has to be filed with city clerk Morran Walker and is available for public inspection on request from Sept. 15.

This morning, Ald. Bill Tindall and Ald. Percy Frampton said the list attempted to name all officials directly in a position to benefit from their influence over planning decisions and other key policies, to bestow favors or otherwise take advantage of their office.

Tindall said council did give the matter detailed study, but ruled out the practibility of a comprehensive list.

It can be argued that a building inspector or "almost anyone" at City Hall could be open to some form of conflict of interest, he said, and the dividing line had to be drawn somewhere.

Last wry comment on the matter from one of the officials on the list: "What do you want to bet there are going to be some senior people here a little hurt because they didn't make it . . ."

they go to bed, 'If you believe in God, then pray for Lothar'."

The Doliwas—besides Hans, 27, they have two daughters Elona, 17, and Karen, 15, both at home—finally called police Aug. 6.

"When we found out Lothar hadn't shown up for work (he had a job at Ucluelet as an ironworker for Dillingham), we knew something must be wrong," Doliwa said.

"We didn't know what to do. Police said there was little they could do either. They told us to wait and after a couple of months they would start looking. Then they suggested we put a notice over the local radio station."

The notices began a week ago Wednesday—a desperate appeal for information which might lead to locating their slender, dark brown hair, 5'10" son.

Still nothing.

"I think weird ideas and can't sleep at night," said Doliwa, a trim sawyer at the sawmill in Crofton.

"We don't like to think about what could have happened . . . but it is hard not to," his wife said.

rise above six per cent last year.

"The minute they allowed the banks to do that, mortgage rates went sky-high. With the present rate of 12 per cent, who can even think of buying or building a house? No wonder the housing market has collapsed," he said.

Resources Minister Bob Williams, has promised some sort of relief for the slumping industry, at least in the interior.

Representatives of the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association met with Williams Wednesday and emerged with a promise of action within the next few days.

Williams said the concerns of the ILMA are "pretty real" and he will approach Premier Barrett to work out relief for the industry.

He would not disclose the specific steps the government might take but said there are "some obvious areas the government can move into."

ILMA director Fred Stinson said the representatives asked the minister for a reduction in stumpage payments, the royalty industry pays to the province on the timber it cuts.

Williams emphasized the promised relief would apply only to the interior, not to the more integrated coastal industry. In the interior, he said, about 50 per cent of the operators are independent producers who suffer doubly because of the slumping lumber market and because of the low prices they are getting from the pulp mills for their chips.

Integrated producers on the coast who operate both sawmill and pulp operations, can make up their loses at the sawmill end because of the high pulp prices, Williams said.

The government therefore faces the immediate problem of providing relief to the interior lumber market, Williams said, and the long-run problem of the low prices the independent operators receive for their chips.

ARABS OFFER $400M CARROT TO PORTUGAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Portugal has received an Arab offer of $400 million to refuse renewal of United States airbase rights in the Azores, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Arab representatives also were said to have offered to lift the oil embargo against Portugal.

The Arab aim, as U.S. intelligence men view it, is to deny the United States use of the key Lajes airbase in the Azores for any future arms airlifts to Israel.

The treaty covering U.S. use of the Azores base ran out in February. Negotiations are underway on renewing those base rights for another five years.

Most U.S. allies and friends, apparently concerned about displeasing the Arabs, refused permission for the United States to use bases on their soil last fall when the U.S. Air Force flew emergency war supplies to Israel, then battling with Egypt and Syria.

Portugal was the exception.

With tacit Portugese consent, U.S. transport planes were able to land and refuel at Lajes, permitting them to haul big loads 6,000 miles from the United States to Israel.

CITY JAIL CELLS CHECKED FOR BUGS

A pest control company today was checking the city jail for lice and ticks.

Chief John Gregory ordered the check after a prisoner told provincial court Wednesday he had never seen "such a dirty, filthy place in all my life."

Blain Cunningham asked for the pest check when he appeared on a routine remand on a wounding charge.

Gregory said pest extermination company services the jail every month, as well as whenever required.

"From time to time we do have this problem from a prisoner who is infested."

A weak Pacific disturbance spread cloud to western Washington and southwestern B.C. this morning. Brief periods of light rain occurred before the system moved inland around noon today. Cloud will move eastward across southern B.C with the disturbance but no rain is likely in the Okanagan although the system may set off a few showers or thunderstorms in the Kootenays tonight. Partial clearing is expected behind the disturbance.

Meanwhile central and northern areas of B.C. will be frequently cloudy today and Friday with some shower activity likely both days. A few afternoon thunderstorms are also expected in the central interior today.

Hitch-Hikers Playing Russian Roulette—A-G

Young girls hitch-hiking along B.C. roads "are playing a form of Russian roulette," Attorney-General Alex Macdonald warned Wednesday.

It was Macdonald's second such warning and he told reporters he is afraid young people are not getting the message.

The government has considered a massive education program, he said, but "it's very hard to reach this junior element especially since they don't read newspapers."

Ads on radio and television warning of the dangers of accepting rides are still being considered, said Macdonald, but the main thrust of the education program will be personal contact with policemen visiting schools.

But even in those cases, Macdonald said, he has heard of policemen visiting a school to talk about hitch-hiking and then on the way home seeing the same students on the roadside thumbing.

"Three young women between 15 and 20 have been murdered in the province during the past four months," said the minister in a prepared statement.

"Scores of girls, young women, and, to a lesser degree, young men, have been raped or indecently assaulted after soliciting rides."

The number of attacks in B.C. is not really known, said Macdonald, but in Vancouver during the last six months police have investigated 24 complaints of rapes and indecent assaults resulting from hitch-hiking.

"Police feel this represents only 12 to 15 per cent of the actual number of incidents which occur," said Macdonald. "The other victims, for a wide variety of reasons, just refuse to report a sex attack to police."

Asked if he had considered making hitch-hiking illegal, the attorney-general said the question is "very difficult" since where the practice has been banned it has generally been ignored.

The minister said he would ask people to stop picking up hitch-hikers but it would only "fall upon ears of people who are perfectly safe."

The program of police warnings in schools will continue, he said.

AIR SEARCH FOR BANDITS

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP) Heavily-armed police are using roadblocks and helicopters today in an effort to capture three men who robbed a Brinks armored truck of $402,000 after severely wounding a guard.

A provincial police spokesman said about 60 policemen, including some from the Val D'Or municipal force, have set up roadblocks surrounding this community 270 miles northwest of Montreal.

The officers are armed with machine-guns, rifles and revolvers, he said, and two helicopters are being used in the search for the men who escaped in a panel truck Wednesday after robbing a Brinks truck delivering cash to a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here.

Police earlier said the men had escaped with about $280,000 but the police spokesman said that estimate has been revised upwards of $400,000.

The provincial police spokesman said the robbers, wearing homemade bullet-proof vests and helmets, opened fire on the Brinks guard making their currency delivery to the Main Street bank shortly before it opened at 9 a.m. At least 60 shots were fired in the exchange and Brinks guard Adolphe Potvin of Timmins, Ont., was injured when a bullet lodged in his skull above the right eye.

He was transferred by air to Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal where doctors performed what was termed a "difficult" five hour operation to remove the bullet Wednesday night.

Waves Stop 4 Youths In Erie Swim

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Waves that reached five and six feet at times today forced four Erie youths to give up their attempt to swim the 21 miles across Lake Erie from the Canadian shore.

Paul Sitter and Mark Kubeja, both 19, and Pat Budney, 16, were taken from the water shortly before 3:30 a.m. after they had been buffeted by the high waves for nearly an hour. Tim Hughes, also 19, was taken from the water about midnight when he encountered trouble breathing.

The four had planned to swim from Long Point, Ont., to Presque Isle State Park here, a distance of about 21 miles, but because of the current it was estimated they would have to swim about 31 miles.

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if after they rest a few days they'd be ready to try it again, because I know they've got the guts to do it," Sitter's father, Vincent said.

Tide Runs Out on Meeting Without Pact on Horizon

CARACAS (CP) — The big international Law of the Sea Conference will wind up next week without any negotiated agreements and Canada and other countries will have to wait until next year before hard bargaining over ocean controls gets under way.

However, Canadian delegates view the current 10-week conference which ends Aug. 29 as an upward step in Canada's long fight to gain management control of all fish and mineral resources on Canada's continental shelves.

Alan Beesley, chief Canadian negotiator at the 148-country conference, says the inability of the 5,000 delegates to work out a global treaty on the use and protection of the oceans should not be viewed as failure. Diplomats from many other countries also share his view.

But British Columbia's salmon and halibut fishermen think Canada should unilaterally declare a 200-mile economic zone off the Pacific Coast instead of waiting for future conference to work out a global ocean treaty.

Homer Stevens, president of the 7,000-member United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union and a member of the Canadian delegation to the conference says any delay in reaching international agreement may be disastrous for the province's fishery.

Stevens said in an interview that even if a treaty is agreed upon at a 1975 conference it might take years for ratification by the Soviet Union and Japan, whose vessels now fish to within 12 miles of the B.C. coast.

B.C. salmon fishermen, whose average earnings run about $7,500 during the four-month season, are especially fearful because the fish they catch range far into the North Pacific where even a 200-mile zone would not protect them. Canadian salmon are caught in the area by Japanese and American fishermen.

Unlike Atlantic salmon, the fish die after they return to the Canadian rivers of their birth to lay eggs.

Canada has proposed that only the country of origin be allowed to harvest such species, except those found in the coastal waters of another country which has made a bilateral arrangement with the species' home country.

But the salmon question has received little attention at the conference here. Few countries are directly concerned.

Stevens said halibut fishermen in B.C., who each earn an average of $10,000 during the five-month season, have learned that Soviet vessels do not deliberately seek halibut but take large numbers while fishing for other species such as hake, ocean perch and various flounders.

The B.C. halibut catch dropped to 14.5 million pounds in 1973 from about 30 million

The savings are on us.

When you buy an Austin Marina you save money from day one. Because Marina gives you a lot more car than other imports and more extras than most domestics.

When you buy a Marina you get a handling and performance package that includes front power disc brakes, radial tires, rack and pinion steering, torsion bar front suspension and an 1800cc engine as in the renowned MGB.

Throw in electrocoat primer, deep gloss paint and 32 square feet of undercoat and there's even greater value. Austin Marina also gives you a heavy-duty battery and alternator, pre-engaged starter, electrically heated rear window, door-to-door carpeting and reclining front seats. About the only extras you can buy are automatic transmission and radio.

Really, owning an Austin Marina is like having a savings account instead of a charge account. And it's because of this kind of value and because all Austins are backed by regional parts depots and a coast-to-coast dealer network that some people call us "The Austin Savings & Trust."

A Last Slap At Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives today released the final report of the Judiciary Committee on Impeachment, changing some language but still maintaining that former president Nixon lied, violated laws and subverted the constitution.

Conclusions supporting each of the three articles of impeachment, voted against Nixon, were included in a draft of the report circulated to the 38 committee members last week.

They already were strongly worded, but the final report of 525 pages expanded on them, providing greater detail and more support for the actions taken.

"President Nixon's course of conduct following the Watergate break-in, as described in Article One, caused action not only by his subordinates, but by the agencies of the United States, including the Department of Justice, the FBI and the CIA," the report concluded at the end of its justification for the first article.

"It required perjury, destruction of evidence, obstruction of justice, all crimes. But, most important, it required deliberate contrived and continuing deception of the American people."

It acknowledged receipt of the three transcripts of taped conversations released by Nixon on Aug. 5 as proving his involvment in the cover-up of the Watergate break-in as early as six days after the June 17, 1972, burglary.

Welfare Cheats Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two persons have been given jail terms in two separate courts here after they were convicted of fraudulently obtaining welfare funds.

Provincial Court Judge Darrell Jones sentenced Susan Walpole Jones, 24, of Vancouver, a mother of two small children, to 14 days in jail. He also fined her $100.

Provincial Court Judge David Moffat Wednesday sentenced Howard Snider, 59, of Vancouver, to two months in jail for defrauding the city of $1,112 in welfare funds.

He was also placed on two years probation and ordered to make restitution. Snider had claimed welfare but did not report that his wife was working.

Images at Mesachie Lake

Two days of brainstorming at Mesachie Lake appear to have agreed with Premier Barrett. Not only will the government campaign to improve its waning image, it will also show the public just how many mistakes were made in B.C. Hydro under the old Social Credit regime. Such an aggressive posture deserves closer examination.

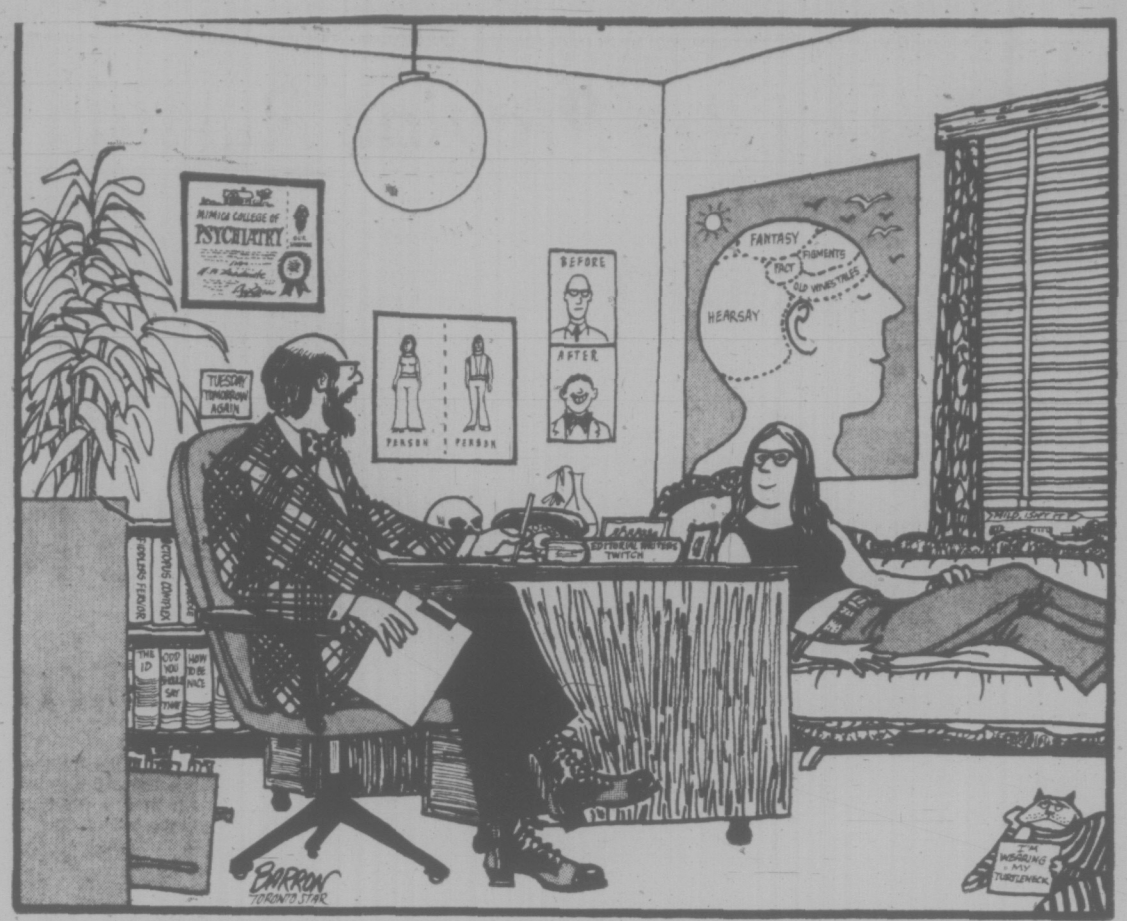
In a sense Mr. Barrett is right about the government's image. The NDP has brought in many important reforms since it took office in 1972. British Columbians now have a continuing right to sue their own government for the first time in history—in certain cases, it should be added. And some of the government's social legislation, including a tough Trade Practices Act, has brought this province's laws in line with the 20th century.

There has been progress in environmental and natural resources care. Municipalities, with increased provincial grants and access to special funds for such diverse services as sewage and recreational facilities, are less the government orphans that they were.

The NDP can take credit for these measures. But if the government immerses itself in flackery and image-making it might explain some of its bungling as well. Autoplan needed a massive injection of general revenue. The new Assessment Act is working a hardship on many small businesses which may result in a floodtide of bankruptcies or a folding up of private initiative. Fence-mending and second looks at ill-conceived legislation are needed, but even the phrase "image building" leaves us to wonder how many dimensions the government hopes to conceive with paper and glowing adjectives.

Perhaps this is what Mr. Barrett has in mind when he says the government is to reveal major financial bungling in Hydro under Social Credit. Such a move is a neat bit of evasiveness in that it takes the heat off the proposed Hydro increases sanctioned by the government, and points the finger at an old bogeyman long since gone from the political scene. If there was financial bungling in Hydro under the Socreds why didn't the NDP reveal all the grisly details when they came to power? Few politicians sit on a good issue for two years, least of all the canny Mr. Barrett.

Images should be left to artists; politicians and governments have too many flights of fancy as it is.



"... I notice you're wearing that shrink top again, Miss Haroldson ... I WISH you wouldn't ...!"

The Local Spark

The new Metro Toronto Zoo has set an unusual standard of local financing which many other communities might well emulate when planning to establish such facilities.

As The Financial Times points out, the tradition in Toronto has been to rely on private funding for many public institutions — the O'Keefe Centre and the St. Lawrence Centre being good examples. Other communities have relied extensively on public financing from the two senior governments, federal and provincial, when they embarked on ambitious building projects. But the Metro Toronto Zoo has been a truly local effort, with an initial grant of $20 millions from Council to get things started, plus another $2 million for final touches.

In between have been a quarter-million dollar contribution from Toronto school children to obtain animals for the zoo, a $13-million fund from tax money to create an animal domain tour, and various local fund-raising enterprises such as a marathon walk, a Zoophone, and receipts from local entertainers.

Such an approach is in refreshing contrast to the more usual trend these days to rush to federal and provincial coffers for assistance, or to try to adapt existing government grants for use in the project at hand.

There are zoos and zoos, but even with the use of modern "open space" environments nowadays it is not likely that there would ever be any marked enthusiasm in Greater Victoria for a publicly owned zoo. That is all to the good. The whole concept of captive animals has been distasteful to Victoria animal lovers ever since Ursus Kermodeii, the little white bear, dragged out its life sentence in a Beacon Hill Park cage, its existence converted to a sudden and interminable horror when it was forced from its northern coastal home and condemned to solitary confinement in a steel and concrete cell.

But there are other community projects here which could benefit from the local initiative displayed by Metro Toronto: a community centre with or without a tourist centre attached; a concert hall, separately or in conjunction with the centre, come first to mind. The years of talk have produced plans but little else. The hope is that private enterprise will do what public enterprise has not done; that senior government funding will do what local funding is reluctant to do.

But that approach leaves much to be desired. In Victoria's case it leaves a concert hall to be desired. At what point will the local spark be struck and the fire started?

MAURICE WESTERN

Dissidents, Disappointments

OTTAWA — Very strange things happen when a political party finds itself in a period of transition after defeat at the polls.

Last week Jack Horner, the outspoken member for Crowfoot, pressed certain advice on the Conservative caucus and its leader, Robert Stanfield. About the same time Dalton Camp, also a prominent party figure, was pressing his advice on the party and leader. Remarkably, in the light of Conservative history, the advice was the same. Both felt that Mr. Stanfield should set a date for his resignation which should occur as soon as possible.

To those who take only an intermittent interest in politics, this might suggest the question: Has Jack become a Campite or Dalton a Hornerite?

Evidently the answer, to either question, is No. For Mr. Horner's argument includes dark references to Mr. Camp who remains, in the Albertan's estimation, a sinister force in the party. Mr. Camp's argument includes pointed reference to Mr. Horner who, we are given to understand, played a mischevous role in the recent election campaign.

Conservative Successor

Oddly, Mr. Horner's fear is that postponement of a decision will enable Mr. Camp to choose a Conservative successor or at least create that general suspicion. Mr. Camp's fear is that until a date is set and while the party "dithers" on the leadership issue no successor will emerge.

In a television interview Mr. Horner, a "loyalist" in days when some Conservatives insisted that there was no vacancy at the top and later a self-professed "rebel", has further elaborated his views on the convention and future of the party. His concern is that a convention, if mistimed, might end in a race between "Socialist Conservatives."

The suspicions of the member for Crowfoot centre at the moment on Flora Macdonald, who has been the party's critic on Indian affairs; Joe Clark, an Albertan representing Rocky Mountain; and apparently Gordon Fairweather.

Mr. Horner, like Mr. Camp, is without a leadership candidate at present. He feels, however, that the party has been "pretty far on the left hand side of the road" in recent years. This may be the reason why he has wondered aloud whether there was room in it for Conservative ranchers from Crowfoot. Thus his prospective candidate, when found, will presumably be someone who would, if successful, pull the party back to the centre of the road, as Mr. Horner discerns it.

Agreeably, Mr. Horner does not call for a purge of his leftist colleagues. It is not clear from the text whether this tolerance extends to Mr. Camp or not; perhaps he can also stay providing his influence is eliminated. There would be obvious difficulties about reconciling such a demand with the argument applied to the Leonard Jones case that it is wrong for a party to reject a "large or wide constituency of thought."

JACK HORNER
. . . dark references

According to Stanfield supporters at the recent caucus, Mr. Horner has been unhappy almost from the outset with the present leadership. Evidently there is substance to this view; on television the member for Crowfoot recalled his "first disappointment"; the fact that Mr. Stanfield, at the time of the Pearson government's defeat on a tax bill more than six years ago, consulted Mr. Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada without mentioning it to caucus. The more recent grievance apparently is, however, that the Conservative party "has been too much of an echo and not enough of a choice." If a choice was clearly spelled out, the voters would respond.

It seems to be quite generally agreed, however, that we had in early summer an issue election, the first in a long time. Mr. Horner did not like the issue, and warned against it. Controls, in his opinion, are socialist and not in harmony with conservative philosophy.

The fact remains that Robert Stanfield, far from echoing Pierre Trudeau, did pose an issue and could not be budged from it. On one side were the Conservatives (apart from dissidents such as Mr. Horner) and on the other the Liberals. For once, metooism was out and the voters had a choice.

In general, of course, the Conservatives are distrustful of government by regulation. But except in the matter of controls, which were advocated as a relatively short term means of curbing inflation, matters have been more complicated than Mr. Horner suggests. The outstanding critic of government by regulation is Jed Baldwin, who served as Mr. Stanfield's right hand man, and one of his closest associates was Gordon Fairweather, identified on the program as one of the more dangerous Socialists.

Sponsorship Problems

There are problems in sponsoring a leadership candidate. He may appear sound but, once in office and subject to all the diverse pressures that bear on a party leader, will he in fact be proof against malign and even Socialist influences? Mr. Horner evidently understands this. When he last attempted the Warwick role, he showed admirable prudence putting forward the name of his brother. But no candidacy is perfect; Dr. Hugh did not make the starting post, but turned aside instead into provincial politics.

Undeterred by his experience, Mr. Horner is putting together a team to beat the bushes in quest of a candidate capable of re-aligning the party. Mr. Camp thinks that the party is wasting time, which rather suggests that he is impatient to beat the bushes too. If the 1967 contest was instructive there is a reasonable prospect that other bushes will yield candidates without excessive beating.

The mere fact that there does not appear at the moment to be a credible successor in sight may be of positive encouragement to those with strong ambitions. It is more likely than not that the Conservative track will be crowded by convention time.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

No. 1 Hall

Once again I am asking your indulgence in publishing this letter to make a correction in my letter which was published in your paper on Thursday, August 8.

In that letter I stated that the OAP No. 1 Hall had been closed down due to fire regulations. It should have read No. 3 Hall. The error was mine and was no misquotation by the press. I appear to have got my wires crossed.

However, from 'phone calls I have received I feel that I have disturbed a few senior citizens belonging to No. 1 Hall which was far from my intent. I am a senior citizen myself and I work voluntarily for the senior citizens of our group so I can understand their consternation. I would like to express my regret for my error and I hope that they will continue happily in No. 1 Hall for a long time yet.

Miss Alice Hawley, Chairman, Hospitality Committee, James Bay New Horizons.

Bicycles

Bicycles are causing no problems. The ever-increasing automobile population is. Most drivers have no respect for cyclists. In traffic we have four inches of road, with the curb on one side on which to ride. We have to suffer inhaling toxic exhaust fumes and dust particles produced by those four-wheeled consumers of our natural resources. We are constantly subjected to blowing horns and verbal abuse from friendly, conscientious motorists.

Is it much wonder cyclists become frustrated and impatient? And now individuals want to make things "tougher on bicycles". Wow. But a peaceful co-existence could be reached. I think the bicycle population has become great enough to warrant some attention during the city's transportation planning.

During some travels in Europe I've noticed how easily they've solved the bicycle-automobile situation. Why can't we? In all the bigger cities there are special designated routes and pathways for cyclists which enable them to reach their destination without inhibiting traffic flow. Isn't this one way to help solve a growing auto congestion and public transportation dilemma?

Why start trying to impose licence and insurance fees on bicycles? Cycling is intended to be a cheap, efficient method of travelling and avoiding all the hassles involved in owning a car. Why try to inhibit bicycles, why not try to encourage them more with proper city planning?

Let's face it, the fewer automobiles to pollute our atmosphere and disturb the peaceful serenity of a beautiful city like Victoria, or any city, the better off we'll be.—Gord G. Cockburn, 2047 Chaucer St.

Two Sides to Cyprus

If the Turkish peace proposal had been accepted at the Geneva peace talks, then I would believe that the politicians who hold humanity's fate in their hands want "Peace."

Turkey did not want to take over the island of Cyprus. All she wanted was a piece of land for Turkish Cypriots to live on peacefully.

Everybody knows how the Turkish population became a minority in the once-Turkish island of Cyprus. Systematically their crops and houses were burnt by Greeks; children and women were killed or beaten to death in their homes while their men were away working. Their flocks, animals and goods were stolen. Good-hearted Greek Cypriots were killed if they tried to help the Turks.

Life was like living in a hell. Thousands of Turkish families had to leave the island, and new Greek families arrived. British troops were killed when they tried to stop the Greeks.

Again, everybody knows that during the last few decades, in spite of all efforts, nothing stopped Greek terrorists from killing and destroying. Now Turkey has taken the initiative in her hands. She says "For Peace." Who wants peace!

Almost all news reporters, political authorities — as if they are frightened of the possibility that "peace" is coming to the earth — have begun to push the Greeks for vengeance.

Only once I saw on a TV screen, a tourist telling how badly Turkish Cypriots were treated. But suddenly her story was cut at the middle of a sentence. On the other hand no matter which channel you turn on here, you watch what the Turkish invasion did to Greeks.

Turks did not start the war. The blame is on those who did not think of peace and justice at the "Peace Talks" but only of their interests. Well, I suppose this is what "Politics" is. — Seniha Engin, 632 Dunedin St.

Valuable Asset

Now that the Summer Festival is over for this year may I add my grateful thanks for the lovely concerts so much enjoyed by large numbers of Victorians and many visitors from so many different places and different continents. A charming visitor from New Zealand didn't mind calling out "Bravo" — she was greatly enjoying her visit to Victoria. And all around were such complimentary comments. Many people came to Heritage Court to see our wonderful museum, another of our gems, a "must-see when we get to Victoria," as a visitor remarked to me. To find that lovely music was also played at Heritage Court was an added bonus.

It was heartening to hear that a shelter is being planned to protect the musicians from the chilling winds that often feel colder at the museum complex. I hope I live long enough to see this. Whatever happened to the latest brief on the desperately needed concert-hall-arts-and-crafts centre? Has it been studied to death? Or perhaps it is one of the "make work for students" projects. Is some student busily measuring the depth and amount of dust on the document?

I sincerely hope that Premier (and Finance Minister) David Barrett wasn't sitting on the floor in Newcombe auditorium, for the final concert of the Summer Series. You know, when the audience gave that long standing ovation. And by now, money-hungry business firms have realized, I hope, that happy visitors, finding many things to interest them, stay a while and buy far more than gas, food and accommodation, so they are hurrying to Johnson Street Symphony office and pouring their contributions (mine was sent months ago) into the Symphony Development Fund.

Or if they would rather donate a valuable musical instrument, in their own name, for the benefit of our orchestra, they should see Mr. Laszlo Gati, Musical Director and Conductor, Public Relations man for the musicians, very practical, approachable, friend of young and old, visitors and inhabitants, who will be very pleased to discuss how best to help our fine orchestra, another of our very valuable assets. — D. Fagerberg, 766 Falkland.

Take Over the CPR?

Reading Pierre Berton's sagas merely served to strengthen my long-time conviction that C.P.R. management has been one of this country's worst enemies since Confederation, hence I have little hope that any uproar over the latest attempt to abandon passenger service on V.I. will bring Canada one jot closer to a viable transportation policy. One wonders how different our history and our present situation would be if Sir John A. had found it possible to finance the National Dream with public funds.

I have forgotten what stripe of government it was that transformed the previous montage of privately-owned lines into the present British Railways, but there is certainly little hope that the present regime in Ottawa will take such drastic action. PET's proposal (promise?) to relieve the railways of their passenger service responsibilities by an equivalent of Amtrak confirms this.

A recent leading article pointed out that the various regulatory bodies such as the Canadian Transport Commission have historically been the "stoolies" of the organizations they are supposed to regulate, rather than watch-dogs for the people.

To get an idea of how the taxpayers would get "hosed" by railway accounting of a "Cantrak", one remembers the days when C.P.R. balance sheets listed the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway as "Operated for the bond-holders", and obscurely on another page disclosed that the C.P.R. held all the E. & N. bonds!

Some of us can also remember the number of times over some 20 years when all the steam locomotives on the Island suddenly blossomed out with different serial numbers and a change in designation from C.P.R. to E. & N. or vice versa, and the number of times when the accounting procedures for C.P. rolling stock moving to and from the island were changed from "rental" to "loan" or what have you; all this and more for the purpose of showing profits or losses where expedient.

Another recent article detailed how our transportation system has declined over the years from a reasonably efficient network to the present fragmented and expensive hodgepodge.

One example: there was a time when baby chicks, newly hatched on the Island, were transported by express on a network of trains and boats to most locations in B.C. and many in Alberta, and arrived for their first feeding within the 72-hour deadline. It is doubtful if this industry exists today, because it would be at the mercy of Senator Ed Lawson's teamsters' union!

Added to passenger service deficiencies, recent troubles with movements of lumber and grain prove that present railway management is also unable or unwilling to efficiently operate a freight service. Like the mining executives castigated by Eric Kierans, the faceless people in Windsor Station are now directing know-how and money into other, greener fields.

Without holding any brief for the N.D.P., I would loudly cheer them or any group that would hold power in Ottawa long enough to invoke the Law of Eminent Domain and take over the Canadian Pacific Railway, and integrate it with the C.N. to form a viable national transportation network, one that is more responsible to Parliament and the people than the C.N. now is.

If such expropriation took into account the monetary cost of deficiencies over these many years, then the C.P.R. would owe us, rather than we pay them for the railway! — W. F. Reeves, R.R.1 Cowichan Station, B.C.

60 YEARS AGO

From The Times of Aug. 22, 1914:

OTTAWA — Sir Robert Borden presented an estimate of the probable cost to Canada of the overseas force during the fiscal year. Included in the $30,000,000 total were items such as pay for 25,000 men for seven months, $6,100,000; rations for these men, $2,100,000; 5,000 horses, $1,000,000; forage for seven months, $660,000; ocean transport, $1,000,000; clothing $3,300,000; ammunition $660,000; troops on guard in Canada, $2,000,000. The bill appropriating $50,000,000 for military and naval defence was put through all stages after brief discussions. Mr. Lougheed explained that the government did not believe that that amount would be required.

Splendor Into Rubble: Cambodia

By PHILIP A. McCOMBS

Cambodian girl, above, salvages wreckage of her home after a bombing. Below, shortages of fuel and food plague the capital city of Phnom Penh.

OUDONG, Cambodia — Soldiers and peasants move here and there in the rubble. They move slowly, ghostlike in the misty monsoon drizzle, framed by the jungle's lush green and by the shattered, bullet-pocked buildings. A malevolent wind carries the stench of dead human flesh.

In Phnom Penh, only 13 miles southeast of this once elegant former royal capital, it is still possible to live pleasantly. There are cocktail parties, diplomatic receptions and lazy afternoons by the swimming pool.

Conversations touch on the economy, the rice crop, American aid, the growing proficiency of the government armed forces. America's energetic ambassador, John Gunther Dean, is desperately searching for a formula for peace, and the capital is filled with rumors that, despite the public intransigence of the other side, meaningful if low-level contacts between the two sides are going forward.

Savagery

But here, only a few miles away, is a different world of bleak devastation and elemental savagery — a stunning reminder of how the ancient splendor of Cambodia is, piece by piece, being ground into dust and lost forever by the continuing war.

It is also a reminder of how fragile the government position remains despite continuing American aid and despite its admirably tenacious survival for the past year without direct American combat involvement.

Oudong was a victory for the government, because after three months of fierce fighting the insurgents were driven out on July 9, and government troops now occupy the blasted remains of what was once a beautiful city.

The situation here remains shaky. There is fear on many faces, and the chatter of gunfire and thump of heavier explosions are close enough from time to time to make the soldiers tense up and look around nervously.

"You should see the bodies," a lieutenant said. "You really must see the bodies."

He led the way through the rubble where a dozen concrete storefronts had been reduced to blackened, shattered shells and stirred the rubble with the toe of his boot.

He uncovered a pile of human bones, some smashed and ripped apart. Rib cages glared whitely up from under the lieutenant's boot. To one side lay a skull still matted with gray hair.

"There was hundreds more under that pagoda," he said. "I've been here a short time and I've dug up 60 bodies. We're still finding them."

He said most of the dead were killed by the insurgents when they captured the city by shelling it heavily and moving in with infantry to mop up the remaining government units.

The government also shelled the city heavily in its effort to retake it, but by then most of the civilians had already been killed, escaped, or were abducted by the insurgents, according to the lieutenant.

This was a city of pagodas and public buildings, relaxed, virtually untouched by war and relatively wealthy by Cambodian standards.

Now it is a wasteland. Few buildings remain standing and those that do have been gutted. The insurgents blew up dozens of pagodas before withdrawing, and the structures have fallen and tilted at strange angles because they were blown up from inside.

Near here there is a particularly spectacular pagoda with a giant Buddha that visitors here have been able to see during the past few weeks.

This weekend, however, the lieutenant said it has again become too dangerous to drive up the road to the hill because two anti-government Khmer Rouge Battalions have come back into the area and are threatening the road.

The lieutenant, an intelligence officer named Lim Chea said the insurgents were infiltrating back into Oudong at night and attacking government troops sporadically.

Surrounded

He brought out a tactical map that showed government positions in blue crayon grouped in the Oudong area. The insurgents positions, marked in red, virtually surround Oudong except for the narrow strip of Route 5 that comes up along the Tonle Sap River from Phnom Penh.

There was a red arrow aimed at Route 5 and quite close to it a few miles south of Oudong, and Lim Cher said the insurgents are again moving to cut the highway there.

The drive up here from Phnom Penh is through beautiful, green countryside over which the monsoon clouds, which appear every afternoon and often in the mornings too at this time of year, hang in great dark curves.

For the first eight miles out of Phnom Penh, there are many people along the road and it is lined with wooden houses.

After that the aspect and atmosphere of things changes in a frightening way. There are few people on the road, and the vehicles are moving quickly.

All the rest of the way to Oudong, there is virtually no structure left standing. The sides of the road are dotted with smashed pagodas and cement stilts on which houses once stood.

Much of the land is flooded now in the rainy season and the countryside has a rough look because it has been untended and unproductive for a long time.

On the long stretches of the road that the insurgents controlled for many months there are bumpy spots every 100 yards or so where the government troops have filled in trenches that the insurgents dug across the road.

Even the trees and bushes have been blasted away along most of the road after the halfway point to Oudong.

It is like driving into the stark landscape of an Ingmar Bergman movie. The people on foot give you dull looks and seem almost to be moving in slow motion.

There is no sense of life in the countryside — few or no birds singing, mostly an eerie silence. A few trucks of refugees move up and down the road. There seem to be as many going one direction as the other.

Sometimes there is gunfire, but it is usually a soldier shooting a fish for supper.

On the stretch of road with the red arrow pointing at it the insurgents are close enough to watch the movement on the road. Sometimes they shoot at vehicles, and on this stretch there is practically nobody in sight and the driver drives very fast.

Powerful U.S. Lobbyists Find Friend in Ford

NEW YORK — President Gerald Ford's circle of friends includes several of Washington's most powerful corporate lobbyists, some of whom are helping shape his administration during the transitional period.

A number of Ford's business friends are longtime golfing companions. Several have close ties with his family and have taken vacations with the Fords.

One friend, Rodney Markley, Jr., 61, the Ford Motor Co.'s chief Washington lobbyist, was on his way to his vacation retreat on the French Riviera when he learned that Ford was to be sworn in as president. Markley boarded a plane in Paris and rushed back to Washington.

He arrived too late for the president's swearing-in at the White House, but joined the Fords later that evening at their home for a dinner gathering of old friends.

For Markley, dining with the Fords was nothing new. He is one of a tight circle of corporate officials in Washington who are counted among Ford's closest and most trusted friends.

Besides Markley, the president's innermost sanctum contains two other corporate figures widely known in Washington circles. They are Bryce Harlow, Proctor & Gamble's chief Washington representative, who for years has moved easily in and out of government and has advised a succession of presidents, and William Whyte, vice-president of the United States Steel Corp. and its top man in Washington.

Two other important business or professional friends are from Ford's home town of Grand Rapids, Mich., and already are working at the White House. They are Philip Buchen, Ford's former law partner who last week was named counsel to the president, and William Seidman, an accounting firm executive who is assisting in the president's economic planning.

In addition to business friends, the president's inner circle includes the customary group of old political friends, current and former representatives and senators, and staff members.

Whyte, Markley and the president have been frequent golfing companions at the Burning Tree Club. Their wives and children are friendly: for example, Whyte says his younger son has dated Ford's daughter and their families have vacationed together.

Ford's accession to the presidency has not interrupted their relationship. Last Monday, Harlow, Whyte and Markley joined a group of other presidential friends for drinks and a late buffet at the Fords' house after Ford had delivered his address to a joint session of Congress.

In subtle ways, of course, their acquaintanceship has been altered. Now, suddenly, the man whom they have known for 20 or 25 years as "Jerry" has become "Mr. President."

Markley said his first dinner with Ford after the presi was sprinkled with "Mr. Presidents."

"As much as he teases me about it (use of the formal title) I'll still do it," Markley said in a telephone interview from his condominium in France.

"He said, 'Don't do that,' but I'm determined to use it."

While Ford's inner circle of personal business friends includes a number of lobbyists among his old associates, other presidents have chosen a different mixture.

Richard Nixon, for the most part, preferred the company of self-made millionaires such as Charles (Bebe) Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp, although he also was close to such executives as Elmer Bobst, honorary chairman of the Warner-Lambert Co., W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance millionaire, and Donald Kendall, chairman of Pepsico, Inc.

Lyndon Johnson was not close to many businessmen, although he counted among his most intimate friends lawyers with strong business ties — men such as Abe Fortas and Clark Clifford.

P.C. OPPOSITION: QUANTITY, QUALITY

By DOUGLAS FISHER

The last Conservative caucus before the election was seized by a triumphant mood. Few of the MPs felt their party would not form the Government after July 8.

The belated gathering of this week, 11 MPs fewer, should take steps to appraise themselves and their predecessor caucus, not merely assess the failures of Robert Stanfield and the prices and incomes' Jonah.

Of the 95 members in this caucus, 85 have had at least two sessions of parliamentary experience and some 42 MPs have at least six sessions behind them. The point is that their quantity is substantial, so is their experience. Their potential as an opposition has been enhanced by the drastic weakening of numbers and talent in their chief opposition rivals, the New Democrats.

There are four long, slogging parliamentary years ahead before another election. There's lots of time to settle the party matter of leadership. What is moot about the leadership situation is also vital about parliamentary performance.

At this time, there simply isn't anyone in the caucus who is even close as a logical of popular successor to Robert Stanfield. The people one hears mentioned — Claude Wagner, Flora MacDonald, and John Fraser — are not so much ridiculous as still unproven as general-purpose political leaders.

There is only one other way, aside from parliamentary performance, in which a new Conservative leader can emerge. That's as a provincial premier. Are either of the two possibilities — Lougheed of Alberta and Davis of Ontario — in a position to leave where they are with some chance for taking the convention prize? Circumstances don't look poor at the moment for either. The third electoral failure of Mr. Stanfield in a general election should suggest it is best to look for a new leader in the present caucus, and, more specifically, among those who prove themselves in House and committee performance in the next 18 to 20 months.

It has become fashionable to discount parliamentary performance, to look beyond it for a personality with reputation and an image. This seems short-sighted, if not stupid. For months and months we will have a prime minister, a ministry and a bureaucracy which the Conservative MPs can force through hoops and over jumps, if they put their minds to it. They can do so without any fear of an inadvertent election or being forced to postulate a range of policy alternatives such as led them into the prices and incomes gambit in the last minority Parliament.

There was shrewd common sense in the warnings John Diefenbaker gave his fellows more than a year ago when he said the parliamentary party seemed to be obsessed with economic issues. Bad or wasteful or extravagant or calloused or lethargic government is not only a good line of attack, it is always real or close to a reality, given the sheer size of government and the complexity of problems and administration.

A broad but fair generalization about the Tory caucus of the last Parliament is that its class of '72 was abler and delightfully fresher than the veterans, particularly the score or so of MPs whose service goes back to the Diefenbaker years of power.

The prescriptions for this caucus are obvious. Firstly, a determined effort to be loyal and co-operative with each other as a fighting entity. The rivals should be the Liberals and not Dalton Camp of the Stanfield staff or the Toronto Tories or the French Canadians or the more radically-minded among them such as Gordon Fairweather, David MacDonald and Flora MacDonald.

Secondly, the veterans — MPs like Woolliams, Dinsdale, Hamilton, MacQuarrie, Nielsen, Lambert, Horner, Hees, MacLean, Coates, Muir and Baldwin — should consider ways in which they can help and sustain some of the newer and new colleagues to break into the limelight with featured roles. Both the next leader and an interesting, even exciting, cast of a potential ministry post in 1978 must come mainly from this source.

Thirdly, the leader, Mr. Stanfield, and his shadow cabinet must work out a much more effective process of critical examination of the Goverment, particularly in committee work. This means getting a better research staff and much harder preparations by MPs for the task of scrutiny. There needs to be some ruthlessness in determining who will lead cross-examination of ministers and officials.

If there is any one distinction to be made between the general run of Conservative MPs, as against Liberals and New Democrats, it is that too many of them make a career out of constituency work, too few of them fix upon Parliament, and even more important, on what is going on in the departments and the agencies.

The soft-underbelly of the Government is not going to be torn open by question period darts or by speeches in the whole House but by the concerned development of at least a score of critics who know what they are searching for and never relent in that search.

If, as some pessimists feel, the Liberals were literally created to govern Canada, it doesn't mean Canada can do without a tough opposition. Only by being such an opposition, have the Conservatives a chance to prove the pessimists wrong in 1978.

Bad Fung Shui Stalls Builders

By H. D. S. GREENWAY

Fear of bad fung shui has forced Dow Chemical to change the date for a ground breaking ceremony for its $20 million polystyrene plant on Tsing Yi island.

News item:

A 23-year-old man fishing at the waterfront in Lyemun was beaten up by nearby villagers yesterday evening after they accused him of obstructing their fung shui.

News item:

Hong Kong — What is this mysterious force fung shui, that can change the plans of a giant American chemical company in Hong Kong and provoke a physical assault on a harmless young fisherman?

Fung Shui, literally "wind water," is a concept half as old as time that still exerts influence on Chinese life. It is based on the theory that every locality has certain cosmic forces that can influence human beings either for good or for evil. The art of fung shui is to determine the exact site for a building, a pagoda or a grave where the beneficial influences will prevail over evil. Although Hong Kong with its gleaming highrise buildings might seem thoroughly modern in every way, no architect nor builder here would dare to ignore the advice of the fung shui experts and their age-old discipline.

Time is only slightly less important than place to fung shui experts. The Dow Chemical Co., for example, had scheduled their groundbreaking ceremony for Tuesday, July 23. The fung shui men, however said that the ceremony should be moved up a day because Tuesday, being the fifth day of the sixth moon on the Chinese calendar, was a "broken day" and therefore suitable for demolition but not construction.

Monday, on the other hand, was a day for stability — good for such things as weddings, bathing, hair cutting, setting up a bed, taking a concubine and earth-breaking.

Local architects are often asked to alter their designs to suit fung shui. One architect here remembers being asked to redesign a showroom window for a local firm. The walls were curved and he suggested they be straightened. The owner agreed that straight walls might be better, but the problem was the curved walls attracted beneficial forces off the street and deflected them down to the well. Since the well had never yet run dry, even in the worst droughts, the owner saw no point in taking chances with straight walls.

Sometimes important government projects can be held up or even moved because of the objections of fung shui men. One project that was not moved, however, was a giant new reservoir at Plover Cover. A few years ago, when the project was in the planning stage, the fung shui experts violently objected to its location. The Hong Kong government, in this case, felt that there were not too many places where a reservoir could be placed and so, according to knowledgeable sources, the fung shui men were simply paid off to change their verdict.

The factors that an honest fung shui man must take into account are many. They include the four creatures associated with the four points of the compass — the azure dragon, the white tiger, the black tortoise and the red bird. Also to be taken into account are the five traditional elements of metal, earth, fire water and wood.

In the non-Communist Chinese world, including as Hong Kong, Taiwan and Singapore, modern times are eroding traditional beliefs. But faith in the principle of fung shui was strong enough to have sent Ha Kno-ling, the Lyemun fisherman, to the hospital here.

It seems that the local villagers thought he was fishing in a spot that would block the beneficial cosmic forces from reaching them. The villagers politely asked him to "keep off the fung sui," or words to that effect, and he refused. The villagers beat him seriously enough to secure his admittance to Queen Elizabeth Hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory.

WOMEN FLAIL PEOPLE TALKS

Times News Services

BUCHAREST — Feminists accused the UN-sponsored World Population Conference today of "incomprehensible" bias and demanded a greater say in drafting plans to limit the Earth's inhabitants.

Author Betty Friedan said the UN organized the conference "over the prone body of woman." Writer Germaine Greer said the delegates treated women as mere baby factories.

A group of delegates at the 149-nation meeting introduced an amendment to the draft action plan calling for the integration of women in future economic development programs.

"It would take more than 150 words to alter the whole bias of the plan of action, but it was more than any of us could do to sit silent and let such a plan be accepted," said Ms. Greer, author of the "Female Eunuch."

The amendment urges governments to bring women into the development process by providing education, employment and political participation on an equal basis with men.

"The failure of the plan to recognize that if women are offered no alternative role to childbearing, then they will never be motivated to contribute to their society in any other way, is incomprehensible," Ms. Greer said.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead, a conference delegate, advised the women, however, to work through official channels and cautioned them against making population control a feminist issue.

Cattalos, Cheasants On Menu?

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Cheasants and cattalos might be main dishes on future Canadian menus.

Both are hybrid animals being developed by University of Guelph researchers, one a cross between a chicken and pheasant and the other the offspring of a cow and bison buffalo.

Prof. P. K. Basrur of the department of biomedical sciences is investigating hybrid problems to better understand genetic aspects of cross-breeding. But the researchers also hope to develop two commercially-viable animals for consumption as well.

Prof. Basrur first heard of cheasants when he read that ancient German monarchs bred them for feasts. But he is facing the same problems as the old kings—sterility in the male hybrids and lack of functional reproductive organs in the female.

Several breeding projects involving cattalos have been carried out in North America since the turn of the century, but none of these produced a commercially-viable animal because of sterility and difficulty at calving time.

The cattalo looks like a bison with long hair and a constitution which makes it hardy for the winter and disease-resistant.

Prof. Basrur said research with cattalos has been going on at Guelph since 1968, but the work is slow because of long gestation and maturity times and the fact that only one offspring is born at once.

China Reveals Population

TOKYO (AP) — China has told the world for the first time since 1957 how many people it has: almost 800 million. The disclosure ends years of speculation by outsiders.

The last official population tally, released 17 years ago, showed 656.6 million people.

The new official figure was given in a speech Wednesday to the world population conference in Bucharest by Huang Shu-tse, Peking's delegate. Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, distributed the text of the speech today.

Huang left unanswered the important questions of whether the growth rate has stabilized or how fast the population is growing.

But he said that since Mao Tse-tung's Communists took over the mainland in 1949, China's population has grown by almost 60 per cent, from "about 500 million to nearly 800 million."

Class Size Guessing Game

When all the capital region's school-age children flock back to classes Sept. 3, school board officials will find out how good their guessing is.

If they're wrong and enrolments jump beyond their expectations, all the headaches caused by overcrowded schools result.

Most of the decline is in the older areas of the city, where retired couples are replacing young families. Here, in schools like Margaret Jenkins elementary, there are empty classrooms.

Families with children are moving out of the city, to Colwood and Metchosin, to the Saanich Peninsula, and to Gordon Head.

Gordon Head is expected to be the area of most serious overcrowding in Greater Victoria this year.

Enrolment at Gordon Head elementary is expected to exceed the school's capacity, so four portable classrooms have been leased to take the overload.

However, the portables won't be delivered until the end of September, and contingency plans are being made to handle the overload until they arrive.

This may involve busing some pupils to another school, or creating large classrooms, or going on a shift system, said director of instruction Dr. John Wiens.

The school board is planning to build two new elementary schools in the Gordon Head area, one around Arbutus junior secondary school, the other in the Ash-Torquay area.

A high school is also planned for a site next to Lambrick Park.

Another crowded school in the district will be Colquitz junior secondary. Plans have been made to bus some students who would normally go to Colquitz over to Shoreline junior secondary for classes.

Sooke School District, one of the fastest-growing districts in B.C., is expected to have around 500 more students in September over last year's 7,704.

The school board had leased 14 portables to handle the expected overload at schools.

The district is building a $500,000 addition to Dunsmuir junior secondary school, is planning an 800-student junior secondary school at Spencer and Goldstream for September 1975, and has another elementary school planned.

Saanich School District expects 6,466 students to show up this fall, 800 more than last year.

The district has eight new portables to provide extra classroom space, and is making plans for a South Sidney elementary school to open in September 1975.

CRASH KILLS ISLAND MAN

A 27-year-old Port Alice man was killed and three others injured when their car left Highway 19 about five miles north of Courtenay at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday.

RCMP have not released the name of the victim, who was the driver.

Fisherman Found Dead After Crash

A 62-year-old Vancouver fisherman was found dead in the wheelhouse of his gillnetter after colliding with a log-boom near Campbell River early Wednesday morning.

RCMP said the man, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin in Norway, apparently died of a heart attack.

Police said a tug towing two booms of logs had just come out of Seymour Narrows at 1 a.m. when it spotted a gillnetter circling erractically.

The fishing boat narrowly missed the tug, bounced over a tow line but then came around again and hit bow first into the first boom, climbed on the logs and keeled over.

Crew from the tug recovered the body which had become caught up in the wheel, and towed the badly damaged fishboat to Campbell River.

Fire Causes $2,000 Damages

A mattress fire caused $2,000 damage, mainly smoke, in a bedroom of a triplex at 3331 Maplewood early today.

A Saanich fire department spokesman said Douglas Allen Scott and Maurice Houle, both in their late 20s and the only occupants of the suite, escaped safely.

Scott, who had fallen asleep in the living room, was awakened by smoke filling the room and turned in the alarm at 4:34 a.m.

Firemen have not determined the cause but believe it may have been a malfunction in a head lamp above the bed in the unoccupied bedroom.

Scientists Differ on IUD Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) heard conflicting opinions in an unusual open hearing Wednesday over whether the Dalkon Shield poses a higher risk to millions of women than other intrauterine contraceptive devices (IUD).

Most of the more than 30 scientific and medical witnesses agreed, however, that IUDs in general are safer than other forms of birth control.

The FDA opened the two-day inquiry by reporting that it now knows of 36 deaths associated with IUDs, 8.8 million of which have been sold since 1966.

The Dalkon Shield was associated with 11 of the deaths and 209 cases of septic abortion or miscarriage involving uterine infections, the FDA said.

Last June 28, when the A. H. Robins Co. agreed to halt sales and distribution of the shield temporarily, seven deaths and slightly more than 100 cases of septic abortions had been reported.

The FDA said the new information, acquired in a survey of doctors, hospitals and clinics, also disclosed five deaths and 21 septic abortions associated with the Lippes Loop IUD, and one death and eight septic abortions associated with the Saf-T-Coil.

It also has advised physicians not to remove the shield if a woman has been wearing it successfull, but recommended that therapeutic aboritions be considered if the user becomes pregnant.

Dr. Robert Snowden, a social scientist with Exeter University in England, cautioned the FDA not to move precipitously against the Dalkon Shield or other IUDs.

Removal of restrictions on the availability of IUDs would "change the contraception life-style of millions of women" around the world, he warned.

No deaths were experienced in the more than 6,000 women fitted with Dalkon Shields in a United Kingdom family planning research project during the last few years, he said.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A William Head inmate with a record of 14 convictions between 1962 and 1971 had another one added in provincial court Wednesday.

Frank Joseph Schlosser, 63, was given a two-year jail term after pleading guilty to being unlawfully at large from the prison.

Schlosser, left a work party near Camosun College, May 29 and took a taxi towards Swartz Bay. He was arrested June 15 by RCMP at Fernie.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett read Schlosser's criminal record — which included theft and escaping custody — back to 1962.

Judge William Ostler then said he had heard enough and imposed sentence.

A man accused in a stabbing incident Monday was committed to the Lower Mainland Regional Correctional Centre for a mental observation.

Allen Donald Laatsch, 25, of 975 North Park, will appear in court again Sept. 6.

Dr. Lloyd McNiven said he believed Laatch to be mentally ill.

Laatch is charged with assault with intent to wound Gary William Hurst, 25, and assault causing bodily harm to William Leslie Klassen, 19, both of 975 North Park.

Dianne McHardy, 18, of 46 Clarence, was fined $100 after pleading guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent.

She took a car from a Harriet Road residence at 10 a.m. Aug. 18, drove up Vancouver Island, and didn't return it until 6 p.m. the following day.

John Edward Stevens, 3164 Gamma, pleaded guilty to seven counts of uttering forged cheques in Victoria this year and to four counts of obtaining cash or goods by worthless cheques in Kelowna in 1973.

Stevens, who also pleaded guilty to breaking into a Victoria car firm in January 1966, will be sentenced Sept. 6.

Ostler asked for a pre-sentence report after noting Stevens had not had any convictions for 11 years.

In 1963 Stevens had been convicted of uttering forged documents, theft, and false pretences.

Two 18-year-old boys were found guilty of contributing to juvenile delinquency by having marijuana in the presence of a 14-year-old girl.

David Jenson, and Brian Quatsch, both of 2136 Ridge, will be sentenced Sept. 18.

The girl had been at the youth's apartment between July 20 and 25.

In shoplifting offences, Cheryl Leslie Robinson, 17, of 615 Bryden Court, was given a suspended sentence and six months' probation for putting an item of clothing worth $9.99 in her hand bag at The Bay, 1701 Douglas, without paying for it.

Edward Eugene Kenny, 28, of Vancouver, was also given a suspended sentence and six months' probation for stealing hand lotion, deodorant and a potato peeler from Safeway at 3555 Douglas.

Ronald William Aldred, 18, of 1765 Taylor, was fined $75 for possessing cannabis resin.

SKAGIT TALKS ADJOURNED

WASHINGTOON (CP) Federal Power Commission hearings into an application by Seattle Light and Power to raise the height of Ross Dam on the Skagit River — a move which would flood sections of a British Columbia valley — adjourned Wednesday to resume again Oct. 7.

At least 10 witnesses remain to be heard in what is expected to be the final session. Most of those witnesses are expected to be FPC staff members testifying on technical matters.

In Victoria today purchase of U.S. funds in terms of Canadian dollars was .9725 U.S. by the Royal Bank with .9730 for cheques and .9625 for coins. Selling rates were .9830 for cheques and .9835 for cash.

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds at noon today was unchanged at $0.97 21-25. Pound sterling was down 14-25 at $2.26 7-25.

In New York, the Canadian dollar was unchanged at $1.02 21-200. Pound sterling was down 53-100 at $2.31 7-25.

Business Service Finds Steel Shares Attractive

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Business Service of Toronto says Canadian steel shares continue to be attractive despite a federal inquiry into steel-price increases.

The service says in a recent investment letter that the price increases appear to be warranted, in light of increased costs, particularly for labor, fuel and raw materials.

There is a global shortage of steel and Canada's prices are among the lowest to be found—about $60 to $100 less per ton than charged by foreign producers, the service says.

In 1973, domestic prices rose by an average of 10 per cent while prices outside Canada were about 30 per cent higher.

If Canada's steel industry was attempting to "profiteer," the service says, it would be charging higher prices domestically and making greater effort to sell into higher-priced foreign markets.

Canadian steel consumption has grown substantially but, even with additions to capacity to equal growth, they are not expected to be able to meet demand in the near future.

Regardless of any worldwide economic slowdown, Canadian Business Service says, steel consumption in Canada should continue to grow. Major construction efforts, including the Athabasca oil sands development, the James Bay and Nelson River hydro projects and the Mackenzie Valley pipeline will be continuing sources of demand.

With an outlook of growing prosperity, the firm recommends three domestic stocks:

In the first quarter of 1974, net income rose 125 per cent to $11.7 million, or $1 a share. Despite an apparent slowing in the rate of economic expansion, the service says, Algoma continues to operate at a high level of capacity utilization, receiving higher prices for its output and expanding its record backlog of orders.

The service predicts 1974 earnings will reach $3.40 a share, and recommends Algoma as a buy for long-term capital appreciation.

Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. Dofasco is the second-largest integrated steel producer in Canada.

Sales for the first quarter of 1974 rose 25 per cent and net income advanced 38 per cent compared with the corresponding period of 1973. The demand for steel remains strong and Dofasco, forced to serve its customers on an allocation basis, is in the process of a 10-year, $700-million project to double its steel making capacity.

Canadian Business Service, which estimates 1974 earnings will reach $3.95 a share, says Dofasco is a buy for capital appreciation and modest current income.

Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. (Stelco) is the largest domestic steel producer with an annual capacity of about six million tons. Stelco's operations include coal, iron ore and limestone mining.

For the first quarter of 1974, per-share earnings rose 17.3 per cent to 88 cents on a sales increase of 15.5 per cent from the corresponding 1973 period. Canadian Business Service says annual earnings should reach $4.15 a share.

The service considers Stelco a buy for long-term capital appreciation and modest current income.

Can. General Electric

Canadian General Electric reports a drop in net earnings for the six months ended June 30 to $9,390 million or $1.15 a share compared with $9,850 million or $1.20 a share for the corresponding period in 1973.

Sales increased 11 per cent to $312 million from $282 million in 1973.

CGE said in a statement the first-half earnings reflect the adverse impact of a four-week strike in 10 plants during the first quarter.

Second-quarter earnings were a record $8.937 million or $1.09 a share, 49-per-cent increase over the previous year's figures of $5.996 million or 73 cents a share.

Acklands

Acklands Ltd. of Downsview, Ont., says it has acquired for cash R. L. Kennedy (1970) Ltd. and its three subsidiaries, all automotive jobbers operating in British Columbia.

The subsidiaries are Echo Motor Products Ltd., Echo Motor Products (Haney) Ltd. and Echo Motor Products (Cache Creek) Ltd. The acquisition also included Echo Motor Products (Powell River) Ltd.

Acklands said combined annual sales of the companies for 1973 amounted to about $2 million.

Boeing Co.

The Boeing Co. has been awarded a $2 million contract by Bechtel, Inc., for 4,200 shock absorbers for the trans-Alaska pipeline.

The steel and rubber shock absorbers are to cushion the pipeline in storms or earthquakes. Each will weigh 750 pounds.

They are to be delivered by July.

Wescorp Ind.

Wescorp Industries Ltd. has reported net earnings of $214,400 or $1.78 a share for the first six months of 1974, compared with $163,500 or $1.36 the same period last year.

Consolidated revenue amounted to $6 million compared with $5.6 million last year. The figures are unaudited.

President A. B. Cliff attributed the rise in earnings to the contributions from Western Pottery Co., Inc., Mariner Homes Ltd., Pafco Insurance Co. Ltd. and Bramalea Wescorp Developments Ltd.

Shares in the company have recently ranged between $5-$7 on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

Little Leaguers Bow Again, 10-1

Jackson, Tenn., dropped the Canadian champions 10-1 in a consolation-round game today that finished in the rain.

Esquimalt-Vic West committed five errors and two pitchers, David O'Brien and Mike Bitten, who came on in the fifth inning, allowed nine Jackson hits.

Esquimalt-Vic West now faces Athens, Greece, to decide seventh place in a game scheduled for Friday morning.

Jeff Flemming recorded the win for Jackson, which had been favored to take the title from Taiwan before dropping a 1-0 decision to Venezuela in the other Wednesday contest. Flemming struck out 12 batters while yielding only two bases on balls and four hits.

O'Brien had nine strikeouts, allowing seven hits and two walks.

Third-baseman Ben Christie was outstanding in a defensive role for the second straight game by making several key plays for the Canadian champions.

O'Brien's lone single of the game brought in Guyle Cornett for the Esquimalt-Vic West run in the third inning. Cornett walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch and moved to third on an error.

Bitten led Esquimalt batters with two singles on four trips.

On Wednesday, Mark Keluche, a five-foot-eleven, 250-pound 12-year-old with the nickname of Running Bear, shackled Esquimalt with his performance on the mound to lead Red Bluff, Calif., to a 3-0 victory and into today's semi-final against Venezuela.

Keluche struck out 11 batters and gave up two bases on balls in the six-inning contest while holding Esquimalt to singles by Mike Bull and Guyle Cornet.

Bull, who won all eight of his previous playoff starts, struck out nine and yielded no walks. Two of the five hits given up by Bull came in the fourth inning when Red Bluff scored all its runs.

Keluche got the rally going with his second single of the game and advanced on second baseman Mike Bitten's error of Gale Gilbert's grounder with one out. Paul Richard then trapped Keluche between third and home after fielding a grounder by Rocky Pociano, but Keluche slid under a diving tag by Guyle Cornett to score.

Greg Shoff's double drove in Gilbert with the second run and Pociano scored on a wild relay from Dave O'Brien in the outfield.

In another consolation game Wednesday, Fred Murphy rapped two homers and drove in five runs to lead New Haven, Conn., to a 13-9 victory over Greece.

DOUG PEDEN - EDITOR

Wild Ending Kills Argos

By The Canadian Press

While Saskatchewan Roughriders were relying on veterans Ron Lancaster and George Reed for a 10-8 victory Wednesday night over Calgary Stampeders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers had something a little bit special.

The Bombers got a big break in the final moments of the game and turned it into a touchdown for an 18-13 win over Toronto Argonauts, their first victory of the Canadian Football League season after three losses.

"I didn't even know it was a touchdown until they put the ball down for the extra point," said Winnipeg quarterback Don Jonas. "I thought we'd just got the one point."

The wild finish, capping a generally lacklustre game before 21,139 fans in Winnipeg, began when the Argos had Zenon Andrusyshyn punt from the end zone on the final play of the game, although time had actually run out before the kick.

Winnipeg kicker Walt McKee picked up the punt, stepped around Peter Muller on the Toronto 35-yard-line, and booted the ball back into the end zone, where Wayne Allison of the Argos tried unsuccessfully to make a return punt.

Dave Knechtel of the Bombers blocked Allison's attempt, and Jim Heighton recovered the ball in the Argonaut end zone for the touchdown.

"It was really a stupid play," Jonas said of the Toronto manoeuvre. "All he (Andrusyshyn) had to do was kick the ball out of bounds, the game is over, we don't get a chance."

At Calgary, playing before about 26,200 fans, Lancaster threw a 44-yard scoring pass to Steve Mazurak on the first play of the second quarter, and the Roughriders never looked back.

Place kicker Brian Berg converted Mazurak's touchdown and booted a 37-yard field goal fifth 40 seconds gone in the fourth quarter that provided Saskatchewan with the margin of victory.

Larry Robinson, who put the cellar-dwelling Stampeders on the scoreboard with a 32-yard single mid-way through the first quarter, converted the fourthquarter touchdown plunge by fullback Gene Thomas, with less than two minutes left to play.

The Stampeders, who suffered their fourth loss against one win, put on one of their better defensive performances of the season but couldn't hold down Reed, who led all rushers with 104 yards on 17 carries.

Moody Jackson, a rookie, was a good target for Stampeder quarterback Peter Liske, catching six passes for 120 yards. Liske completed 22 of 35 pass attempts for 316 yards, compared with Lancaster's 17 completions on 29 attempts for 167 yards.

At Winnipeg, the Bombers got things together in the fourth quarter and fullback John Bledsoe capped a 75-yard, 12-play march with a one-yard touchdown plunge at 7:24 of the quarter.

In the game's final minutes, the Bombers' offensive drive stalled on the Argonaut 37 yard line, and a field goal attempt by Walt McKee went wide.

But the Winnipeg defensive line, led by Heighton and Lloyd Grimsrud, held tight on the next two plays and the Argonauts were forced into the third-down situation on the four-yard-line that led to the winning points.

The Bate Record Speaks For Itself

When Victoria Bate defeated the Stuffy McGinnis League All-Stars 4-0 on Sunday evening at Heywood Avenue Park, that made it 58 and 13 on the season for this city's representative team in the Canadian Senior Men's Softball championships starting here Sunday.

This is indeed a fine record of accomplishment, and it becomes the more impressive when it is considered that much of it was compiled in tournament and championship competititon. For breaking it down even further, 10 of those defeats came in the fast and highly competitive Northwest International League and most of the hurts were inflicted by league champion Seattle Pay-'n Pak, Bates losing five to the Seattle squad.

In addition, and a definite tribute to the Bate's pitching staff which manager John Oster claims is the strongest three-man corps in the nation, there were 37 shutouts registered by Dave Ruthowsky, Stan Kern and Clay Allinotte. In 10 other contests Bate pitchers allowed only one run.

If this is intended to scare off the opposition, it probably won't work but nonetheless, here is the club's tournament record which should give the figure filberts something more to mull over:

A Title Page From The Past

In the Yakima Invitational, Bates won in four straight games, giving up only one run;

In the Pacific Northwest Tournament, Bates finished first, won four straight and allowed but two runs;

In the Seattle Heidelberg tournament, Bates won two and lost two; finished fourth and gave up seven runs;

In the Yakima Apple Classic, Bates won in four straight games, and gave up four runs;

To top it off, in a total of 151 tournament innings, Bate's pitchers, aided and abetted by a strong defence, gave up only 16 runs.

So that's the team that will represent the city and the province in the Canadian championship. It could be safely said, "We're in good hands."

But what about other city teams, such as the first club to ever win what then was the ultimate — the Western Canada championship. They were pretty great then, too, and most members of the Esquimalt Meat Market team of 1947 will agree. So undoubtedly will pickup Ken Gunter.

There had been a bit of a hassle before the finals between Esquimalt and Saskatoon Merchants, that old and continuing Vancouver-Victoria type disagreement, but B.C. president Wally Yeamans saw to it that Esquimalt got its fair shake, even if the series had to be played in Vancouver. Yep, over there.

There were several legendary figures involved in the championship. Ab Ellis, Tommy Duncan, Vic Dale, Ray Byers, Gar Taylor, Ralph Bonner, Leon Hall, Chick Newman, Bill Raftery, Ed Young, Ron Webster, George Kinch, Bill Mair, Ted Saunders — that was the team managed by the irrespressible Jim Lackie. Plus Gunter.

Maybe Even The Best Ever

So Gunter became one of the pitching heroes, winning the final game, 3-2, after losing a 10-inning heartbreaker in his first start.

The other mound ace was George Kinch who won two games while knocking in the winning run in the first. And it was relief outfielder "Dusty" Mair, filling in for regular Byers, who supplied the punch in the final, getting two hits, including a triple, and batting in the winning runs.

Of course, that was the year too, when South Africa's Bobby Locke shot a 67 at Royal Colwood in an exhibition match with Joe Pryke (72), Stan Leonard (69) and Freddie Painter (80); when Canadian Legion won the Vancouver Island baseball championship defeating Duncan, 6-5, in the final; when Digger Coldwell was the scourge of Langford Speedway, winning on that week the helmet dash, first heat and 30-lap reverse main; when the "Egg and I" with Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray was in its third week at the Plaza; when jockey shorts sold for 85 cents; when peas were three cans for a quarter; when pot roast (chuck or blade) was 29 cents; and the Saturday night special, prime rib, went for 39 cents a pound. Oh boy!

So times have changed and games are shorter now, only seven innings, compared to nine in those days, and if the calibre is better, Bate's record would appear to indicate they are rightful heirs to what has gone before.

As a matter of fact, it's quite clear they are perhaps the best team ever from this town. Even good old Esquimalt should agree.

WAKEHAM'S THREE-UNDER YIELDS TITLE

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Bill Wakeham, a 33-year-old pro from Cowichan Golf and Country Club, shot a two-under-par 70 in the final round Wednesday for a three-stroke victory in the $25,000 Northwest Open golf tournament.

Wakeham, winner of the Washington Open earlier this year, finished the 72-hole run at 285, three under par at the Illahe Hills Country Club course. He won a first-place check of $2,500.

Salem pro Chuck Milne used a 70 in the morning round to take the 54-hole lead at 214. Wakeham was in a five-way tie for second at that stage, one stroke back. Finally, the Canadian took command with birdies on two of the final six holes, sinking putts of 15 and 20 feet at the 13th and 16th greens.

Hot Round Rubbed Out

WINNIPEG (CP) — First-round play in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship was cancelled Wednesday after thunderstorms and torrential rainfall left the Niakwa Country Club course unplayable.

Officials of the Royal Canadian Golf Association decided to wipe out the scores of the 31 golfers who had finished their 18 holes before the deluge made further play impossible.

The RCGA decided to abbreviate the championship to three days with 36 holes being played Saturday. Original plans called for four 18-hole rounds Wednesday through Saturday.

The low 70 and ties from the 142-man field Thursday and Friday, instead of 60 as first planned, will go into Saturday's final two rounds.

Buttons Retained

Gorge Vale partners Lew Sargent and Hugh Reid turned back a sixth successive challenge for the Victoria and District senior golf buttons when they defeated the Victoria Golf Club pair of Jim Glassford and Ledley McMaster on the 17th green in a match played at the Colwood course.

U.S. Golfer Leads

EDMONTON (CP) — Debbie Massey of Bethlehem, Pa., shot five birdies in a row Wednesday and posted a record-breaking 70 to grab the first-round lead in the Canadian women's amateur golf championships.

Heading the strongest international field to play in the women's amateur in many years, Miss Massey tore five strokes from par at the Edmonton Golf and Country Club course and opened a three-shot lead over her closest rival, Betty Cole of Edmonton.

Mrs. Cole, No. 1 player on the Alberta provincial team that opened a lead in the annual competition which ends today, managed a 71 several years ago. Her 73 Wednesday was "my best showing in the opening round, since about 1967."

Only six players including three Americans broke or matched par. One shot behind Mrs. Cole was Katie Falk of Milwaukee, while Gail Lee of Edmonton and Gail Moore of Vancouver tied Amy Alcott of Pacific Palisades, Calif., for fourth place at even par.

Dale Shaw of Victoria Glen Meadows was alone in 19th place with a 40-40—80.

Ahead of Miss Semple and Mrs. Streit were Liz Hoffman of Thornhill, Ont., at 76, Deb Savoy of La Tuque, Que., at 77 and five including Mary Everad of England at 78.

Also at 78 were Cathy McMillan of Ponoka, Alta., Susan Wickware of Toronto, promising junior Jill Badger of Vancouver and Donna Sears of Summerside, P.E.I.

Cole and McMillan sparked defending champion Alberta to a one-shot lead over Ontario in the team competition with British Columbia four shots back in third place.

Nanaimo Golfer Out

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) Sandy Harper of Nanaimo and Jim Goddard of North Vancouver were among the British Columbia players ousted from the championship flight of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association junior championship Wenesday.

Chris Mitchell of Downriver, Wash., the favorite, was also defeated in the event being held at the Seymour Golf Club. Ron Steidel of Olympic Hills, Wash., upset Mitchell.

Art Webster Services Held

Memorial services were held for a well-known former city athlete and dental surgeon at McCall Bros. Tuesday.

Dr. Arthur S. (Art) Webster passed away at Veterans Hospital on Sunday following a prolonged illness.

In his younger days he was active in many sports, particularly basketball and baseball, and was especially proficient in the latter. In recent years he was a member of Uplands Golf Club.

During World War Two he served overseas with the Canadian Dental Corps, achieving the rank of major.

He is survived by his wife, Grace, a son Gary, a daughter Gayle (Mrs. Doug Anderson), a sister Edna (Mrs. J. Ross), a brother Harry, and five grandchildren, all residing in the Victoria area.

Ladies Back on Courts In Times Tennis Event

The ladies are back on the courts and the men are off and running in fourth-round matches of the Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament.

Because of a much larger entry for the men's singles section of the tourney designed for public parks players who do not participate in competition at organized clubs the four surviving entrants in women's singles have been waiting during the past few weeks for the men to complete their third-round matches.

Now the men are ready to go swinging in contests that will send winners into quarter-final matches and the ladies have received the green light to play their semi-final games.

In those semi-finals, it will be Liz-Anne Ogden playing Jane Welch and Jo-Anne Stone meeting Shirley Bhandar with the victors then waiting to play their title match on grand finals day, when finals will be held in all of the tourney's four singles events.

Linda Weech and Wendy Lafave have reached the girls' final while contenders for the boys' crown are returning to action for quarter-final contests.

Several close battles marked the third round of men's singles with some of them being decided by 9-7 counts in the pro-type sets being used in the tournament.

In pro-type sets, the winner is the first player to win nine games. In the event the score reaches 8-8, the final game is decided on a tiebreaker system, going to the player first winning seven or more points while holding at least a two-point advantage.

Scores of 9-7 were recorded in three of the men's contests as Gord Liebscher defeated Alfred Hass, Greg Booth clipped Jose Mandap and Roy Livesey eliminated Gordon Greer. Ken Cameron topped Andrew Mowatt by a 9-6 count.

Scores of matches in the next round must be reported to the Times by Sept. 3. Cards have been mailed to players involved, informing them of opponents and who is responsible for arranging places and times of matches.

MEN'S SINGLES RESULTS

Third round: Jim Temple defeated Ron Frederick 9-2; Arthur Underhill defeated Dick Dujkowski 9-3; Peter Thompson defeated Denny Wong 9-2; Ken Cameron defeated Andrew Mowatt 9-6; Tom Dumancic defeated Erik Lunde 9-5; Timo Markkanen defeated Ian Scott 9-1; Greg Booth defeated Jose Mandap 9-7; Roland Maier defeated Tom Hatcher 9-4; Roy Livesay defeated Gordon Greer 9-7; Garry Davey defeated Ray Troyer by default; William Scott defeated Dennis Ferrill 6-2, 4-6, 6-0; Gary Lokken defeated R. A lawyer's report on violence in amateur hockey drew disagreement from his law firm partner, guarded criticism from Ontario Premier William Davis and strong criticism from National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell.

The premier supported William McMurtry, a Toronto lawyer who recommended mandatory game misconduct penalties for fighting on the ice, but stopped short of placing the blame on the NHL.

McMurtry was asked by the provincial government last April to investigate violence in amateur hockey in Ontario.

Commenting on McMurtry's 47-page report released Wednesday, Davis says he does not know if there is any action his government might take to make the game misconduct penalty mandatory for players who fight on the ice.

Campbell, defending the NHL and pro hockey from the lawyer's criticism, branded the report as "a customary product of McMurtry's imagination ... personal assessment for which he has neither the mandate nor the competence."

Farmer Construction leaned on the lumber Wednesday night to trim the Senior Amateur Baseball League's championship series to a best-of-three affair.

Farmers banged out 11 hits to defeat Greaves' Movers 9-4 at Lambrick Park and deadlock the best-of-seven final 2-2. Fifth game will be played tonight, starting at 6:15.

Catcher Dan Rogers and outfielder Dave McDonald each had three hits for the winners. Both drove in two runs. First baseman Glen Wallis drove in three runs with a bases-clearing double in the second inning.

Dave Morgan collected wo singles for Greaves.

The game was called after six innings because of darkness.

Doubles Win

OTTAWA — Glen Bradshaw of Victoria, eliminated in singles play earlier this week, partnered David Dimmer of Toronto to a 6-1, 6-2 victory over a Quebec duo of Eugene Lapierre and Ross Lareau in an 18-and-under doubles match Wednesday at the Canadian Closed tennis championships at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

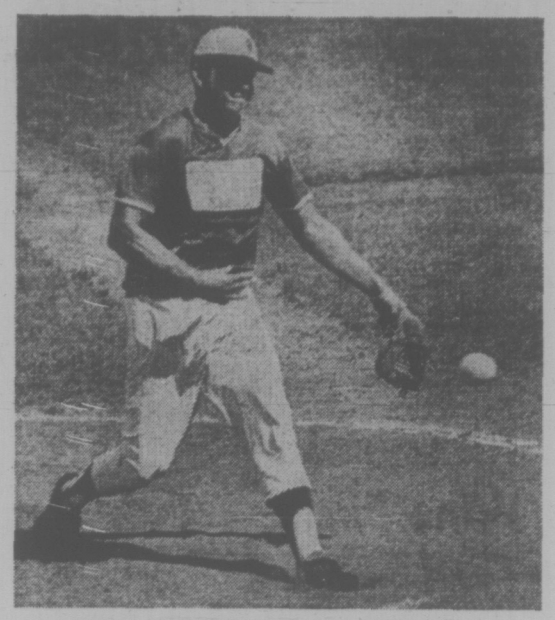
Ruthowsky Typifies the 'Team' Approach



DAVE RUTHOWSKY ... a modest star

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Teams from across Canada start filing into Victoria tonight for the Canadian men's softball championships, and a few might get to know Dave Ruthowsky.

It may mean trouble for the rivals.

The big righthander is one of three pitchers Victoria Bates and their supporters hope will lead the team to success in the 12-team national tournament which starts Sunday at Royal Athletic Park.

Fireballing Stan (the Colonel) Kern and southpaw Dave Allinotte are the others.

The three form the mound staff that Bates manager Joe Patterson feels is "as balanced and as good as any in Canada."

And when he considers the harmony the three pitchers add to the team's repetoire, then Patterson reckons them to "be better than any other three pitchers in Canada."

Harmony is a big thing with Bates. Patterson, business manager John Oster, sponsor Herb Bate and even the players have taken to harping about the team's morale this season.

Ruthowsky typifies the attitude that prevails on the Victoria team.

The 26-year-old carpenter was voted the top pitcher in the 1973 Canadian finals, and was so honored again in tournaments at Yakima and Vancouver this season.

He was nominated for Victoria's male athlete-of-the-year award. And how did he greet that piece of news?

"I felt very fortunate people have noticed softball," he said

"That's why we consider our team as one of 16 players ... and not just nine guys," said third baseman Wayne Forland. "No matter who Joe (Pattefson) puts on the field, we know that team is capable of winning."

Other Victoria players agree with Forland.

"There's no fanfare when a guy is pulled out of a game," said another player. "There's a man behind every position, and that makes us all play that much harder."

Kern, Ruthowsky and Allinotte each realize the depth, and the rest of the team has caught their awarness.

Ruthowsky, despite a quiet and almost-gentle attitude, was one of the major architects in the installation of superb morale. Despite his quiet manners, his attitude has been highly infectious.

He trusts and relies on the eight players supporting him. For his trust, the eight respond, each in his own way, with a glove or a bat or fast feet.

And the Quiet Man is not without humor.

Playing a Northwest International League game at Longview, Wash., earlier this season, a rival batter tagged a Ruthowsky offering extremely hard. Somehow, Forland got his glove on the ball and held on, although the vicious line drive nearly tore the third baseman's arm out of his socket.

Ruthowsky beamed, obviously grateful for Forland's great stab.

"I've got 'em popping up," said the pitcher to his third baseman.

Seaboard Still Torrid at Bat

"When you're hot, you're hot ..."

Seaboard Construction bats area, and Century Inn may have a hard time stopping their rivals in the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League final.

Seaboard continued a home-run barrage Wednesday at Central Park to defeat Century 8-1 and grab a commanding 2-0 lead in the best-of-five championship series. The third game will be played tonight at Heywood Avenue Park.

Seaboard opened the series Tuesday with four homers that accounted for all their runs in an 11-5 victory. The Contractors banged out three more Wednesday to account for six more runs.

Glen Kilduff, with a two-run shot in the first, and Brian Grexton, with a three-run blast in the sixth, both banged out their second homers of the series.

Jack Lusk added a solo clout in the fourth as Seaboard's 15-hit attack enabled Glen Bullen to cruise to a comfortable win.

Hygrades Triumph

Rhonda Benham and Rennee Zarelli bashed out home runs Wednesday night to give Hygrade Radio an eight-inning 4-3 victory over CAV Electronics at Hyacinth Park in the opening game of a playoff to break a three-way tie for fourth spot and the last playoff berth in the Victoria Senior Women's Softball League.

FAMILY FRIENDS BOOST CATS

"Friends of the family" may help give Victoria Cougars a winning relationship in the Western Canada Hockey League this season.

Manager-coach Pat Ginnell has the lines out for two foreign players. If they make the grade with the Victoria team, Ginnell can thank the Friendly and Family Connection.

Both 17, the players negotiating with Ginnell are centre Jarl Bjorquist of Sweden and defenceman Gord Roberts of Detroit.

Roberts is a known commodity. Although he had been on Cougars' list for almost a year, Ginnell didn't "count too much" on Roberts' services when the player was Sudbury Wolves' first choice in the Ontario Junior Hockey League's draft.

The player's father, however, has had second thoughts about allowing his son to play in Sudbury. Jim Skinner, assistant manager of Detroit Red Wings and long-time friend of Ginnell's suggested Victoria.

A sister now living in Thompson, Man., was instrumental in directing the Swedish player to Ginnell. Ginnell helped pay his fare to Canada.

Ginnell also confirmed Jack Durston, who formerly coached Vancouver in the B.C. Junior League and during the team's brief stay in the Western Canada League, is a leading candidate to direct Nanaimo Clippers, Victoria's affiliate in the BCJHL.

Late TD Beats Sharks

By The Associated Press

Birmingham quarterback Matthews Reed drove the Americans to two touchdowns in the fourth quarter—the second one coming with barely a minute to play—for a 15-14 victory over Jacksonville Sharks Wednesday night in World Football League play.

In other WFL games, New York Stars demolished Houston Texans 43-10, Memphis Southemen crushed Hawaiians 60-8, Southern California Sun nosed out Philadelphia Bell 31-18 and Florida Blazers beat Portland Storm 11-7. The Chicago Fire visits the Detroit Wheels tonight.

Greg Latta scored on a second-period 20-yard toss from Bob Davis, then caught his action-point pass, to lead Florida past Portland.

Cardinals Lose Ground But Los Angeles Gains

By The Associated Press

The hard-charging Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates picked up a full game on St. Louis Wednesday night, closing to within 1½ games of the Cardinals, leaders in the National League's East Division.

The Pirates tripped San Francisco Giants, 4-2 and the Phillies battered Cincinnati Reds 10-3 while St. Louis was dropping a 5-4 decision to the Braves at Atlanta.

In other NL baseball games, Los Angeles Dodgers widened their West Division lead to 3½ games by defeating Chicago Cubs 7-5, New York Mets ripped Houston Astros 10-2 and Montreal Expos nipped San Diego Padres 8-7.

In the American League, Roger Moret limited Chicago to just one hit — an infiel dsingle—and struck out 12 in pitching Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 victory over the White Sox Wednesday night.

Elsewhere, Texas Rangers beat Baltimore Orioles 5-1, Cleveland Indians edged Kansas City Royals 7-6, New York Yankees defeated Minnesota Twins 4-1, Milwaukee Brewers trimmed Oakland A's 5-3 and Detroit Tigers blanked California Angels 2-0.

SUSAN WINS TRAP TITLE

Miss Nattrass, 21, broke 100 straight targets in the champions' competition and hit 98 in the class "D" event.

Alan Janko, an 18-year-old University of Delaware student, won the Ohio Handicap by beating Ray Stafford of Denver in a shootoff after both cracked 99 out of 100 targets.

Richmond Wins First

NEW WESTMINSTER — Ray Durante hammered in four goals and Rico Bellusci added three Wednesday night to help Richmond Roadrunners to a 12-9 victory over league champion Burnaby Cablevision in the opening game of the Pacific Junior "A" Lacrosse League semi-finals.

Mike McLenaghen led Cables with three goals.

UVic Workouts In Soccer, Rugby

Practice sessions have started for soccer and rugby at the University of Victoria: Monday and Wednesday for soccer at 7 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday for rugby at 6 p.m.

Adanac Victory Comes on Rally

RICHMOND, (CP) — Coquitlam Adanacs came alive in the last two periods to post a 14-13 Western Lacrosse Association semi-final victory over Vancouver Burrards Wednesday.

Coquitlam now leads the best-of-five series, 2-1. Fourth game will be played Friday in Coquitlam.

Adanacs, held off the scoreboard in the first period, scored seven goals in the second period and seven more in the final frame to overcome the Burrards, the defending WLA Champions.

Dave Durante led the winners with five goals. George Musseau and Rhys Parson scored two goals each while singles were added by Jim Aitchison, Don Cameron, Don Brown, Wayne Finck and Jim Rickbiel.

Esquimalt Registration

Registration sessions for boys wishing to play in the Esquimalt Minor Hockey Association this season begin Saturday at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Prospective players will be able to register Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Other signing sessions are scheduled at the Sports Centre on Sept. 4 (6 to 8 p.m.) and Sept. 7 (10 a.m. to 1 p.m.).

Except for those in the six-to-eight-year division, who will pay $25, players will be required to pay a $35 registration fee. Charges for a family will be $70 for two players and $10 for each additional boy.

CANADA HAS LEAD

The Canadian national team, led by Zohil Tonci of Montreal with two goals, remained undefeated in an international youth soccer tournament Wednesday by beating the Dominican Republic, 5-0.

The victory, before 2,600 fans in Toronto, gave Canada the lead in Group I with a 2-0 record. Bermuda and Nicaragua share second, each with 1-1 records, while the Dominican Republic is 0-2.

Canada can clinch the group title and advance to the semi-finals with a win Saturday over Nicaragua.

VANCOUVER (CP) — An American and an Italian were awarded Fields medals Wednesday to mark the opening of the International Congress of Mathematicians here. Dr. David Mumford of Harvard University and Dr. Enrico Bombieri of the University of Pisa were presented with the medals by Lieut. Gov. Walter Owen. The medals are regarded as the highest prize in mathematics, the equivalent of a Nobel prize.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alderman Jack Volrich warned Wednesday that Vancouver homeowner's assessments would increase by 100 per cent or more in 1975. This would not mean a comparable increase in property taxes, he said. In a memorandum to council, Volrich said taxation mill rates would have to be adjusted downward to offset the assessment increases resulting from new provincial legislation.

PENTICTON (CP) — Members of local 1572 of the British Columbia Interior Fruit and Vegetable Worker's Union have voted nearly 80 per cent to accept a contract with 20 Interior fruit packing plants. Tht new two-year contract between 1,700 union members and plants belonging to the Okangan Federated Shippers Association establishes one wage rate for men and women and gives workers a total wage increase of 90 cents an hour.

Breakaway Okanagan fruit growers, faced with mounting problems under their independent marketing scheme, received little help Wednesday from Agriculture Minister David Stupich.

The rebels, who deserted the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association to establish their own United Fruit Growers, discovered recently they have no bulk bins to carry apples from the orchards to the packing houses.

They also lack packing-house facilities—if they could find the needed bins—and apple harvesting is about to begin.

"I don't have any bins or facilities to give them," Stupich said, adding that the group may now approach the industry for help.

The group, which represents about 250 growers, also complained about the tactics of the official agency, the B.C. Fruit Growers Association.

Hans Rhenisch, president of the rebel group, said the official agenc ytried to pressure his members by telling them they had to signify their intentions to use the facilities of the official marketing scheme by Aug. 15 rather than by Oct. 31.

Stupich said he could do nothing about the date because he has no authority over the packing houses and he "realizes" the houses must know ahead of time what fruit they will be receiving.

Asked if ht thought the rebel growers were embarrassed by their plight after such a long battle to opt out of the official agency, Stupich said: "I was in their position I would be embarrassed."

"They led them (the growers) out of one scheme that was operating and had facilities and then found out, at this late date, they have no facilities to handle them."

Scientist Eyes Sun

VANCOUVER (CP) — An associate professor of engineering at the University of Western Ontario said Wednesday the sun is the best possible source of long-term energy supply.

Speaking at the Energy and Man Conference at the Pacific National Exhibtiion being held here this week, R. K. Swartman said the standard sources of energy now in use are all finite.

Little of the sun's potential energy is harnessed now even though solar energy can be used to heat water, produce pure water, heat space, produce electricity from solar cells and even to refrigerate, he said.

"Solar energy can include wind, waves, photsynthesis, ocean temperature gradient, even hydraulic sources," said Swartman.

Although solar energy for Canada has been discounted by the Science Council of Canada, a study by the University of Western Ontario suggest at least 70 per cent of the heating load of a house in southwestern Ontario could be provided by solar energy, he claimed.

Swartman said Canada is doing very little to support research in the area of solar energy.

MISUSE OF CHEMICALS CITED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The reaction against pesticides stems basically from their misuse, a British Columbia inquiry commission on pesticides has been told.

R. J. Fletcher, who operates B.C. Chemical Sprayers Ltd., said more training is required for people who obtain applicator's licences. He also recommended stiffer controls on toxic compounds.

Fletcher said his employees are all on upgrading courses and that it takes a year or so for an apprentice applicator to gain experience with the various forms of applications.

But he said he knows of cases where applicators obtained licences after a week of textbook study and no field experience.

Fletcher also said pesticides should not be sold to the general public.

He said he has been highly toxic chemicals sprayed over garden vegetables, and has seen dangerous mistakes made when applicators take orders from farmers or bush clearing contractors to use chemicals they don't understand.

William Head, manager of former Lieut.-Gov. Clarence Wallace's farm in the Coquitlam area, criticized people who spray crops to kill off one breed of insect without full knowledge of the effect of chemicals on other wildlife.

Head told the commission he had seen a cow and pets go into convulsions and die after being exposed to a compound called 10-80 which was used for rodent control in the Okanagan.

Dr. Cortland Mackenzie, chairman of the hearings held at the University of British Columbia, said the latest session was probably the last public hearing of the inquiry, which began 13 months ago.

Lisa's dialer has gone to the legislature

TREATED LIKE A DOG

TORONTO (CP) — Lisa Shulman has had a telephone listing for 15 years at the home of MP Dr. Morton Shulman but it wasn't until an automatic dialing machine was installed on Lisa's line that Bell Canada started making trouble.

Shulman, New Democratic Party member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto High Park and a noted saddle-sore to officialdom, tells about it in his column in The Toronto Sun.

When he ran out of names for the multiple lines in his medical offices he listed one for his dog Lisa. When his wife gave him an automatic dialer, he hooked it up to the Lisa phone.

The machine is a little gadget that can be programmed for about 50 numbers. To make a call to one of these, the user just presses a single corresponding button. It is advertised widely and sold in some department stores here.

However, Bell Canada does not permit its use on Bell circuits. Shulman wrote that last June two Bell officials called at his home and advised him:

"Your dog is accessing the switching network, and unless she removes her dialing machine we will discontinue her service."

"I found it hard to take this very seriously," Shulman added. "After all, Lisa had had her phone for 15 years, she has always paid her bills regularly and has never caused the company any difficulty. In addition, how do they expect a dog to dial? If anyone needs a dialing machine, it's surely Lisa."

Shulman admitted in an interview that the dog never did learn to use the machine.

He left the dialer in, and last month he had an "urgent" visit from C. J. Catlano, Bell's general commercial manager for Canada.

"Unless that dog removes her automatic dialing machine," he quoted Catlano, "we are going to cut off her phone service."

Sure enough, service on the Lisa line was cut off July 30. It was restored when Shulman removed the machine.

Now the persistent Shulman has tried a new tack in his war with Bell. He's attached the dialer to his phone in the legislature building, which goes through the general Ontario government switchboard.

In his column, he addresses the following note to Catlano:

"I share the same main number with a few fellows you may have heard of before, one of whom is (Premier) Bill Davis. Please let me know when you are cutting off our service."

Fair Entry Deadline This Week

Entrants to the 1974 Saanichton fair must have application forms by the end of the week and be ready to start assembling exhibits a week from today.

Entry forms for all sections but flowers must be picked up Friday at the latest, while flowers growers have one additional day to obtain forms.

These may be obtained at the office of North and South Saanich Agriculture Society in the fairgrounds at Saanichton up to 5 p.m., and between 7 and 9 p.m. Friday.

Theme of this year's exhibition Aug. 31 — Sept. 2 is Farms around the World, with the Saanich Centennial Trophy at stake.

Due dates for exhibits are:

Thursday, Aug. 29 — honey, photography, art, wine.

Friday, Aug. 30 — eggs, household darts, ladies' work, junior section. Rabbits and poultry may also be received Friday evening.

Saturday, Aug. 31 — Rabbits and poultry by 9 a.m.

The horse show is divided into three days with the junior section Saturday, junior and senior western Sunday, and senior English division Monday. Halter classes will be shown at 8 a.m. Sunday and Monday to avoid conflict with other classes.

Besides livestock quality shows there will be competition for the best cattle display and bes herdsman.

Inquiries may be made at the fair office, 652-3314.

Hit, Run Victim Was B.C. Man

WINNIPEG (CP) — Police have identified the victim of a hit-and-run accident Tuesday as Frank John Amos Henry of B.C.

Henry who was working on a nearby farm, was believed hitch-hiking at the time he was truck late Tuesday night by a car on Highway 59 on the city's outskirts.

Police said they have not been able to establish Henry's exact place of residence in B.C.

Olympics Bid Rejection 'Firm'

Premier Barrett said today the cabinet decision against the 1980 Olympics "remains firm" despite the discovery the decision was based on erroneous figures.

The Vancouver Garibaldi Olympic Committee wired Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall an urgent request this morning for the government to reconsider its position.

The committee apologized to Hall for some erroneous figures the government used in its decision against government support for the bid to hold the 1980 Winter Olympics in Vancouver and Whistler Mountain.

Technical data provided by the committee was confusing, said the telegram, and led the government to assume crowds at Whistler would be as high as 25,000 per day rather than 2,500 a day.

Hall said he hoped the committee would make a public apology for its error since the group had previously accused the government of using incorrect figures.

Barrett said the government's decision was firm and he denied charges by Liberal MLA Pat McGeer (Vancouver-Point Grey) that the cabinet decision was made against the premier's wishes when he was away.

The premier said he publicly stated his opposition to the bid as early as last March.

IRA Escapers Jump Police

DUBLIN (Reuter) — Six of the 19 Irish republican guerillas who blasted their way out of a top-security jail last Sunday attacked two policemen early today and left them tied up.

The policemen were on patrol near the holiday resort of Courtown on the County Wexford, about 50 miles south of here and about the same distance from the prison at Portlaoise.

The fugitive guerillas bound the two policemen and then escaped.

The alarm was raised after the policemen got free. Hundreds of extra troops and police searched the area.

The manhunt continues, meanwhile, with few clues except for several cars hijacked and later found abandoned in various parts of Ireland's Midland counties.

Blood Used In a Rush

The benefits of a blood donor clinic at Victoria General Hospital Wednesday were put to immediate use — at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Clinic supervisor Jerry Savage said two units of type A positive blood from early donors were hurried to Jubilee to be on hand for an operation on a young girl.

The blood from clinics usually goes to a central Red Cross depot in Vancouver where it is dispersed to hospitals throughout the province.

Wednesday's clinic, the last of three this week, drew 136 donors, including 37 new donors, said Savage. It was the best clinic at the hospital in recent years.

The three clinics this week attracted a total of 284 donors. Minimum objective had been 350.

'Outer Space' Metal Chunk Hits House

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A large chunk of metal which may have come from outer space struck a city street Wednesday and bounced into a house, doing slight damage.

Police Sgt. Dale Johnson said the piece of metal fell on a street at 5:55 p.m., went about 60 feet in the air, hit some grass and took a second hop into the side of a house where it broke off some siding.

The home was the residence of the William Murray family.

No one was hurt and little damage done, Johnson said.

The origin of the metal was a mystery.

"It was about the size of a basketball and weighed about 65 pounds," Johnson said. "it looked like a big misshapen piece of melted lead."

Johnson said the metal was "white hot" when it landed and it was nearly two hours before it was cooled off enough so it could be taken to the detective bureau, where they were trying to analyze it.

"We contacted a fellow from the local FAA office and told him the object was white hot," Johnson said. "It took a long time to cool off and he said if it took more than an hour to cool off it may not have come from an aircraft. It may have come from farther out in space."

Murray, 33, said no one actually saw the object land.

"It was shiny," Murray said. "I tried to touch it, but it was hot. It was still warm when the police took it away."

He said the object was gray and jagged.

Murray, his wife and two small children were all inside their home when the object struck the side of the house.

"It's lucky nobody was hurt. Normally there are kids in the neighborhood playing in the driveway. But they were all home having supper," he said.

U.S. AGENCIES ASKED TO CHECK OUT ROCKY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the senate committee that will hold confirmation hearings for Nelson A. Rockefeller, has asked four government agencies to begin investigating the nominee's record.

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., head of the rules committee, Wednesday asked the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office to begin compiling information on the former New York governor.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe, in a phone call late Wednesday, said the Justice Department hoped to be able to start furnishing FBI reports on Rockefeller to the committee "immediately after we return from recess" Sept. 4. Cannon said he hoped this meant that the bulk of the FBI full field investigation of Rockefeller would be available right after the recess, making it easier to schedule early hearings on the nomination.

"I would say since it took eight weeks to confirm Jerry Ford as vice president that if it takes longer than eight weeks to confirm Nelson Rockefeller, someone is going to be guilty of foot dragging," Rep. Edward Hutchinson, ranking GOP member of the judiciary committee, said.

Rockefeller is being asked to file with the committee a full financial statement, including all oil holdings and any holdings that might create any possible conflict of interest.

Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski will be asked for an official report on allegations, which Jaworski's office has already said are unfounded, that Rockefeller money helped finance campaign "dirty tricks" aimed against Democrats in 1970.

Rockefeller, meanwhile, is putting together a high-powered vice presidential staff of men with long backgrounds in public life.

Many of those who will come to work with Rockefeller in Washington are from the "old Albany team" that worked with him when he was governor of New York, and who more recently aided him in his commission on Critical Choices for America.

Alta. Mulls PWA Future

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government is giving itself about three months to decide how best to integrate Pacific Western Airlines into its over-all planning, Industry and Commerce Minister Fred Peacock said Wednesday.

He said Premier Peter Lougheed and several cabinet ministers went on holidays immediately after the acquisition of the regional carrier, and therefore had little chance to address themselves to the "practical implications" of running an airline.

One key question the cabinet will discuss is the ownership of PWA shares, Peacock said.

Although PWA is a crown corporation with about 80 per cent of its shares to be registered in the name of the Alberta government, "it is our desire that the people of Alberta and British Columbia be given either directly or indirectly — an opportunity to invest in the airline," he said.

One possibility would be for the Alberta Energy Company to hold the portfolio, with 50 per cent of the government's interest in PWA automatically being sold to the public when AEC goes public.

B.C. STUDIES HEALTH OF RURAL RESIDENTS

The mental, physical and social occupational health of rural British Columbians is being studied by the provincial health department.

The project is co-ordinated by psychology professor E. I. Signori of the University of B.C. and is the first step towards a comprehensive preventive health program for people residing outside large metropolitan centres.

Health Minister Dennis Cocke said 10 graduate students have been hired to conduct interviews with people from all sectors of the economy in remote areas of the province.

Manitoba Said Shirking

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conservative opposition leader Sidney Spivak Wednesday charged current NDP government policies are leading to gross dereliction of duty in connection with the North Dakota Garrison diversion project.

In a letter to Premier Ed Schreyer, the opposition leader took the government to task for relying on non-existant U.S. environment studies about the project's effects on Manitoba. He said he is concerned that silence and inactivity by the government may be interpreted in both Washington and Ottawa as a sign of indifference.

Spivak recently headed a Conservative caucus delegation in a three-day visit to North Dakota to examine the water diversion scheme.

In his letter to the premier, Spivak said his group was told the irrigation project would have positive or minimal effects on Manitoba's water salinity, flooding, soil erosion and living things in the province's river system.

Chief Honored

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jean Folster, chief of the Norway House Indian Band, received a special award Wednesday from the Canadian Speech Assn. for her contribution to better understanding among Canadians.

Mrs. Folster has been chief of the 2,400 member band for nearly three years. She is also a magistrate and vice-president of the Manitoba Women's Assn., the auxiliary to the Manitoba Indian Brotherhood.

The award was given last year for the first time to former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

Provinces 'Choked'

SASKATOON (CP) — Tommy Douglas, former New Democratic Party leader, Wednesday accused the federal government of consistantly trying to choke the provinces off from their legitimate resource revenues.

In an interview, Douglas said all citizens of Saskatchewan have a stake in the outcome of the dispute between the province and Ottawa over Saskatchewan's oil legislation.

Ottawa, he said, will continue the fight should a court test of Saskatchewan oil royalties legislation favor the province.

Liquor Price Rises

WINNIPEG (CP) — Liquor prices in Manitoba will increase by 45 cents a bottle this fall, Frank Syms, chairman of the Manitoba Liquor Control Commission said Wednesday.

Syms said the new prices will take effect when the commission purchases its next stock from distillers. An industry spokesman said this could be Sept. 1 or Oct. 1.

He said the commission believes the increases are too large, but has no choice except to purchase at the new prices.

Bandit Gets 4 Years

EDMONTON (CP) — A 22-year-old man never before in trouble with the law was sentenced Tuesday to four years in penitentiary for the $115 armed robbery of a grocery store.

Defence lawyer P. B. Gunn recommended leniency after his client, Fisel Asiff, pleaded guilty. He said Asiff came from a respectable family and had worked fairly steadily since leaving school at Grade 10.

The court told Asiff pointed a rifle at two employees of the grocery store. He had been drinking since 3 p.m. before the robbery and had considered committing the crime as a joke.

ENERGY STUDY PLANS READY

CALGARY (CP) — Plans for an energy research institute at the University of Calgary will be completed early next month, university president Dr. William Cochrane said Tuesday.

Details of funding, administration and constitution of the institute have been largely worked out, he said, but a formal agreement will be signed in two or three weeks by provincial, federal, university and oil industry officials.

Drug Poisonings Up 100% in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The poisoning rate for central nervous system drugs increased more than 100 per cent among persons aged 10 to 24 in the four-year period from 1969 to 1972, the health department's poison control division reports.

The poisoning rate for these drugs also increased about 15 per cent among children under five years of age, and increased by more than 50 per cent among adults 25 years of age and older, says the statistical report based on information from 310 hospitals.

Central nervous system drugs include barbiturates, other sedatives, narcotics, tranquilizers, LSD and other hallucinogenic drugs, as well as respiratory and cerebral stimulants.

The following central nervous system drugs were responsible for admissions to hospitals in 1972: Frosst 222, 115 admissions; Elavil, 128; Mandrax, 196; Seconal, 145; Trinal, 203; Librium, 180; Valium, 669 and Vivol, 135.

Cases reported among adults over 25 years of age include many cases of intentional self-poisoning, the report says.

LSD and other hallucinogens showed the largest increase as a cause of poisoning between 1966 and 1972, and 84 per cent of those poisoning cases occurred among persons 10 to 24 years of age.

Poisonings from barbiturates, other sedatives and tranquilizers occurred mainly among women while poisonings from LSD and other hallucinogens, cannabis, amphetiamines, alcohol and solvents were more common among teennage and adult males, says the report.

Many of the cases reported among women involved intentional self-poisoning while cases reported among teenage and adult males due to hallucinogens were related to drug abuse.

BANK RATE MULLED

WASHINGTON (WP) — The U.S. federal reserve board Wednesday proposed to establish a special discount rate for member banks who need "exceptionally large assistance over a prolonged period."

The rate would be higher than the prevailing discount rate, which the fed charges member banks for short-term borrowings to tide them over periods such as those when they do not have sufficient reserves to meet federal requirements.

The proposed rule, which will be open for comment until Sept. 23, is clearly aimed at banks like New York's troubled Franklin National.

The special rate would be no higher than the rate charged non-member banks for emergency loans, which is now 10 per cent.

The higher rate would encourage the borrowing institution to "make necessary adjustments in its operations to permit repayment of the loan in a reasonable period," the Fed added.

Traffic Police Can't Cope—Noel

The Saanich police force is incapable of controlling the increasing number of traffic violations Ald. Sandy Noel said today.

Noel said he will press council to hire more traffic control officers as soon as possible.

"We have to crack down on those people who have a general disregard for traffic regulations," Noel said, "We now have only two motorcycle policemen. We should have more."

Noel said the growing number of fatal accidents in the Greater Victoria area is largely atributable to speeding.

Even quiet residential streets are threatened, he said.

"Last night, about 10:45 p.m. I heard an earth-shattering squealing and looked out to see a couple — a man and a woman — who literally had to jump on my lawn to avoid a speeding car," Noel reported.

There are about 80 people in the municipal police department, Inspector Harry Adams said, to cover all facets of police protection services.

He conceded that more traffic control officers are needed.

"We're always looking for more men," Adams said, "but we're limited by our budget."

Saanich resident Don Fraser of 1161 West Burnside has complained to council about the traffic hazard on his street and says he will take the matter to the attorney-general's department if the situation doesn't improve.

Fraser suggested traffic control should be a provincial matter, small municipal forces being unable to cope with the growing problem. He said more provincial policemen such as those used at ferry terminals, could be recruited to tackle traffic control in other areas.

"A force could be compiled on the same lines as the traffic police at the ferry slips," Fraser said, "These groups of people would be solely to control traffic."

The Critic As Booster —Sport Is the Loser

It's a caution, that's what it is, how the sports writers and the sports broadcasters of radio and television have leaped on the band-wagon to keep alive the notion that we should host the next Winter Games.

Oh, I know it dates me, but I can remember when the great sports commentators — Westbrook Pegler, Jimmy Cannon, Ring Lardner, Henry McLemore, Grantland Rice and the rest — were famous as critics of sports and loved nothing better than to shaft the heros and the gladiators of their day. They gained a kind of immortality in our particular business precisely because they considered that any athletic contest, certainly any involving professionals, was a legitimate target for praise or scorn, depending upon the performance.

Today, with mighty few exceptions, sports commentators seem all but hysterically intent on making any and all games into spectaculars. They are advocates, very rarely dispassionate critics. They are box office boosters, as surely as the better-paid public relations flacks employed by the promoters, idolators of every bum with the required muscle-power to make good at his specialty. Even professional wrestling is something to be treated with a straight face.

One indirect result, though it comes more directly from the age of spectator-itis ushered in by television, is that sports have become big business, players have become larger than life so that the crudest of them — Phil Esposito, to take the first example that comes to mind — becomes a kind of legendary folk figure. You merely have to glance at any sports page to see that athletics have become a pursuit to be slavishly worshipped.

This has never seemed quite so ridiculous as it does now in the pressure — well-supported by the sports writers and broadcasters — to have the provincial government change its mind on the question of supporting a bid for the next Winter Olympics.

A petition seeking some hundred thousand names — easily obtained if one is to believe the statistics on the incredible numbers of our citizens who sit hunched in their darkened living rooms to watch others play games — will be one method of applying the heat to win a hoped-for policy-change in Victoria.

I am one of those who hope Victoria will stand pat since I gave a small cheer when the provincial government, having carefuly weighed the issue on the question of spending priorities, decided that there were better places to put our money.

The reaction from Vancouver — notably from its millionaire, promotion-minded mayor and from those who are similarly afflicted with the mania for spectator sports — has been a howl of anguish. Of course if the provincial government had turned down a request for under-writing a musical festival or a literary gathering or anything at all that might enrich our intellectually parochial existence the protests would be no more than a murmur.

If we're to believe the minister of land, forests and water resources or the minister of recreation and conservation, the provincial government's reluctance was purely a question of dollar-and-cents. It did not seem quite right to use the taxpayers' money for an enterprise that might run to $100 millions, particularly when a good deal of it would be funnelled off into private profits.

I hope, and strongly suspect, that there may have been more to it than just that. We happen to be in a period when there's the almost daily reminder that we're a people in real danger of exposing ourselves to sedentary health problems, that we are, to put more directly, a nation of slobs. On the very day that the Vancouver mayor was launching a campaign to bring the Olympics here I chanced to hear two plaintive commercials urging the citizenry to walk a mile or so each day because we're in perfectly awful shape physically.

This is the real point of the matter. The need to put a large public investment into spectator sports that will last 10 days, however much they may liven up the columns or programs of the sports commentators, is clearly a lot less urgent than the need to invest in the participant sports that will go on the year-round. In the case of Whistler Mountain, itself, it is surely nonsense to subsidize the prima donnas of winter sports when the money might be used to encourage some overweight cruds to creep away from his magic lantern into the great outdoors.

We'd have a better perspective on all this, in my opinion, if our sports commentators were less inclined to shout "hurrah" and more inclined to shout "phooey" when they chronicle the deeds of those who play for profit.

Canning Lids Stay in East

Eastern manufacturers are favoring their established eastern markets and aggravating a shortage of canning lids in B.C., Consumer Affairs Minister Phyllis Young said Wednesday.

Because of the eastern preference, B.C. has been depending on U.S. suppliers, said Young, but the U.S., in turn, has been favoring its domestic market over B.C.

The minister made the announcement as the result of preliminary reports from departmental officials investigating the shortage of home canning supplies in B.C.

"There is no short run solution (to the shortage)," she said, "and it is not likely that adequate supplies will be available for several months."

The investigation is continuing.

School Board to Tackle Selling Its Own Supplies

Local stores selling school supplies will get some competition from Greater Victoria school district starting next week.

The district is beginning a pilot project of selling school supplies at cost in seven elementary schools this fall.

Most items will be about half the price parents would pay in stores, purchasing coordinator Ray Cantelon said Wednesday.

For six schools — James Bay, Blanshard, Burnside, George Jay, Quadra and Oaklands — supplies have been packaged in kits for each child according to grade.

The seventh, Sundance elementary, will distribute the supplies among parents itself.

The kits vary in price from $1.97 for Grade 1 to $5.58 for Grade 7. The Grade 1 kit contains pencils, notebooks, erasers, ruler, crayons, blunt scissors, glue and kleenex.

The $12,000 worth of supplies for 2,700 children go on sale at the schools Aug. 29.

If local stores are worried about school board competition, they're not talking about it.

A spokesman for the Hudson's Bay Company said the idea was nothing new, and The Bay is living with it in other cities.

It's going to cut down on the amount we're going to sell," Jim Clark, merchandising manager of K-Mart, admitted.

He said some Alberta school boards also sell supplies, and this has cut into store sales.

"I know in Alberta school opening isn't nearly as big as it is here," Clark said. However the losses won't be too serious, he added.

Prince George School District has been selling school supplies at cost for several years and the project has worked so well there the district now sells to other school districts.

Lowering Heat Can Put Heat On Landlords

Tenants in Victoria who have had essential services curtailed or cut off by landlords can take action under a city by-law and one group has done so successfully.

City solicitor Jakob de Villiers said today the Regulation of Dwellings bylaw requires landlords to maintain essential services such as heat, lighting and water supply for their tenants.

Following complaints from city tenants of inadequate heat and water, a landlady was persuaded by the city to restore adequate service, he said.

He was commenting on recent complaints from some tenants that landlords have curtailed or withdrawn some services as a means of economizing under the current rent freeze.

Among complaints from some older tenants are heat being shut off in their buildings, caretakers being withdrawn, garbage-chutes being closed, hallways not being cleaned and necessary repairs not being done.

"I don't think they (tenants) are helpless if anything like this happens," de Villiers said. Complaints will be investigated by the city's bylaw enforcement staff.

The main remedy to such problems will come Oct. 1 when the provincial government plans to proclaim the new Landlord and Tenant Act, Attorney-General Alex Macdonald said Wednesday.

The rentalsman established under the act will hear complaints from tenants and will also have power to authorize rent increases above the current eight per cent limit where landlords can justify them, he said.

Meanwhile, Macdonald said he thinks tenants denied essential services will probably find a sympathetic ear in small debts court.

"It seems to me a judge would look askance at essential services being withdrawn," he said. "I think these things involve breach of contract."

$1.6M Addition At Law Courts To Start Soon

A $1.68 million, two-storey addition to the Victoria Law Courts building was announced today by Public Works Minister Bill Hartley.

First tenders will be called within a month for the 27-foot high addition to the three-storey building on the corner of Burdett and Blanshard.

The addition, which will accommodate offices of the attorney-general's department and other related branches, will provide an additional 29,000 square feet to the 162,000 square feet now provided in the 14-year-old building.

Hartley said he hoped the new addition will be completed within two years but operations within the building will not be halted during construction.

The project will be handled under a construction management system with first tenders for the basic structure being called soon.

Tenders for other sections of the project will be called as construction progresses.

Hartley agreed that inflation is a problem in estimating costs but he felt the $1.68 million figure had adequately accounted for escalating prices.

The preliminary sketches for the addition were prepared by Siddal, Dennis and Warner of Victoria with working drawings by the department of public works.

Alterations to the existing building will also be made to meet with building code requirements.

A new staircase will be added to the exterior of the building to provide additional exits from the two courtroom floors.

A new fire alarm system will be installed throughout the building with ionization smoke detectors installed in ventilation ducts at various locations throughout the building.

99-Year Leases Out Without City's Nod

City solicitor Jakob de Villiers has warned a leasing agency that it cannot enter into 99-year leases for suites at the Orchard House apartment in James Bay without first seeking city council approval.

In a letter to Pacific Strata Services Ltd., which recently has been advertising long-term leases for sale in Orchard House, de Villiers notes that the requirement for council approval is contained in a section of the Landlord and Tenant Act proclaimed Aug. 9.

Since that date, he says, the firm has continued advertising the leases.

"If it comes to my notice that you are still advertising these leases or that you are entering into any such leases you will be prosecuted," he adds.

Today, de Villiers told a reporter the firm has been in contact with him since he wrote the letter Tuesday, claiming it is not acting in contravention of the act because the leases were assigned to "a company" last May and therefore the question of entering into new leases doesn't arise.

de VILLIERS
"you'll be prosecuted"

He said he didn't know whether the company concerned was Pacific Strata Services, and no spokesman for that firm could be reached for clarification this morning.

Last month tenants of the highrise apartment voiced concern for their tenure on learning that Pacific Strata Services were not re-letting vacant suites but offering them for sale on 99-year leases.

The tenants wrote to Mayor Peter Pollen and Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson seeking assurances they would not be evicted if they chose not to buy their own suites.

Subsequently Bud O'Connor, Victoria office manager for the firm, promised no such tenants would be evicted and said the sales program was concentrating solely on apartments coming vacant through normal attrition.

Orchard House is owned by Vancouver developer George Mulek, whose firm Westsea Construction Ltd. also built the highrise at View and Quadra which has been so frequently criticized on its appearance.

On Wednesday a tenant at the View Towers building said the owners are claiming they have no vacant suites, although some tenants have moved out, and there is concern that the building may be converted to condominiums.

Substantial federal financing went into the project on the provision that it would be used for low-rental apartments.

Temporary Jobs Come Into Vogue

A more mobile work force in B.C. has boosted the need for temporary jobs and firms providing short-time help are busier than ever.

We've had more of a demand in the past year and a half that we've ever had before," said Louise Green, manager of the Victoria branch of Office Overload.

Office Overload has an average of 150 people registered during the year and about 100 working during the peak times of mid-May to the end of August.

Not only are more businesses interested in hiring office help as it's needed on a temporary basis, but there are also more people looking for temporary work, Mrs. Green said.

She attributes the upsurge of interest in temporary work to the increasing mobility of people in Canada.

"More and more people are living a far more casual life than they did even 10 years ago.

"Our books used to be filled with mostly housewives, but now we have a lot of single people who are travelling across the country and may be staying in Victoria for two or three months and who want to work for some of that time."

Housewives still are interested in temporary work, especially in the winter, Mrs. Green said, when their children are at school and they have free time.

The type of firms that hire temporary help varies from a small private business to a large corporation to government agencies.

The reasons for hiring the temporary help also vary — month-end or year-end statements, regular employees off sick or on holiday or just a pile-up in work.

The temporary office industry provided a payroll of about $4 million last year for more than 12,000 temporary workers in B.C.

Temporary help firms first appeared in Canada in the mid-1940s and in B.C. about 20 years ago.

Although in early years some firms were criticized for alleged exploitation of workers, today that criticism has been stilled and the industry has been accepted as an important segment of the business life of the country.

One sign of its maturity has been the formation of the Canadian Association of Temporary Service (CATS), the industry's official voice.

CATS can present briefs on behalf of all its members, such as a recent brief to the labor department of the provincial government.

Good Living Habits Show in Statistics

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mormons are much less likely to get cancer, perhaps because of clean living and strong family bonds, says a UCLA researcher says.

The death rate from cancer in Utah is only 75 per cent of the national average, said Dr. James Overton, of the UCLA School of Public Health. Mormons, make up 73 per cent of the state's population. In Utah County, which includes the city of Provo and is 90 per cent Mormon, the cancer death rate is only 65 per cent of the national average for men, and 72 per cent for women, Overton said.

Dear Abby, Horoscope On Page 25

He said that possible factors may be the Morman ban on smoking and drinking, low consumption of coffee and tea and rare drug usage, along with the church's traditional encouragement of physical fitness programs, exercise and outdoor activities.

Also, he said, "they believe in a very strong family structure," particularly—contrasted with other U. S. social orders—for the elderly, keeping them involved in family and church activities.

"Their family life tends to be much more stable than that of the general population," he said.

The only religious grouping with a lower cancer incidence than Mormons are members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, which has even stricter dietary and other rules of conduct, Overton said, citing a study at Loma Linda University in San Bernardino, Calif.

Witch Status Gift of Grandmother

JOANNE . . . no pointed hat

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — In a rambling 100-year-old house down a quiet country road in Niagara Falls lives a witch.

However, Joanne Honsberger, 32, is an attractive, happily married mother of four and since this is 1974, although she does have a broomstick, she doesn't ride around on it on nights of the full moon.

The fact remains that Mrs. Honsberger is a white witch and any of her friends or neighbors will confirm this.

A white witch uses her powers for good as opposed to a black witch who uses them for evil and Mrs. Honsberger has been a full-fledged witch since her grandmother, a witch from Russia, ordained her at four years of age.

Mrs. Honsberger said she inherited the official Witches' Bible from her grandmother when she died. It spells out everything a good witch should know, from the casting of spells to the effect of the full moon.

Her grandmother also warned her to be careful about what she wished for people or what she thought about them because it would come to pass.

Grandmother was right. Although as Joanne herself says, while she can be the best of friends, a witch is not the best person to choose as an enemy.

A wildlife reserve official who turned Mrs. Honsberger away from an annual visit she makes with children of a local school, went to hospital, bitten by a llama who never bit anyone before.

Mrs. Honsberger's husband Colin knew she was a witch when he married her but didn't really believe it. Over the years he has learned better and on the whole is proud of his wife's talents.

"But he is scared if I point at him," said Mrs. Honsberger.

Pointing is a particularly bad thing in the witchcraft lexicon.

There is a built-in safeguard with witches though. They believe in reincarnation and whatever they do will come back to them threefold and it will happen to the things they love the most.

The full moon is a busy time for witches. For a lot of money in the next month, Mrs. Honsberger advises sleeping with a full wallet under your pillow at such times or a coin in each shoe on the day of the full moon.

A Story Itching to Be Told

The children noticed it first.

"Boy, our dog is sure scratching himself a lot."

"So?" I countered. "Scratching isn't a crime."

"Yeah, but he has lots of little black things in his hair."

"Probably pieces of dirt," I mused. Just then three pieces of dirt jumped off our dog's tail, executed an intricate mid-air piroutte, and, chuckling softly, disappeared into his left ear.

As instructed by my dog care book, I "bathed the animal with flea soap, beginning at the head and working the lather gradually back toward the tail." After being bathed, he smelled, as advertised, like a forest glen, a condition he immediately sought to rectify by running outside and rolling in an oil stain on the driveway.

Next, the book admonished me to burn the dog's bedding. Unfortunately, not only is his bedding MY bedding at night, but during the day the whole house is his bedding. Now I am certainly not going to burn down either our posturpedic mattress or a decidedly underinsured house.

Finally I bought a flea spray which cautioned me "Do Not Inhale The Fumes." Inhaling is rather difficult to avoid for anyone as addicted to breathing as I am. I found that if I did not inhale SOMETHING every thirty-five seconds or so, I turned blue and fainted.

The fleas have taken up a sullen vigil in the carpeting, where they leap up and petulantly sink their fangs into the ankle of anyone going past.

Somehow I can't bring myself to engage professional help. It is difficult enough to make friends in a new neighborhood under the best of circumstances, let alone after having a truck marked "ACME PEST CONTROL" parked outside for three days.

Wee-Bit Worn Shoppe Fine Volunteer Effort

elizabeth forbes

Women and men everywhere belong to volunteer associations, assist in community projects or provide unselfish services in a variety of other ways.

We take that fact for granted. That is, until (as it happened to me recently) we come across an article that tells us in associations alone there are about five million Canadians who contribute volunteer services of one kind or another. And that women form a substantial portion of this work force.

On the surface this looks like an extravagant statement. That is until you start looking around close to home.

Then it doesn't take long to realize a good percentage of volunteer workers in this area are women. And they are giving endless hours to help in so many different ways it would take a dozen columns to pinpoint them.

As an example, let's look at the corps of volunteers who rally around the Wee-Bit Worn Shoppe on Gladstone Avenue; corner of Fernwood Road, from where funds go to help the mentally retarded.

First however; let me remind you there must be at least a hundred other groups working just as hard and giving just as unselfishly of volunteer hours.

With this firmly in your minds let us go on. According to Rita Stringer; public relations officer in the auxilary for the mentally retarded, approximately 7,280 hours were given to the Wee-Bit Worn Shoppe last year by 35 to 40 women volunteers.

That doesn't include time spent picking up, cleaning, washing and mending donated goods, or the banking and bookkeeping entailed.

On top of this a total of 2,403 hours were spent last year on arranging annual events like the Christmas Fair; a fashion show, Community Bazaar Days and raffle ticket sales. Again, this doesn't include the days and weeks spent making articles sold at such events.

Some of these volunteers have also taken on extra hours of work. Several go down to the place on Mondays, when it is closed to the public, to clean, sort, price, and get ready for the rest of the week.

Mrs. John Blanchard takes home any old dolls that come in; cleans them up and dresses them so they "look like new." She also makes children's clothes from the best bits and pieces she finds in well-worn adult dresses.

Mrs. Jean George is handed different kinds of wools that come in and from them she makes a variety of articles.

Old sweaters, cotton and fortrel dresses that "are hopelessly out of style" also go to her and she uses this material to stuff and cover toys at which she is "a wizard at making".

She salvages feathers and bits of lace and silk and makes little party hats with them. And she washes, sorts and bottles all the different kinds of beads that are donated.

Another volunteer, Mrs. Charles Price, gives every Monday to change and dress the windows. A retired librarian, Miss Muriel Laing, goes in regularly to sort and price any books that come in.

"It's an endless story," Rita Stringer says. A story of unselfish devotion impossible to give in full here.

The Wee-Bit Worn Shoppe evolved from a small clothing depot maintained in the basement of the Winifred M. Clark Centre for the Retarded, on Elford Street. It opened at the present location in April, 1972.

Still among the volunteers are women who started the basement enterprise, including Mrs. D'Arcy McGee, Mrs. Martin Ellis and Mrs. Stringer.

THIS TRIO working in the Wee-Bit Worn Shoppe in the Springridge district have given a total of 2,720 volunteers to the shop since it opened in its present location in April, 1972. From left are Mrs. T. D. McGee, Mrs. M. L. Ellis and Rita Stringer. About five million Canadians contribute a volunteer service of one kind or another.

"Many do not know the shoppe is run entirely by volunteers," Mrs. Stringer says, "with no expenses except rent, phone and the occasional cleaning bill . . . nor that all proceeds are used to help in work of the auxiliary for the retarded."

For instance, money went recently for a large bandsaw for use in a wood working class at the Clarke Centre, now on Kings Road, and $500 was spent in camping equipment for residents of a group living home.

"Now we are saving to help with establishing a short-stay hostel for retarded children when a home is disrupted by illness or parents are in need of a holiday."

Here Mrs. Stringer makes a plea for your help. "Bring in your discards," she urges, "We can use them."

The place is open Tuesday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Thursday evening, 6:30 to 8:30.

The article I read about volunteers and the hours they give to this type of service, insisted that 'motives prompting people to engage in such activities are not easily distinguishable.

Looking at this one group, however, and thinking of all those in this area and across Canada, one point seems to stand out clearly. Society has always looked to women to meet service needs and they have responded.

Stage Pace 'Insane'

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Dennis Sweeting produces eight plays a season at the Kawartha Summer Theatre here, getting up at seven in the morning and going to bed at 2:30 a.m.

"It's pretty insane," he said. "Your adrenalin starts to pump and I suppose from the first day to the end my feet don't come within three inches of the ground."

This year Mr. Sweeting is budgeting for an expenditure of about $53,000. Last year's attendance figure for the season was 16,347 and since the attendance figures have almost doubled in four years, he expects even more people this year.

"The choice of plays is one of the biggest things," he said. "We just play comedies and they have to be in good taste.

"Some of these comedies are semi-classics. We don't do anything experimental. I'd love to do that in the winter but not now."

Mr. Sweeting said he gets applications from all over Canada and the United States for parts in his plays.

Normally a play takes two or three weeks to produce. In some places such as Toronto's St. Lawrence Centre it takes up to five weeks, he said.

Mrs. Harper Turns 108

By JAMES R. KING

NEW YORK (UPI)—In her day, Mary Ringo Harper fought for women's rights to the road. She claims to be the first woman to drive in Philadelphia in 1903 and later took her Stanley Steamer apart and put it back together again.

"When the automobile first became popular men scoffed at women who wanted to drive," she said. "They just didn't think women were mentally capable."

Tuesday was Mrs. Harper's 108th birthday. She lives in an apartment in a Manhattan ghetto on the lower east side.

A scrapbook of newspaper clippings gave various accounts of Mary Ringo Harper's effort to gain equal rights for women motorists and to make it socially acceptable for women to drive. Headlines called her a trail blazer, and the "Champion of woman drivers."

She was also described as being active in getting women to the polls.

HOPE FOR LAST PoW

VIENTIANE (UPI) — The Pathet Lao announced plans today for a prisoner exchange with the Laotian government next month, raising hopes for the release of the last known U.S. prisoner of the Indochina war.

Emmet Kay, 47, of Honolulu, a civilian contract pilot for the U.S. government, is believed to be the last American still alive in Communist hands in Indochina. He was captured in Northern Laos on May 7, 1973.

Slain Envoy Lauded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rodger Davies, the ambassador to Cyprus who was assassinated in the U.S. embassy in Nicosia Monday, was awarded the state department's highest honor posthumously Wednesday and was eulogized by President Ford as a "great patriot."

In a ceremony at Andrews Air Force base near Washington, Ford said:

"This is a very sad occasion for all Americans as we gather to pay tribute to a great partiot, one of our most respected and admired diplomats."

The president, accompanied by secretary-of-state Henry Kissinger and several hundred state department employees, called Davies a "professional in the fullest sense. He lived and worked for peace."

Kissinger also spoke briefly, saying, "a professional foreign service officer has come home. He returns not to joy, but to sadness, not to parades but to solemn ceremony."

Kissinger dedicated to Davies the Secretary-of-State's Plaque, the state department's highest award.

The body remained aboard the plane and was flown to Davies' native California for cremation in a private ceremony at Berkeley.

Bomb Suspect Not Saying a Thing

Times News Services

LOS ANGELES—For the past two years, Muharem Kerbegovic has played dumb.

And, the 31-year-old Yugoslav immigrant, charged by police with being the "alphabet bomber" who has terrorized this city for the past month is still doing it.

Kurbegovic refuses to talk to police and his employer for the past two years says that he always thought the accused man was a mute.

But, not so, Kurbegovic's landlady says that the suspect frequently passed the time of day with her.

His employer, Stephen Smith, said that Kurbegovic claimed to have suffered a brain injury as a baby which had left him permanently mute.

He communicated, Smith said, through "hundreds of furiously-scribbled notes," including lengthy discourses on politics, religion and philosophy.

He was also listed as a mute by U.S. immigration authorities when he entered the country in 1967.

Police now theorize that the bomber acted out of revenge following city refusal to grant him a dance-hall licence as a result of an arrest on a charge of lewd misconduct in a public washroom.

A STRIPPER GOES TO JAIL

MATSQUI (CP)—Professional striptease made its once-in-a-lifetime debut at Matsqui prison recently.

The captive audience was enthusiastic and the visiting Vancouver stripper, who dances under the stage name of Yolanda, got carried away in the roar of applause.

Yolanda was performing as part of an entertainment program arranged through the medium-security prison's recreation department.

Doug McGregor, acting regional penitentiary director, said the arrangers were aware that one of the performers was a stripper, but an agreement had been made that there would be no stripping.

The agreement went out the window in the contagious enthusiasm of the moment.

"Suddenly she got carried away," McGregor said. "There wasn't much we could do."

He said the group of inmates, whose usual entertainment ranges from brass bands to church choirs, conducted themselves like gentlemen . . . fortunately.

FOLLOW THIS VICTORIA ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

No Need To Feel Sad Because Summer Fading

No need to be sad because summer is fast rushing from our gardens, for she is leaving treasures for us to care for so that in their turn they will bring us fulfilment in another season.

It was the advent of the first pinky-mauve colchicum and a group of exquisite blossoms of the fall cyclamen neapolitanum no larger than a thumbnail that brought about the idea of looking for treasures.

Rhododendron buds have grown rapidly in the last two weeks, proving again the role played by sun combined with cool night temperatures. Summer sunshine ripens the plant growths which started in spring when flowering finished, and now those which bloom during spring are able to develop flower buds. In our normal winters the buds remain almost dormant after the first few light frosts, safely wrapped in thick green bud coverings.

Look at some of your own early flowering shrubs, particularly the broad-leaved evergreens. You will remember which bloomed before May 1. They are the ones most likely to be showing evidence of bud formation.

The small flowered, dwarf rhododendrons are lovely to look at now with a promise of blossom on the tip of every ripened branchlet. With some, no flower buds are evident but there will likely be either new growth already made or growth buds on branch tips instead of flower buds.

The difference is not too easy to see yet, unless you have been looking for such things for years. Basically, growth buds are elongated in contrast to the rounder blossom buds. Growth buds also occur usually all around the central tip of a rhodo, while a blossom bud is solitary with only tiny dots at its base for next year's growth.

Another broad-leaved evergreen to look at for flower buds now is skimmia. It grows and flowers so well in a shaded north position that we are likely to take it for granted, not realizing what a long season of interest it holds for us. Coral colored buds are a reminder all winter that spring is not far off .The buds opening whitish are so delightfully scented that you wonder why you haven't more plants, yet nobody notices the shrub all summer.

Coral colored too even now are clusters of tiny buds in every twig of new growth on Old Faithful Laurustinus. Too old a shrub to be exciting, this is an evergreen for any coastal garden. It grows in sun or partial shade, making dense growth in several years, furnishing safe nesting sites for small birds.

Magnolia soulangeana, though not evergreen, is showing thickened tips among the new leaves grown this summer promising huge creamy white flowers next year, stained with purple-pink on the outside. Native dogwood, if you have one over eight or ten years old, will have buds beginning to show on topmost branches where they reach into the summer sun.

And so goes the cycle of life. If we keep fully aware of this miracle, we need never despair just because summer is going and fall is almost here.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

One of the most difficult urges for the nonexpert to repress is the desire to win a trick whenever the opportunity presents itself. In today's deal, a defender played unthinkingly when he elected to win a trick. In so doing, he actually left declarer with no choice but to come up with the winning line of play. Had our defender not played mechanically, declarer might well have failed to have diagnosed the true situation.

North-South vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH

◇ A Q 10
♣ A 7 5 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

On west's opening spade lead, dummy's king was put up and East took the trick with his ace. The queen of hearts was returned, South's ace winning.

In the hope that West had the club queen or that the five outstanding clubs were divided 3-2 (in which case a long-suit winner could be established in clubs) declarer next cashed his ace of clubs, after which he led a low club. West discarded a diamond as dummy's king won the trick. It was now obvious that declarer had just made all the club tricks he was ever going to make.

He returned to his own hand via the diamond queen and led a low spade. When West followed suit with the eight, declarer inserted the board's ten. When it won, declarer had his ninth trick.

On the face of it, the result may appear to be perfectly normal — but it was not. East made a mistake when he won the opening lead with his spade ace. He should have allowed dummy's king to have captured the trick.

When declarer would subsequently he forced to rely on bringing home two spade tricks to fulfill his contract, he would have led (as he did) a low spade out of his hand. With West following suit with a low spade, South would be faced with a pure 50-50 guess whether to play the queen (hoping West had the ace) or the ten (hoping West had the jack). If he guessed wrong, he would go down.

But east's premature winning of his spade ace at trick one left South with no alternative but to finesse against West for the spade jack.

RECYCLERS TO CLOSE

The recycling depot which has been operating in Oak Bay this summer at 1605½ Monterey will close Aug. 30.

The depot has been financed by an Opportunities for Youth grant and the organizers Tuesday asked anyone with recyclable materials to deliver them before the closing a week from Friday.

Council has indicated it wants to study results of the project.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Friday, Aug. 23

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Highlight is on productivity, inventory; future projections involving financial arrangements. Older person is your ally, whether or not you know it. Capricorn, Cancer are likely to be in picture. Get some good advice regarding taxes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Reach beyond current expectations. More people want to hear and see you. Know it and do something about it. Public relations becomes more important than usual. You finish rather than begin — Aries, Libra are involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Bring forth creative resources. Highlight originality. Take lead rather than following or imitating others. Your own style is of greatest importance. Accent service, work and health. Deal with Leo, Aquarius.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Social life, pleasure, children could be featured. You gain co-operation from unorthodox source. One who taught you in past may be ready to come back into your sphere. Be gracious when dealing with parent, individual in position of authority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are not certain about direction. You feel need to "break loose." There are commitments. They should be fulfilled. Key now is to accept social invitations. Contacts made can be important to your future. Know it and be receptive. Show sense of humor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Ideas can be utilized in practical ways. Be aware of abilities. You need not take back seat. Friend who is active and in transit will call you with interesting offer. Leo, Aquarius, Scorpio persons figure prominently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Improved communications can result in profit. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions. Many persons will be flattered, will answer and lend helping hand. Genuine bargain is available.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your appearance counts more than might be imagined. Be aware, alert enough to take initiative. Do something to beautify surroundings. Purchase of luxury item could be on agenda. Taurus, Libra persons prove helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This can be a time of greater self-realization. Refuse to be limited. Use imagination in constructive manner. Means stop brooding. The next minute is the first minute of the rest of your life. You could be appearing before a camera. Be optimistic about future. Good news is due.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Greater freedom indicated as a wish "comes true." Emotional involvement figures prominently. Nothing will be lukewarm. It is hot or cold, all or nothing. Know it and don't play games. A commitment involves member of opposite sex.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You gain status. You are more aware of image. Professional superior could pay meaningful compliment. There is room for you at a higher elevation. Know it and exude confidence. Capricorn, Cancer persons are likely to be involved.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Stop procrastinating. Make your philosophy work. Shake off lethargy. Open lines of communication. Be more aware of language, customs. Travel is in picture. Your beliefs are put to test. Creative responses are featured.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are skillful with words. You have recently been disillusioned. However, emotional wounds will heal. October sees you on your feet, more secure and on road to fulfillment. Know it and celebrate it knowing it. You are an active, vital person, often ruled more by your heart than by your head. Gemini persons play significant roles in your life.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I am approaching 40 and so is my wife. We've been married for 22 years. Like most couples our age, our sex life isn't what it used to be. My wife can take it or leave it. I'm no sex maniac, but I'm not exactly dead yet.

Last Christmas the wife gave me a Polaroid camera, and just for the heck of it, she let me take some pictures of her in the bedroom, unclothed. That's when I discovered those pictures really turned me on.

Now all of a sudden the wife tells me she is no strip tease model, and she doesn't want to pose for any more pornography. I say it's not pornography as long as we're married because I'm the only one who sees those pictures.

We are both born-again Christians. I'd like your opinion. Am I kooky or not? — Shutterbug.

DEAR SHUTTER: Not kooky, just a little far out. Whatever you do behind closed doors that is mutually agreeable is all right! I'm sold. Now all you have to do is sell the wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset, I don't know what to do anymore. I've called the police, military base, Chamber of Commerce, the base chaplain and three lawyers. As I write this I am crying and have a knot in my throat.

I've been married to a serviceman for 15 years and now he is involved with a redheaded woman who works where he works. (He got her the job.) He picks her up and drives her home, and I see him only when he comes here to change his clothes.

He has told me he doesn't love me anymore and as soon as he can afford it he will officially divorce me. He's even tried to push men at me. I am so hurt I could die!

I would do away with myself, if I didn't have five kids who need me. When I complain about the way he treats me, he beats me up. I know you'll think I'm crazy, but I still love him and want to know how I can get him back. —Miserable.

DEAR MISERABLE: Your chances for getting him back are small, and from your letter, I think you're better off without him. But if you considered doing away with yourself, you need help in handling your problems. It's available through your Mental Health Association, and Family Service. Give them a call.

DEAR ABBY: To "Short in Lubbock" — the bank teller who wound up $1000 short: I feel sorry for you, but I once tried to tell a bank teller that I thought she gave me too much, and she said in a very sarcastic tone, "We (meaning the bank) do not make mistakes!"

So I took the money home and when I counted it again, sure enough, I had ten dollars too much. So I gave it to the Shrine Hospital in the bank's name. — Long.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Am I An Alcoholic?": That's a tough one to answer because there is no absolute definition of an alcoholic. But here's a partial checklist drawn up by The National Council of Alcoholism:

—Do you drink heavily after a disappointment or a quarrel?

— Did you ever wake up the morning after to discover you couldn't remember part of the evening before even though you didn't pass out?

— Do you try to have a few extra drinks when others will not know?

— Have you often failed to keep a promise to yourself about controling or cutting down on your drinking?

If the answer is "yes" to any one of the above questions, you have a problem. And the best solution for that kind of problem begins with one telephone call — to Alcoholics Anonymous. They're in your telephone book. It's your move.

CONFIDENTIAL To H. I don't recommend marrying a man for his money. You may have to divorce him to get it.

By HARRIET HART

You may have called somebody "loony" or told him he is "crazy as a loon." But do you know why you made these derogatory remarks about this beautiful water bird?

The 4-page folder "Loon" says these uncomplimentary expressions were coined because of the insane quality of the loon's call which sounds like a mirthless ha-ha-ha-ha. In the evening or when a storm approaches, loons are known for their wolf-like wail which sounds like a prolonged who-who-who-o-o.

The voice is not the only distinguishing characteristic of the loon. This large bird displays an amazing dexterity in and below the water surface. It can dive with extraordinary speed and remain submerged for lengthy periods during which it travels long distances.

The folder also tells you that four species of loons can be found in Canada. The most widely known is the common loon. The other species breed only in the arctic or sub-arctic and are rarely seen.

The common loon is about the size of a small goose. In spring it sports white marks which are arranged in rows across its black back and wings. Head, neck and the 3-inch bill are also black. The eyes are red.

HONDA CAR CENTRE

NEWS BULLETIN

MOTOR TREND MAGAZINE, January 1973, says "HONDA CIVIC was chosen "CAR OF THE YEAR" by an overwhelming majority of our voters. Its bright design and practicality give it the potential to be a world-wide people's car. Its function and economy make it a masterpiece of its kind."

HONDA CIVIC is incredibly stingy with gasoline. Of all U.S. cars tested by the U.S. Environment Protection Agency the 4-speed HONDA came in first at 34.9 miles per Canadian gallon.

HONDA CAR CENTRE

NEWS BULLETIN

MOTOR TREND MAGAZINE, January 1973, says "HONDA CIVIC was chosen "CAR OF THE YEAR" by an overwhelming majority of our voters. Its bright design and practicality give it the potential to be a world-wide, people's car. Its function and economy make it a masterpiece of its kind."

HONDA CIVIC is incredibly stingy with gasoline. Of all U.S. cars tested by the U.S. Environment Protection Agency the 4-speed HONDA came in first at 34.9 miles per Canadian gallon.

Oil, Gas Rights Net $7.4M

The latest competition for provincial oil and gas rights has added $7.4 million to provincial coffers.

Mines Minister Leo Nimsick said today competitive bids on 48 parcels of oil and gas rights were accepted and resulted in the largest bonus revenue since August, 1972.

The total revenue of $7,369,840 includes $106,154 in statutory fees and rents and $7,263,685 in tender bonuses.

Nimsick said the total bonus collected for three sales this year amounts to $19.6 million which is $1.8 million more than the four sales netted in 1973.

One more round of bidding for rights will be held in November of this year.

Submarine Gives Scare

The conning tower could clearly be seen off Point Roberts and the master of the ferry asked for indentification of the foreign ship.

An armed forces spokesman said she was the USS Tautog, returning to her base in Washington after trials at the up-Island base at Nanoose.

The spokesman said pilotage officials had been notified of the submarine's scheduled run three days ago.

Cypriots Fear Turks, Hunger

By BERNARD D. NOSSITER

VIALOUSA, Cyprus (WP) — Modesto Zandes is one of the 2,500 Greek Cypriots trapped in this town beyond the Turkish front line, and he is worried about his 17-year-old daughter.

Since they came on Sunday, he says, Turkish soldiers have behaved not so badly. But he has heard tales of Turks "taking any lady they like and, I am frightened for my daughter."

Yialousa lies in the northeast panhandle of Cyprus and was cut off by the Turkish advance last week. The village, with its neat whitewashed houses, lies over the ceasefire line, just past the Turks' easternmost position. Nominally still part of Greek Cyprus, the town is very much under the Turkish thumb and the Turkish flag flies over the community.

The Turks have carefully intimidated people here by example. They carried off nine young men they thought might be terrorists and imprisoned the local judge for good measure.

The villagers say a Turkish officer warned their elders that anyone found tilling his fields until the military completes its house-to-house search for hidden arms, would be shot on sight.

But no one here complains of having been physically molested and the biggest worry is the growing shortage of food. That was the chief topic of conversation among the villagers gathered Wednesday around the empty Siabelos Hotel.

Electricity has been cut off for five days, stopping the water supply. Bread is running out, and the town's bakery, with electric ovens, can't provide any more.

People here sell their tobacco for food and other goods in Famagusta, but they are now out off from it. There hasn't been fresh milk for several days and powdered milk is disappearing. Goat herders can't look after their animals which are being slaughtered.

Demetra Ashiota, a bright 23-year-old who has been working in her family's tobacco plant, said "our food is nearly finished, coming to an end. We won't have anything in a few days. "Will the Red Cross come? Can you get the Red Cross to come," she asked some reporters who had made their way through the Turkish lines to reach Yialousa.

Like Zandes, the worried father who was working as a waiter in a resort hotel at Famagusta, she speaks English fluently.

As if to rub in Yialousa's plight, the Turks padlocked the town's one supermarket as well as some other shops.

But despite their grim prospects, the people here have few complaints of Turkish behavior. They say soldiers have helped themselves to cars on the road, taken record players, radios and watches from shops but have not looted any homes.

Those with cars won't go far except deeper into the sealed off panhandle, and then not very often. The town gas station has also been padlocked after soldiers took 100 gallons for themselves.

An American girl, 14-year old Lucy Savvides, is among those trapped in the village. She was visiting her uncle, Nicos Siambelos, the hotel owner, when the Turks pushed out from their bridgehead last Wednesday. Lucy is troubled because she can't reassure her parents in Passaic, N.J. She wants to go home, but with the telephone cut off, she can't reach the American embassy in Nicosia for help.

The Wandering road from Nicosia passes through a dozen Greek villages. But they are all ghost towns, deserted except for the Turkish soldiers lounging in them.

At Lefkoniko, about 25 miles east of Nicosia, one Greek couple still remains, they were too old to flee with the others.

They watched from their door Wednesday as a Turkish rifle platoon searched empty houses for hidden Greek Cypriot National Guardsmen. A Turkish civilian was leading the way. He lives in Lefkoniko and was showing the lieutenant in charge the likeliest places to look.

It is cold comfort for Yialousa, but Turkish villages are not much better off. In one, the local schoolmaster Suleyman shared bread, cheese and coffee with the reporters and said, it is all we have.

The war here was completely disrupted the economy and chocked off trading in countryside. But the schoolmaster, speaking for his fellow Turkish Cypriot villagers, still insists they are all grateful to Turkish soldiers for liberating them from what they say was an oppressive Greek regime.

"I hope the army stays here for ever," he said emphatically.

Saanich to Check Bad Vibrations

Saanich will check out allegations that the vibration of municipal trucks is damaging the foundation of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon's home at 4031 Lakehill.

Public works committee chairman Ald. Sandy Noel said today action will also be taken to clear up the mess and landscape the lot adjacent to the home, which has been used for dumping sand by the department.

The Gordon's moved into the house seven years ago and Mrs. Gordon claims that municipal public works activity has turned their dream home into a nightmare.

Noel ordered a dirt road that runs past the Gordon home oiled on Wednesday after Mrs. Gordon said the dust spewing from it as trucks rumbled through made living conditions unbearable.

Noel said he will also press for trees and other landscaping to be done so the offending lot will be hidden from view. Noel said the trees would also help reduce the noise pollution caused by the trucks.

NOW PIPING DELAYS FERRY WASHROOMS

Those ferry traffic lineups at the Swartz Bay terminal will continue to be mighty long for some people.

Three portable washrooms installed half a mile from the terminal as a special service for those trapped in the lengthy summer lineups are still not in operation.

The washrooms arrived in June but the holding tanks, needed for them were delayed. Now the holding tanks have arrived but the needed piping is delayed.

The washrooms still require both water and power hookups.

A spokesman said today he doubted they would be in service by the Labor Day weekend, traditional end of the summer holidays and holiday lineups.

But the washrooms will go into service sometime — and will stay where they are, for passengers caught in weekend lineups.

CITY SOCIOLOGIST RAPS LAKE SWIMMER'S PARENTS

TORONTO (CP) — A University of Victoria sociologist suggested Wednesday that Canada and Toronto "ought to have a sense of collective shame" over the Angela Kondrak swim episode Monday night.

Donald Ball, author of a study on failure and sport, was commenting on the ill-fated swim of Lake Ontario that ended just short of the 14-year-old swimmer's goal—the Toronto shore.

It lasted more than 24 hours and was veiled in controversy about methods employed to keep Angela moving when it was apparent to many in the flotilla that she was in no condition to continue her bid to become the youngest conqueror of the lake.

She foundered in the water for three hours before her parents finally implored her to come aboard a waiting harbor police boat.

Ball said that Angela's parents should be investigated.

"If it was done in a non-sport context, if someone abused their child like that, they'd be investiaged . . .

Ball also took a verbal swipe at Angela's coach, Art Dufresne, and the Toronto Harbor Police who, he felt, "should have stepped in."

The only person Ball felt blameless in the episode was Angela.

"From the press accounts it was obvious she wasn't going to make it. What was saved by allowing her to thrash around?"

CRTC Stiffens Regulations On Children's Ads

OTTAWA (CP) — Adherence to the broadcast code on children's advertising has been made a condition of broadcast licences, the Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) announced Wednesday.

The CRTC said it acted in response to the Commons broadcasting committee, which "in its report on children's advertising indicated that regardless of how excellent the procedures of self-regulation through the broadcast code might be, a stronger enforcement system would be desirable."

The CRTC said last October that all broadcasters would be required to give commitments to observe the code.

"The commission intended that the code should have virtually the strength of a CRTC regulation, while maintaining the flexibility and responsiveness of an industry code," said the CRTC statement issued Wednesday.

Since last October, both the CRTC and the Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC) have monitored children's programs on television stations.

"Concern expressed to the commission has indicated that even though the self-regulatory procedures of the code have proven effective, further assurances were required to ensure adherence to the code by legally enforceable procedures."

The new CRTC policy means that broadcasting stations which do not observe the code may lose their licences when they come up for review by the CRTC.

In addition, the CRTC said it will be formally represented at all deliberations of the children's advertising sections of the Advertising Standards Council, which have the responsibility of pre-clearing all children's commercials.

The broadcast code on children's advertising was drawn up by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters (CAB) to supplement the Canadian code of advertising standards.

The CRTC statement noted that discussions between the CAB and the CAC have led to amendment of the code of advertising standards to limit the amount of time in a television commercial that may be used to describe a premium offered with the purchase of the product being advertised.

Phone Rate Hike 'Unjust'

QUEBEC (CP) — Jean-Paul L'Allier, Quebec communications minister, described Wednesday the Canadian transport commission's decision to allow Bell Canada increased rates as "unjust, contradictory and deceptive."

L'Allier told a news conference Bell Canada lacked justification for requiring increased rates because the company had underestimated its revenues for the first half of 1974.

For the first half of this year, Bell Canada underestimated revenues by $12 million, but the company saw fit to ask for an increase of $50 million, L'Allier said.

He said the relationship between Bell Canada and its affiliates, notably Northern Electric, remains unclear and that revenues of Bell's affiliates must be tallied to determine proper rate increases.

B.C. to Enforce Fuel Guidelines

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

Legislation allowing the B.C. Energy Commission to impose mandatory guidelines for increases in the price of petroleum procucts in B.C. was proclaimed by cabinet today.

Attorney-General Alex Macdonald said sections of Part Four of the Energy Act proclaimed to act as both "a stick and a carrot" to force oil companies to follow recent provincial guidelines allowing an eight-cent a gallon increase in the price of gasoline and home heating fuel.

The sections which would actually give the commission power to control all price increases was not proclaimed, however, said Macdonald, because the cabinet hopes the guidelines sections alone will persuade oil companies to comply with the commission's wishes.

If companies don't comply, Macdonald said, the government may proclaim the enforcing section.

The "carrot" part of the legislation, said Macdonald, is a system of consumer grants promised by the government to subsidize users of high-priced petroleum products in B.C.

Details of the consumer grant system have not been announced but Macdonald said they may be offered in the fall to help householders fight increasing home heating oil costs.

The attorney-general insisted the guidelines would be mandatory under the newly-proclaimed legisltation but he would not say how they could be enforced other than through provision of the consumer grants.

The sections proclaimed by cabinet today would force companies to provide the commission with detailed information on the cost of operations and allow the commission to enter any oil refinery or other petroleum industry building to inspect the company.

Grain Docks Head for Halt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain workers here said today they plan to picket waterfront elevators Friday night if layoff notices to more than 100 employees are not rescinded.

A company spokesman said the firms will then retaliate by locking out employees at all five terminals here, bringing the export of grain from the city to a complete halt.

Union stewards were informed of the pending layoffs Wednesday afternoon, despite warnings by Grain Workers Union, Local 333, that it would consider such action a lockout.

The notices, to take effect Friday, were posted following an unsuccessful attempt the previous day by Federal Labor Minister John Munro and Wheat Board Minister Otto Lang to resolve the long labor dispute which has dragged on for nearly four months.

Since wage recommendations made by conciliation commissioner Dr. G. Neil Perry were rejected by the companies in May, a continuing slowdown by union members has reduced grain exports from Vancouver by as much as 50 per cent.

The federal government has pledged to legislate the terms of the Perry report as a binding settlement of the dispute if no agreement is reached before the regular recall of Parliament Sept. 30.

Union and company officials differed on how many employees were to be laid off.

Union Business Agent Henry Kancs said 90 workers are to be laid off at Pacific Elevators and "over half" of the 150 employees at Alberta Wheat Pool expect to be laid off.

"And there is a great possibility there will be more at the other terminals," he added.

William Mead, spokesman for the companies, said layoff notices have been posted for 50 employees at Pacific, 50 at Alberta, 30 at United Grain Growers, "and possibly others at Saskatchewan Wheat Pool."

Kancs said the union will only picket elevators where there are layoffs but added he expects all employees to be locked out, causing a total shutdown of grain handling operations.

He called the companies' move a "power play" to be used at a meeting scheduled Monday between grain company executives and Munro and Lang.

Mead said the layoffs are inevitable in the wake of an intensified union slowdown.

TOTS 'TOY' KILLS 4

MANILA (UPI)—A hand grenade exploded and killed four school children who mistook it for a toy and tossed it around like a ball, the official Philippine news agency reported today.

Three other children were seriously injured in the explosion Wednesday at a village in Zamboanga Del Sur, 500 miles south of Manila, the agency said.

The children were on their way home from school when they picked up the grenade on the road and started tossing it around like a ball, the report said.

PRICES TO RISE ON BREAD DOUGH

High packaging costs and the soaring price of ingredients means Victorians will soon face a rise in the amount of dough they'll have to pan out for bread, bakery group president John McDonald said today.

"We are presently determining our costs and will have an announcement Saturday," he said.

The head of McDonald Bakery Ltd. said 100-pound sacks of sugar used by bakers have jumped $24 in one year and now cost about $37 each.

Packaging costs have also risen sharply because of shortages of cartons, trays and plastic break wrapping.

In Toronto, bread price increases of up to 10 per cent at the wholesale level are forecast within the next few years. The percentage would be somewhat higher at the retail level.

Near-Collapse Feared By B.C. Forest Industry

The forest industry in B.C. faces a drastic increase in unemployment which could lead to a near-collapse this winter, both union and industry officials predicted today.

"The industry has practically collapsed in the province and we can't see any daylight," said Doug Evans, financial secretary of the International Woodworkers of America Vancouver local.

More than 2,000 of the local's 6,500 members have already been laid off and another 2,000 are out of work in the southern Interior. Between 1,200 and 1,500 are jobless in the New Westminster local and at least 1,165 are unemployed in the Cariboo, Duncan, Victoria and loggers' locals.

Another 2,000 men will be out of work soon in the interior unless some relief is provided, an industry spokesman said.

"The market is the worst we have ever seen it," said Peter Bentley, executive vice-president of Canadian Forest Products ltd.

"In the 1969-70 downturn it was easier to sell at sacrifice prices than it is now and in the meantime our cost structure has risen sharply. Mills are selling at below production costs."

Bentley said he didn't expect any improvement before the third quarter of 1975.

Evans agreed with Bentley's view of the situation, saying, "There are going to be masses out of work and we expect this picture to last right through the winter."

Al MacDonald, manager of the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association, blamed the situation on rising labor costs following the recent IWA contract settlement; the increasing cost of borrowing money; inflation and a general decline in housing starts especially in the U.S., the industry's major customer.

Evans put the blame on the federal government for allowing the prime interest rate to

Lumber Down 5%

The retail price of lumber in Victoria has dropped five per cent in the past two weeks and could drop even further as the industry goes into its "worst slump ever."

Herb Doman of Doman's Industries Ltd. said his company is "following the market down, but we don't know just where the bottom is yet."

John Higgins, sales supervisor of Stewart and Hudson building supply branch on Gorge Road said the average retail price of lumber had gone down five per cent this month.

He said trying to predict another drop in the domestic market price was "comparable to playing the stock market. It's really hard to tell when or if another drop will come."

But, he said, the local market will always eventually follow the foreign market "and that's down drastically."

"There is no relief in sight until the foreign market picks up again."

Bob Gonnason, manager of Irly Bird Building Supplies in Victoria, said prices in his store had also dropped five per cent.

Egg Market In a Mess —Plumptre

Times News Services

TORONTO — The federal government was blamed twice-over for the high cost of eggs by Food Prices Review Board chairman Beryl Plumptre Wednesday.

Calling the egg market a "mess," she slammed Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan for new policies governing the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency, now staggering under a $10 million deficit.

"The consumer has suffered on two counts," she told a Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon. "He has paid more than necessary for eggs at the store and now he must also pay in taxes to bail out the government."

The egg marketing agency, she said, encourages overproduction by high support prices and when demand for them drops off — because of high store prices — the eggs are sold at a loss to processors in the United States.

Stocks Slump With U.S. GNP

Times News Services

The U.S. Gross National Product dropped by .8 per cent during the second quarter of the year — the theoretical definition of a recession — and in response, Wall Street slumped to a new four-year low.

The Dow Jones average of 30 key industrial stocks fell to 699.2 after two hours of trading, the first time it has been below 700 since mid-1970 and off almost 12 points from market opening.

In later trading, the index squeaked back past the 700 mark to 704.79.

The second straight quarterly decline in the GNP was a slight improvement over preliminary figures for the period issued last month which showed a 1.2 per cent drop.

On the other hand, the commerce department said, inflation in the second quarter rose faster than reported last month — 9.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted rate instead of 8.8 per cent.

The small improvement in the GNP, which measures the growth rate of the U.S. economy, did not change the fact that the economy has failed to show "real" or non-inflated growth for two consecutive quarters. The first quarter decline was 7 per cent and was due chiefly to the energy crisis.

A two consecutive-quarter decline is the shorthand definition of "recession" but administration economists insist the situation is not bad enough to warrant that term.

Meanwhile, though it cost less to buy fresh fruits and vegetables in the U.S. in July, higher prices for mortgages, services, gasoline and other non-food items pushed the Consumer Price Index up a matching .8 per cent.

A cost-of-living report released Wednesday pushed the overall increase to almost 12 per cent in the past year.

ABDUCTED TOT STRANGLED

EINDHOVEN, Netherlands (Reuter) — Caroline Pessers, the five-year-old kidnapped daughter of a Dutch cigar magnate, is dead and a 20-year-old man has confessed to strangling her, police said today.

Caroline was dragged into a car Tuesday while playing outside her home in Aalst. Police said she was the first victim of a kidnapping for ransom in Dutch history.

A police spokesman said the young man, identified only by his initials, E. Van L. of Eindhoven, has confessed to strangling the girl.

11 Must Disclose Holdings

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Victoria city council today named those senior officials — 11 in all—who will have to disclose their land holdings and financial interests to the mayor and aldermen no later than Sept. 15, under requirements of the Public Officials and Employees Disclosure Act.

The list, says city manager Jim Bramley, is "a sincere attempt by council to come up with the names of officials who could stand to do themselves some good through their positions."

But, asked by a reporter why certain senior officials had not been included, Bramley said council had not considered it necessary to do so because the officials in question were not in positions where a serious conflict of interest could arise.

The omissions include city comptroller Mason Sheldrick, the man in charge of the city coffers, Police Chief Jack Gregory and Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

Bramley admitted they were on the 10-name list he suggested to council, which arrived at its own designations after a recent in-camera discussion.

The official list, set out in a bylaw which was scheduled for introduction at today's council meeting, names in addition to Bramley:

His administrative assistant, Colin Crisp; purchasing agent Gerry Sharpe; city engineer Jim Garnett and his deputy Bill Jorgensen; traffic engineer Dave Campbell and his deputy Derek Wild; planning director Geoff Greenhalgh and his deputy Peter Crisp; assessor-land commissioner Jack Ozard; and city solicitor Jakob de Villiers.

Twenty-six days ago Lothar Doliwa of Duncan got on his 750 c.c. Norton motorcycle for a 12-mile ride to his parents' home in Crofton—and hasn't been heard from since.

"It's as if he disappeared into thin air," his distressed parents, Hans and Hilda Doliwa, said in an interview.

Lothar, 23, isn't the kind to take off without letting someone know, they said.

He and his yellow Norton have simply vanished.

"We've checked the route he probably would have taken to our place, but no one saw him and we found nothing," Mr. and Mrs. Doliwa said.

"We even went over some of the back roads and searched for him with five of his friends."

The last time they saw or heard from him was Friday, July 26. He said he would be coming home for a visit on Sunday.

They learned he went to a friend's place in Duncan on the Saturday and stayed up talking with her until 3 a.m. Sunday. There was no hint of any problem. He returned home, got up at 8 a.m., grabbed his crash helmet and a wallet containing about $125, and left.

Jackson heard the door shut, the engine start, then went back to sleep.

The Doliwas have checked with RCMP in Bralorne (where the family lived until 1960), in Houston (where a friend lives), and with Lothar's union hall in Vancouver. Each time they drew a blank.

"My older son, Hans—he's not a religious man—but he's telling his children now when

GLASS GOES DOWN SMOOTH AS JELLO

The provincial government may have found a new way to recycle glass — feed it to the civil servants, in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Wednesday's menu in the lunchroom promised a tasty selection of pea soup, spare ribs on rice, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots — and broken glass dessert.

An alarmed cook at the cafeteria was quick to assure customers the cafeteria was not serving ground up debris from the government's refurbishing project.

Broken-glass dessert is a jello dish prepared with whipped cream and graham crackers that has a stained glass effect.

Traffic Police Can't Cope—Noel

The Saanich police force is incapable of controlling the increasing number of traffic violations Ald. Sandy Noel said today.

Noel said he will press council to hire more traffic control officers as soon as possible.

"We have to crack down on those people who have a general disregard for traffic regulations," Noel said, "We now have only two motorcycle policemen. We should have more."

Noel said the growing number of fatal accidents in the Greater Victoria area is largely atributable to speeding.

Even quiet residential streets are threatened, he said.

"Last night, about 10:45 p.m. I heard an earth-shattering squealing and looked out to see a couple — a man and a woman — who literally had to jump on my lawn to avoid a speeding car," Noel reported.

There are about 80 people in the municipal police department, Inspector Harry Adams said, to cover all facets of police protection services.

He conceded that more traffic control officers are needed.

"We're always looking for more men," Adams said, "but we're limited by our budget."

Saanich resident Don Fraser of 1161 West Burnside has complained to council about the traffic hazard on his street and says he will take the matter to the attorney-general's department if the situation doesn't improve.

Fraser suggested traffic control should be a provincial matter, small municipal forces being unable to cope with the growing problem. He said more provincial policemen such as those used at ferry terminals, could be recruited to tackle traffic control in other areas.

"A force could be compiled on the same lines as the traffic police at the ferry slips," Fraser said, "These groups of people would be solely to control traffic."

The Critic As Booster —Sport Is the Loser

It's a caution, that's what it is, how the sports writers and the sports broadcasters of radio and television have leaped on the band-wagon to keep alive the notion that we should host the next Winter Games.

Oh, I know it dates me, but I can remember when the great sports commentators — Westbrook Pegler, Jimmy Cannon, Ring Lardner, Henry McLemore, Grantland Rice and the rest — were famous as critics of sports and loved nothing better than to shaft the heros and the gladiators of their day. They gained a kind of immortality in our particular business precisely because they considered that any athletic contest, certainly any involving professionals, was a legitimate target for praise or scorn, depending upon the performance.

Today, with mighty few exceptions, sports commentators seem all but hysterically intent on making any and all games into spectaculars. They are advocates, very rarely dispassionate critics. They are box office boosters, as surely as the better-paid public relations flacks employed by the promoters, idolators of every bum with the required muscle-power to make good at his specialty. Even professional wrestling is something to be treated with a straight face.

One indirect result, though it comes more directly from the age of spectator-itis ushered in by television, is that sports have become big business, players have become larger than life so that the crudest of them — Phil Esposito, to take the first example that comes to mind — becomes a kind of legendary folk figure. You merely have to glance at any sports page to see that athletics have become a pursuit to be slavishly worshipped.

This has never seemed quite so ridiculous as it does now in the pressure — well-supported by the sports writers and broadcasters — to have the provincial government change its mind on the question of supporting a bid for the next Winter Olympics.

A petition seeking some hundred thousand names — easily obtained if one is to believe the statistics on the incredible numbers of our citizens who sit hunched in their darkened living rooms to watch others play games — will be one method of applying the heat to win a hoped-for policy-change in Victoria.

I am one of those who hope Victoria will stand pat since I gave a small cheer when the provincial government, having carefuly weighed the issue on the question of spending priorities, decided that there were better places to put our money.

The reaction from Vancouver — notably from its millionaire, promotion-minded mayor and from those who are similarly afflicted with the mania for spectator sports — has been a howl of anguish. Of course if the provincial government had turned down a request for under-writing a musical festival or a literary gathering or anything at all that might enrich our intellectually parochial existence the protests would be no more than a murmur.

If we're to believe the minister of land, forests and water resources or the minister of recreation and conservation, the provincial government's reluctance was purely a question of dollar-and-cents. It did not seem quite right to use the taxpayers' money for an enterprise that might run to $100 millions, particularly when a good deal of it would be funnelled off into private profits.

I hope, and strongly suspect, that there may have been more to it than just that. We happen to be in a period when there's the almost daily reminder that we're a people in real danger of exposing ourselves to sedentary health problems, that we are, to put more directly, a nation of slobs. On the very day that the Vancouver mayor was launching a campaign to bring the Olympics here I chanced to hear two plaintive commercials urging the citizenry to walk a mile or so each day because we're in perfectly awful shape physically.

This is the real point of the matter. The need to put a large public investment into spectator sports that will last 10 days, however much they may liven up the columns or programs of the sports commentators, is clearly a lot less urgent than the need to invest in the participant sports that will go on the year-round. In the case of Whistler Mountain, itself, it is surely nonsense to subsidize the prima donnas of winter sports when the money might be used to encourage some overweight crud to creep away from his magic lantern into the great outdoors.

We'd have a better perspective on all this, in my opinion, if our sports commentators were less inclined to shout "hurrah" and more inclined to shout "phooey" when they chronicle the deeds of those who play for profit.

Canning Lids Flipped East

Eastern manufacturers are favoring their established eastern markets and aggravating a shortage of canning lids in B.C., Consumer Affairs Minister Phyllis Young said Wednesday.

Because of the eastern preference, B.C. has been depending on U.S. suppliers, said Young, but the U.S., in turn, has been favoring its domestic market over B.C.

The minister made the announcement as the result of preliminary reports from departmental officials investigating the shortage of home canning supplies in B.C.

"There is no short run solution (to the shortage)," she said, "and it is not likely that adequate supplies will be available for several months."

The investigation is continuing.

School Board to Tackle Selling Its Own Supplies

Local stores selling school supplies will get some competition from Greater Victoria school district starting next week.

The district is beginning a pilot project of selling school supplies at cost in seven elementary schools this fall.

Most items will be about half the price parents would pay in stores, purchasing coordinator Ray Cantelon said Wednesday.

For six schools — James Bay, Blanshard, Burnside, George Jay, Quadra and Oaklands — supplies have been packaged in kits for each child according to grade.

The seventh, Sundance elementary, will distribute the supplies among parents itself.

The kits vary in price from $1.97 for Grade 1 to $5.58 for Grade 7. The Grade 1 kit contains pencils, notebooks, erasers, ruler, crayons, blunt scissors, glue and kleenex.

The $12,000 worth of supplies for 2,700 children go on sale at the schools Aug. 29.

If local stores are worried about school board competition, they're not talking about it.

A spokesman for the Hudson's Bay Company said the idea was nothing new, and The Bay is living with it in other cities.

It's going to cut down on the amount we're going to sell," Jim Clark, merchandising manager of K-Mart, admitted.

He said some Alberta school boards also sell supplies, and this has cut into store sales.

"I know in Alberta school opening isn't nearly as big as it is here," Clark said. However the losses won't be too serious, he added.

Prince George School District has been selling school supplies at cost for several years and the project has worked so well there the district now sells to other school districts.

Lowering Heat Can Put Heat On Landlords

Tenants in Victoria who have had essential services curtailed or cut off by landlords can take action under a city by-law and one group has done so successfully.

City solicitor Jakob de Villiers said today the Regulation of Dwellings bylaw requires landlords to maintain essential services such as heat, lighting and water supply for their tenants.

Following complaints from city tenants of inadequate heat and water, a landlady was persuaded by city to restore adequate service, he said.

He was commenting on recent complaints from some tenants that landlords have curtailed or withdrawn some services as a means of economizing under the current rent freeze.

Among complaints from some older tenants are heat being shut off in their buildings, caretakers being withdrawn, garbage chutes being closed, hallways not being cleaned and necessary repairs not being done.

"I don't think they (tenants) are helpless if anything like this happens," de Villiers said. Complaints will be investigated by the city's bylaw enforcement staff.

The main remedy to such problems will come Oct. 1 when the provincial government plans to proclaim the new Landlord and Tenant Act, Attorney-General Alex Macdonald said Wednesday.

The rentalsman established under the act will hear complaints from tenants and will also have power to authorize rent increases above the current eight per cent limit where landlords can justify them, he said.

Meanwhile, Macdonald said he thinks tenants denied essential services will probably find a sympathetic ear in small debts court.

"It seems to mne a judge would look askance at essential services being withdrawn," he said. "I think these things involve breach of contract."

$1.6M Addition At Law Courts To Start Soon

A $1.68 million, two-storey addition to the Victoria Law Courts building was announced today by Public Works Minister Bill Hartley.

First tenders will be called within a month for the 27-foot high addition to the three-storey building on the corner of Burdett and Blanshard.

The addition, which will accommodate offices of the attorney-general's department and other related branches, will provide an additional 29,000 square feet to the 162,000 square feet now provided in the 14-year-old building.

Hartley said he hoped the new addition will be completed within two years but operations within the building will not be halted during construction.

The project will be handled under a construction management system with first tenders for the basic structure being called soon.

Tenders for other sections of the project will be called as construction progresses.

Hartley agreed that inflation is a problem in estimating costs but he felt the $1.68 million figure had adequately accounted for escalating prices.

The preliminary sketches for the addition were prepared by Siddal, Dennis and Warner of Victoria with working drawings by the department or public works.

Alterations to the existing building will also be made to meet with building code requirements.

A new staircase will be added to the exterior of the building to provide additional exits from the two courtroom floors.

A new fire alarm system will be installed throughout the building with ionization smoke detectors installed in ventilation ducts at various locations throughout the building.

99-Year Leases Out Without City's Nod

City solicitor Jakob de Villiers has warned a leasing agency that it cannot enter into 99-year leases for suites at the Orchard House apartment in James Bay without first seeking city council approval.

In a letter to Pacific Strata Services Ltd., which recently has been advertising long-term leases for sale in Orchard House, de Villiers notes that the requirement for council approval is contained in a section of the Landlord and Tenant Act proclaimed Aug. 9.

Since that date, he says, the firm has continued advertising the leases.

"If it comes to my notice that you are still advertising these leases or that you are entering into any such leases you will be prosecuted," he adds.

Today, de Villiers told a reporter the firm has been in contact with him since he wrote the letter Tuesday, claiming it is not acting in contravention of the act because the building was leased to "a company" last May and therefore the question of entering into new leases doesn't arise.

. . . "you'll be prosecuted"

He said he didn't know whether the company concerned was Pacific Strata Services, and no spokesman for that firm could be reached for clarification this morning.

Last month tenants of the highrise apartment voiced concern for their tenure on learning that Pacific Strata Services were not re-letting vacant suites but offering them for sale on 99-year leases.

The tenants wrote to Mayor Peter Pollen and Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson seeking assurances they would not be evicted if they chose not to buy their own suites.

Subsequently Bud O'Connor, Victoria office manager for the firm, promised no such tenants would be evicted and said the sales program was concentrating solely on apartments coming vacant through normal attrition.

Orchard House is owned by Vancouver developer George Mulek, whose firm Westsea Construction Ltd. also built the highrise at View and Quadra which has been so frequently criticized on its appearance.

On Wednesday a tenant at the View Towers building said the owners are claiming they have no vacant suites, although some tenants have moved out, and there is concern that the building may be converted to condominiums.

Substantial federal financing went into the project on the provision that it would be used for low-rental apartments.

Temporary Jobs Come Into Vogue

A more mobile work force in B.C. has boosted the need for temporary jobs and firms providing short-time help are busier than ever.

We've had more of a demand in the past year and a half that we've ever had before," said Louise Green, manager of the Victoria branch of Office Overload.

Office Overload has an average of 150 people registered during the year and about 100 working during the peak times of mid-May to the end of August.

Not only are more businesses interested in hiring office help as it's needed on a temporary basis, but there are also more people looking for temporary work, Mrs. Green said.

She attributes the upsurge of interest in temporary work to the increasing mobility of people in Canada.

"More and more people are living a far more casual life than they did even 10 years ago.

"Our books used to be filled with mostly housewives, but now we have a lot of single people who are travelling across the country and may be staying in Victoria for two or three months and who want to work for some of that time."

Housewives still are interested in temporary work, especially in the winter, Mrs. Green said, when their children are at school and they have free time.

The type of firms that hire temporary help varies from a small private business to a large corporation to government agencies.

The reasons for hiring the temporary help also vary — month-end or year-end statements, regular employees off sick or on holiday or just a pile-up in work.

The temporary office industry provided a payroll of about $4 million last year for more than 12,000 temporary workers in B.C.

Temporary help firms first appeared in Canada in the mid-1940s and in B.C. about 20 years ago.

Although in early years some firms were criticized for alleged exploitation of workers, today that criticism has been stilled and the industry has been accepted as an important segment of the business life of the country.

One sign of its maturity has been the formation of the Canadian Association of Temporary Service (CATS), the industry's official voice.

CATS can present briefs on behalf of all its members, such as a recent brief to the labor department of the provincial government.

WOMEN FLAIL PEOPLE TALKS

Times News Services

BUCHAREST — Feminists accused the UN-sponsored World Population Conference today of "incomprehensible" bias and demanded a greater say in drafting plans to limit the Earth's inhabitants.

Author Betty Friedan said the UN organized the conference "over the prone body of woman." Writer Germaine Greer said the delegates treated women as mere baby factories.

A group of delegates at the 149-nation meeting introduced an amendment to the draft action plan calling for the integration of women in future economic development programs.

"It would take more than 150 words to alter the whole bias of the plan of action, but it was more than any of us could do to sit silent and let such a plan be accepted," said Ms. Greer, author of the "Female Eunuch."

The amendment urges governments to bring women into the development process by providing education, employment and political participation on an equal basis with men.

"The failure of the plan to recognize that if women are offered no alternative role to childbearing, then they will never be motivated to contribute to their society in any other way, is incomprehensible," Ms. Greer said.

Anthropologist Margaret Mead, a conference delegate, advised the women, however, to work through official channels and cautioned them against making population control a feminist issue.

Cattalos, Cheasants On Menu?

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Cheasants and cattalos might be main dishes on future Canadian menus.

Both are hybrid animals being developed by University of Guelph researchers, one a cross between a chicken and pheasant and the other the offspring of a cow and bison buffalo.

Prof. P. K. Basrur of the department of biomedical sciences is investigating hybrid problems to better understand genetic aspects of cross-breeding. But the researchers also hope to develop two commercially-viable animals for consumption as well.

Prof. Basrur first heard of cheasants when he read that ancient German monarchs bred them for feasts. But he is facing the same problems as the old kings—sterility in the male hybrids and lack of functional reproductive organs in the female.

Several breeding projects involving cattalos have been carried out in North America since the turn of the century, but none of these produced a commercially-viable animal because of sterility and difficulty at calving time.

Prof. Basrur said research with cattalos has been going on at Guelph since 1968, but the work is slow because of long gestation and maturity times and the fact that only one offspring is born at once.

China Reveals Population

TOKYO (AP) — China has told the world for the first time since 1957 how many people it has: almost 800 million. The disclosure ends years of speculation by outsiders.

The last official population tally, released 17 years ago, showed 656.6 million people.

The new official figure was given in a speech Wednesday to the world population conference in Bucharest by Huang Shu-tse, Peking's delegate. Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, distributed the text of the speech today.

Huang left unanswered the important questions of whether the growth rate has stabilized or how fast the population is growing.

But he said that since Mao Tse-tung's Communists took over the mainland in 1949, China's population has grown by almost 60 per cent, from "about 500 million to nearly 800 million."

Class Size Guessing Game

When all the capital region's school-age children flock back to classes Sept. 3, school board officials will find out how good their guessing is.

If they're wrong and enrolments jump beyond their expectations, all the headaches caused by overcrowded schools result.

Most of the decline is in the older areas of the city, where retired couples are replacing young families. Here, in schools like Margaret Jenkins elementary, there are empty classrooms.

Families with children are moving out of the city, to Colwood and Metchosin, to the Saanich Peninsula, and to Gordon Head.

Enrolment at Gordon Head elementary is expected to exceed the school's capacity, so four portable classrooms have been leased to take the overload.

However, the portables won't be delivered until the end of September, and contingency plans are being made to handle the overload until they arrive.

This may involve busing some pupils to another school, or creating large classrooms, or going on a shift system, said director of instruction Dr. John Wiens.

The school board is planning to build two new elementary schools in the Gordon Head area, one around Arbutus junior secondary school, the other in the Ash-Torquay area.

A high school is also planned for a site next to Lambrick Park.

Another crowded school in the district will be Colquitz junior secondary. Plans have been made to bus some students who would normally go to Colquitz over to Shoreline junior secondary for classes.

Sooke School District, one of the fastest-growing districts in B.C., is expected to have around 500 more students in September over last year's 7,704.

The school board had leased 14 portables to handle the expected overload at schools.

The district is building a $500,000 addition to Dunsmuir junior secondary school, is planning an 800-student junior secondary school at Spencer and Goldstream for September 1975, and has another elementary school planned.

Saanich School District expects 6,466 students to show up this fall, 800 more than last year.

The district has eight new portables to provide extra classroom space, and is making plans for a South Sidney elementary school to open in September 1975.

CRASH KILLS ISLAND MAN

A 27-year-old Port Alice man was killed and three others injured when their car left Highway 19 about five miles north of Courtenay at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday.

RCMP have not released the name of the victim, who was the driver.

Fisherman Found Dead After Crash

A 62-year-old Vancouver fisherman was found dead in the wheelhouse of his gillnetter after colliding with a log-boom near Campbell River early Wednesday morning.

RCMP said the man, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin in Norway, apparently died of a heart attack.

Police said a tug towing two booms of logs had just come out of Seymour Narrows at 1 a.m. when it spotted a gillnetter circling erractically.

The fishing boat narrowly missed the tug, bounced over a tow line but then came around again and hit bow first into the first boom, climbed on the logs and keeled over.

Crew from the tug recovered the body which had become caught up in the wheel, and towed the badly damaged fishboat to Campbell River.

Fire Causes $2,000 Damages

A mattress fire caused $2,000 damage, mainly smoke, in a bedroom of a triplex at 3331 Maplewood early today.

A Saanich fire department spokesman said Douglas Allen Scott and Maurice Houle, both in their late 20s and the only occupants of the suite, escaped safely.

Scott, who had fallen asleep in the living room, was awakened by smoke filling the room and turned in the alarm at 4:34 a.m.

Firemen have not determined the cause but believe it may have been a malfunction in a head lamp above the bed in the unoccupied bedroom.

B.C. to Enforce Fuel Guidelines

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

Legislation allowing the B.C. Energy Commission to impose mandatory guidelines for increases in the price of petroleum products in B.C. was proclaimed by cabinet today.

Attorney-General Alex Macdonald said sections of Part Four of the Energy Act proclaimed to act as both "a stick and a carrot" to force oil companies to follow recent provincial guidelines allowing an eight-cent a gallon increase in the price of gasoline and home heating fuel.

The sections which would actually give the commission power to control all price increases was not proclaimed, however, said Macdonald, because the cabinet hopes the guidelines sections alone will persuade oil companies to comply with the commission's wishes.

If companies don't comply, Macdonald said, the government may proclaim the enforcing section.

The "carrot" part of the legislation, said Macdonald, is a system of consumer grants promised by the government to subsidize users of high-priced petroleum products in B.C.

Oil companies who do not comply with price guidelines would not be eligible for those grants.

Details of the consumer grant system have not been announced but Macdonald said they may be offered in the fall to help householders fight increasing home heating oil costs.

The attorney-general insisted the guidelines would be mandatory under the newly-proclaimed legislation but he would not say how they could be enforced other than through provision of the consumer grants.

The sections proclaimed by cabinet today would force companies to provide the commission with detailed information on the cost of operations and allow the commission to enter any oil refinery or other petroleum industry building to inspect the company.

Grain Docks Head for Halt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain workers here said today they plan to picket waterfront elevators Friday night if layoff notices to more than 100 employees are not rescinded.

A company spokesman said the firms will then retaliate by locking out employees at all five terminals here, bringing the export of grain from the city to a complete halt.

Union stewards were informed of the pending layoffs Wednesday afternoon, despite warnings by Grain Workers Union, Local 333, that it would consider such action a lockout.

The notices, to take effect Friday, were posted following an unsuccessful attempt the previous day by Federal Labor Minister John Munro and Wheat Board Minister Otto Lang to resolve the long labor dispute which has dragged on for nearly four months.

Since wage recommendations made by conciliation commissioner Dr. G. Neil Perry were rejected by the companies in May, a continuing slowdown by union members has reduced grain exports from Vancouver by as much as 50 per cent.

The federal government has pledged to legislate the terms of the Perry report as a binding settlement of the dispute if no agreement is reached before the regular recall of Parliament Sept. 30.

Union and company officials differed on how many employees were to be laid off.

Union Business Agent Henry Kancs said 90 workers are to be laid off at Pacific Elevators and "over half" of the 150 employees at Alberta Wheat Pool expect to be laid off.

"And there is a great possibility there will be more at the other terminals," he added.

William Mead, spokesman for the companies, said layoff notices have been posted for 50 employees at Pacific; 50 at Alberta, 30 at United Grain Growers, "and possibly others at Saskatchewan Wheat Pool."

Kancs said the union will only picket elevators where there are layoffs but added he expects all employees to be locked out, causing a total shutdown of grain handling operations.

He called the companies' move a "power play" to be used at a meeting scheduled Monday between grain company executives and Munro and Lang.

Mead said the layoffs are inevitable in the wake of an intensified union slowdown.

TOTS 'TOY' KILLS 4

MANILA (UPI)—A hand grenade exploded and killed four school children who mistook it for a toy and tossed it around like a ball, the official Philippine news agency reported today.

Three other children were seriously injured in the explosion Wednesday at a village in Zamboanga Del Sur, 500 miles south of Manila, the agency said.

The children were on their way home from school when they picked up the grenade on the road and started tossing it around like a ball, the report said.

PRICES TO RISE ON BREAD DOUGH

High packaging costs and the soaring price of ingredients means Victorians will soon face a rise in the amount of dough they'll have to pan out for bread, bakery group president John McDonald said today.

"We are presently determining our costs and will have an announcement Saturday," he said.

The head of McDonald Bakery Ltd. said 100-pound sacks of sugar used by bakers have jumped $24 in one year and now cost about $37 each.

Packaging costs have also risen sharply because of shortages of cartons, trays and plastic break wrapping.

In Toronto, bread price increases of up to 10 per cent at the wholesale level are forecast within the next few years. The percentage would be somewhat higher at the retail level.

Most Active Stocks

Prices were down in light trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today. Total volume was 1,245,555 shares.

In the industrials, Q Broadcasting was unchanged at $3.75 on 19,000 shares. Imperial Marine was unchanged at .10 on 3,000 shares. Wardair was unchanged at $1.50 on 2,100 shares.

Near-Collapse Feared In B.C. Forest Industry

The forest industry in B.C. faces a drastic increase in unemployment which could lead to a near-collapse this winter, both union and industry officials predicted today.

"The industry has practically collapsed in the province and we can't see any daylight," said Doug Evans, financial secretary of the International Woodworkers of America Vancouver local.

More than 2,000 of the local's 6,500 members have already been laid off and another 2,000 are out of work in the southern Interior. Between 1,200 and 1,500 are jobless in the New Westminster local and at least 1,165 are unemployed in the Cariboo, Duncan, Victoria and loggers' locals.

Another 2,000 men will be out of work soon in the interior unless some relief is provided, an industry spokesman said.

"The market is the worst we have ever seen it," said Peter Bentley, executive vice-president of Canadian Forest Products ltd.

"In the 1969-70 downturn it was easier to sell at sacrifice prices than it is now and in the meantime our cost structure has risen sharply. Mills are selling at below production costs."

Bentley said he didn't expect any improvement before the third quarter of 1975.

Evans agreed with Bentley's view of the situation, saying, "There are going to be masses out of work and we expect this picture to last right through the winter."

Al MacDonald, manager of the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association, blamed the situation on rising labor costs following the recent IWA contract settlement; the increasing cost of borrowing money; inflation and a general decline in housing starts especially in the U.S., the industry's major customer.

Evans put the blame on the federal government for allowing the prime interest rate to

Lumber Down 5%

The retail price of lumber in Victoria has dropped five per cent in the past two weeks and could drop even further as the industry goes into its "worst slump ever."

Herb Doman of Doman's Industries Ltd. said his company is "following the market down, but we don't know just where the bottom is yet."

John Higgins, sales supervisor of Stewart and Hudson building supply branch on Gorge Road said the average retail price of lumber had gone down five per cent this month.

He said trying to predict another drop in the domestic market price was "comparable to playing the stock market. It's really hard to tell when or if another drop will come."

But, he said, the local market will always eventually follow the foreign market "and that's down drastically."

"There is no relief in sight until the foreign market picks up again."

Bob Gonnason, manager of Irly Bird Building Supplies in Victoria, said prices in his store had also dropped five per cent.

Egg Market In a Mess —Plumptre

Times News Services

TORONTO — The federal government was blamed twice-over for the high cost of eggs by Food Prices Review Board chairman Beryl Plumptre Wednesday.

Calling the egg market a "mess," she slammed Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan for new policies governing the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency, now staggering under a $10 million deficit.

"The consumer has suffered on two counts," she told a Canadian National Exhibition directors luncheon. "He has paid more than necessary for eggs at the store and now he must also pay in taxes to bail out the government."

The egg marketing agency, she said, encourages overproduction by high support prices and when demand for them drops off — because of high store prices — the eggs are sold at a loss to processors in the United States.

Stocks Slump With U.S. GNP

Times News Services

The U.S. Gross National Product dropped by .8 per cent during the second quarter of the year — the theoretical definition of a recession — and in response, Wall Street slumped to a new four-year low.

The Dow Jones average of 30 key industrial stocks fell to 699.2 after two hours of trading, the first time it has been below 700 since mid-1970 and off almost 12 points from market opening.

In later trading, the index squeaked back past the 700 mark to 704.79.

The second straight quarterly decline in the GNP was a slight improvement over preliminary figures for the period issued last month which showed a 1.2 per cent drop.

On the other hand, the commerce department said, inflation in the second quarter rose faster than reported last month — 9.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted rate instead of 8.8 per cent.

The small improvement in the GNP, which measures the growth rate of the U.S. economy, did not change the fact that the economy has failed to show "real" or non-inflated growth for two consecutive quarters. The first quarter decline was 7 per cent and was due chiefly to the energy crisis.

A two consecutive-quarter decline is the shorthand definition of "recession" but administration economists insist the situation is not bad enough to warrant that term.

Meanwhile, though it cost less to buy fresh fruits and vegetables in the U.S. in July, higher prices for mortgages, services, gasoline and other non-food items pushed the Consumer Price Index up a matching .8 per cent.

A cost-of-living report released Wednesday pushed the overall increase to almost 12 per cent in the past year.

ABDUCTED TOT STRANGLED

EINDHOVEN, Netherlands (Reuter) — Caroline Pessers, the five-year-old kidnapped daughter of a Dutch cigar magnate, is dead and a 20-year-old man has confessed to strangling her, police said today.

Caroline was dragged into a car Tuesday while playing outside her home in Aalst. Police said she was the first victim of a kidnapping for ransom in Dutch history.

A police spokesman said the young man, identified only by his initials, E. Van L. of Eindhoven, has confessed to strangling the girl.

11 Must Disclose Holdings

Victoria city council today named those senior officials — 11 in all — who will have to disclose their land holdings and financial interests to the mayor and aldermen no later than Sept. 15, under requirements of the Public Officials and Employees Disclosure Act.

The list, says city manager Jim Bramley, is "a sincere attempt by council to come up with the names of officials who could stand to do themselves some good through their positions."

But, asked by a reporter why certain senior officials had not been included, Bramley said council had not considered it necessary to do so because the officials in question were not in positions where a serious conflict of interest could arise.

The omissions include city comptroller Mason Sheldrick, the man in charge of the city coffers, Police Chief Jack Gregory and Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

Bramley admitted they were on the 10-name list he suggested to council, which arrived at its own designations after a recent in-camera discussion.

The official list, set out in a bylaw which was scheduled for introduction at today's council meeting, names in addition to Bramley:

Cyclist 'Disappeared Into Thin Air'

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Twenty-six days ago Lothar Doliwa of Duncan got on his 750 c.c. Norton motorcycle for a 12-mile ride to his parents' home in Crofton—and hasn't been heard from since.

"It's as if he disappeared into thin air," his distressed parents, Hans and Hilda Doliwa, said in an interview.

Lothar, 23, isn't the kind to take off without letting someone know, they said.

He and his yellow Norton have simply vanished.

"We've checked the route he probably would have taken to our place, but no one saw him and we found nothing," Mr. and Mrs. Doliwa said.

"We even went over some of the back roads and searched for him with five of his friends."

The last time they saw or heard from him was Friday, July 26. He said he would be coming home for a visit on Sunday.

They learned he went to a friend's place in Duncan on the Saturday and stayed up talking with her until 3 a.m. Sunday. There was no hint of any problem. He returned home, got up at 8 a.m., grabbed his crash helmet and a wallet containing about $125, and left.

Jackson heard the door shut, the engine start, then went back to sleep.

The Doliwas have checked with RCMP in Bralorne (where the family lived until 1960), in Houston (where a friend lives), and with Lothar's union hall in Vancouver. Each time they drew a blank.

"My older son, Hans—he's not a religious man—but he's telling his children now when

GLASS GOES DOWN SMOOTH AS JELLO

The provincial government may have found a new way to recycle glass — feed it to the civil servants, in the Douglas Building cafeteria.

Wednesday's menu in the lunchroom promised a tasty selection of pea soup, spare ribs on rice, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots — and broken glass dessert.

An alarmed cook at the cafeteria was quick to assure customers the cafeteria was not serving ground up debris from the government's refurbishing project.

Broken-glass dessert is a jello dish prepared with whipped cream and graham crackers that has a stained glass effect.
